Senate Rejects SST Proposal Once Again

Filibuster To Continue Over Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate rejected the proposed supersonic transport (SST) for the second time today, turning down a desperate move by its backers to cut off a filibuster.

Backers of a proposed $210 million taxpayer subsidy for development of the commercial faster-than-sound airliner failed in their move to force an end to debate. The action could force a compromise to put off a final decision until some time next year.

The vote on the cloture petition was 43 to 48, falling 18 votes short of the required two-thirds of those present and voting.

Meantime, the Senate was still locked in the throes of a filibuster that has held up at least seven major bills, including the SST outlay. Senate leaders called a series of mediation meetings on each of the issues today in hopes of breaking the snarl.

President Nixon in a meeting with Republican congressional leaders said today the Congress should "go into round the clock sessions including Sundays" in a determined effort to act on the SST and other major legislation.

Nixon made the appeal in a meeting at the White House with Senate Republican leaders Hugh Scott and Robert Griffin, and House GOP leaders Gerald Ford and Leslie Arends.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield immediately rejected Nixon's suggestion.

He said round-the-clock sessions were unproductive, but he would be willing to have Sunday sessions if necessary.

"I have always been against those all-night sessions because you can accomplish more in a shorter period of time with day sessions than you can in a longer period of time with night sessions," he said.

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., floor manager of the SST measure, told his colleagues just before the vote that the issue was simple: "Do you want to kill it and bury it, or do you want it to live?"

But other senators believed today's vote might simply lead to a compromise in which a final decision would be postponed to the 92nd Congress.

The SST subsidy had been sliced from the Transportation Department budget ealier in the year but the House refused to go along. A joint conference committee, composed mainly of SST backers, returned the bill to the Senate with the money intact and angry opponents of the plane launched a filibuster in hopes of forcing a deadlock before the 91st Congress expires Jan. 3.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., claiming that thousands of Boeing Corp. workers in his state would be displaced unless the funds were included, pleaded with his colleagues to reverse their earlier decision.

"The issue before the Senate is whether American workers are going to build this plane or whether the job will be done in Britain, France and Russia," Jackson said. Those three countries already are building a faster-than-sound jetliner.

But Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the real issue was no less than "preservation of the Senate as a functioning part of government." If it gives in to the House again, he told his colleagues, "you'll have a nice prestigious job with no responsibility."

Opponents of the SST contend it would seriously disrupt the environment, both with the noise of sonic booms and pollution.

But Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., called these assertions "nothing but pure unadulterated poppycock."

Inmate On Death Row Gets Life

A man who has spent four-and-a-half years on San Quentin's Death Row for the murder of a San Rafael bartender, yesterday received a new sentence of life imprisonment from a Marin judge.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson gave the life sentence to Marc C. Osuna after a jury in superior court deadlocked 7-to-5 over whether he should receive life or death. A unanimous verdict is required.

Osuna, 35, and Jack R. Gorman, 41, were convicted of the slaying of bartender Mario Ferrari during the 1965 Labor Day holdup of the Mission Inn Tavern.

The California Supreme Court upheld their convictions but ordered new penalty trials to determine if the two should receive life sentences or the death penalty.

Osuna's new trial lasted six weeks and the jury was out for four hours yesterday before reporting it was hopelessly deadlocked. It was learned that seven jurors favored the death penalty and five, life.

In giving Osuna a life sentence, Judge Wilson acted under a law which gave him the choice of either ordering a new penalty trial or passing sentence in the event of a jury deadlock. Osuna would be eligible for future parole under Wilson's decision.

Both Osuna and Gorman were parolees from San Quentin at the time of the robbery. They were convicted of shooting Ferrari when he tried to escape as they held him at gunpoint. Ferrari had told the bandits he was going for police.

MARC C. OSUNA
Death sentence lifted

Bar owner Leo Albertoni testified that Ferrari collapsed and died in the street as Osuna and Gorman scooped up the night's receipts and fled.

During Osuna's retrial, San Quentin officials testified that he had caused no trouble on death row during his long stay. Osuna was defended by court-appointed attorney Ernest L. Graves of Los Angeles. The new penalty phase trial was prosecuted by Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino.

Gorman is scheduled to be retried sometime next year.

Drug-Laden Plane, Marinite Are Linked

I-J Special Report

HERAKLION, Greece — A Marin County man was identified yesterday in a Greek court as the person who provided a private plane allegedly used to smuggle $500,000 worth of hashish into Greece last August.

The Marinite, Robert F. Black, 29, of Forest Knolls, is one of five defendants on trial here on charges growing out of the alleged smuggling bid. Each faces up to 10 years in prison.

Another of the defendants, a retired U.S. Air Force officer, testified yesterday he piloted the plane but unaware it contained 1,325 pounds of hashish. The witness, John R. Moore, 50, said Black provided the plane and that he was told by the Marinite it was to be used to fly political refugees out of the Middle East.

(The trial opened Thursday amid reports in Marin County that an attempt would be made to rescue the five by the captain of a converted subchaser that was raided in Tiburon last year by local narcotics agents.

(Sources said the captain, Gerald N. McDonald, a 30-year-old Navy veteran, was asked by the attorney who formerly represented some of the defendants in the Greek case about the possibility of using the boat to free the five.

(The attorney, Michael Metzger, 33-year-old former federal prosecutor in San Francisco, since arrested himself on drug counts, has claimed through his attorney that disclosure of the alleged escape plot was being used to frame him.)

The others on trial in Greece are Phillip Erwin Amos, 30, of Sacramento, co-pilot of the plane; Kenneth Connel, 28, also of Sacramento, and David Lee Mantell, 30, of San Francisco.

Moore said he was approached by Black and paid a $5,000 advance fee to fly passengers and cargo in Europe.

Moore, described by police officers testifying for the prosecution earlier in the day as "very cooperative," spoke at the trial through an interpreter from a nearby U.S. air base.

He told the court that he first flew the plane Black provided to Pennsylvania to be fitted with extra gas tanks for trans-Atlantic flight.

When the plane was in Nicosia, Cyprus, "I was told by Black that we were going to Lebanon to pick up high political refugees," said the pilot.

Moore said he first landed the plane, a Martin 230, at Beirut Airport where he

Apartment Dweller Overcome By Smoke

Tiburon firemen braved intense heat and smoke early today to carry an unconscious woman from her blazing apartment.

Elaine Griffiths, 59, of 15 Harbor Oak Drive, later was listed in fair condition at Marin General Hospital with first and second degree burns and suffering from smoke inhalation. Her husband, John, 58, was treated for smoke inhalation.

The fire, whose cause is unknown, was first spotted at 6:05 a.m. by a Belvedere police officer while on routine patrol in that city.

According to Charles W. Pruett, fire inspector, the flames were visible for miles against a clear morning sky.

Firemen had the fire under control by 6:25 a.m. Mopup operations continued at 9 a.m.

Pruett said the department responded to the call within minutes but the apartment already was pouring flames 15 feet into the air through a glass wall which had shattered from the heat.

He credited teamwork and prompt action by fire crews for Mrs. Griffiths's rescue.

He said while two pumper trucks and crews directed about 1,200 gallons of water per minute into the second story apartment, Lt. John T. Grback and Inspector Wallace N. Howie donned breathing gear apparatus and entered the building in search of Mrs. Griffiths. They found her unconscious on the apartment floor.

As neighbors and her husband stood outside watching, Mrs. Griffiths was taken to an awaiting ambulance and rushed to the hospital.

No estimate has been established for the loss pending a full investigation, he said. The apartment was gutted.

About 20 men responded to the call.

WORKER USES SIX-SHOOTER ON MACHINE

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Harold Arnold of Del City, Okla., Friday deposited 35 cents in a vending machine in the basement of the city hall and reached in to get a sandwich. The machine kept revolving and caught his hand.

Arnold, a watchman, pulled his pistol and shot the machine twice. The second shot severed some wires and Arnold got his hand out.

The city suspended Arnold's guard commission pending an investigation.

Students In 'Kill' Talks With Thieu

SAIGON (UPI)—Angry South Vietnamese students today confronted President Nguyen Van Thieu with charges that American troops have killed "innocent women and children," a Saigon newspaper reported.

The report by the newspaper Doc Lap reflected a wave of anti-American feeling in South Vietnam. It came a few hours after Viet Cong gunners fired two rockets into Saigon in a raid that killed six civilians, including two women and four children.

Doc Lap, a newspaper which is generally critical of the Saigon government, said the student charges were presented to Thieu as he visited the Mekong Delta town of Can Tho to attend a commencement ceremony.

It said the students "swarmed into an office where President Thieu was meeting with the dean of the law school at Can Tho University and handed him a note.

"The note accused foreign troops of placing little value on the lives of Vietnamese or of

'Go-Slow' Strikes Spreading In Poland

WARSAW (UPI)—Diplomatic sources today reported widespread go-slow strikes in Warsaw factories by workers protesting increases in food prices. Emergency police forces were said to have moved into the factories to combat the labor unrest.

Official reports said life had returned to normal in the three Baltic seaports of Gdansk, Gdynia and Sopot where bloody food riots erupted earlier this week.

But communications were cut between Warsaw and the northern city of Szczecin (Stettin) where fierce riots took place Thursday. There also was no word for a time from Katowice, a southwestern steel town where strikes had been reported.

The government appeared to be backing off from early hardline assessments of the rioting. Communists in the crisis area of northern Poland said they were disappointed in students and workers and admitted the party's approach to them may have been wrong.

Warsaw college students were told today to go home and begin their Christmas recess four days ahead of schedule. The move was taken to deprive students of a place to meet and plan riots like those which took place here in 1968.

Diplomatic sources said Warsaw factories affected by the go-slow protests included the Zeran car works, the Nova Warszava steel mill and the printing plant which publishes Trybuna Ludu, the official newspaper of the Polish Communist party.

In response, the sources said, the government mobilized the Ormo, a paramilitary force under police command which serves as a kind of national guard.

Ormo men, dressed in battle fatigues and bright blue berets, pulled up to most Warsaw factories in trucks, the sources said, and took up stations inside the plants.

Telephone lines to the city of Katowice were restored at midday today. The first call went to the Gornik soccer club where an official reported "all quiet."

Polish newsmen contacted in Katowice denied there had been disturbances there this week and reported that "order, peace and hard work" prevailed.

Radio Warsaw said today it was too simple to blame the strife on "hooligans."

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, carried a lengthy report today on the situation in Gdansk, Gdynia and Sopot. It was credited to the Gdansk correspondent of the Polish news agency PAP and said "the traces of the recent excesses are being removed from the streets" of the three coastal cities.

"The situation in the cities is tranquil," the report said. "Supply, trade, transport and

Inmate On Death Row Gets Life

A man who has spent four-and-a-half years on San Quentin's Death Row for the murder of a San Rafael bartender, yesterday received a new sentence of life imprisonment from a Marin judge.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson gave the life sentence to Marc C. Osuna after a jury in superior court deadlocked 7-to-5 over whether he should receive life or death. A unanimous verdict is required.

Osuna, 35, and Jack R. Gorman, 41, were convicted of the slaying of bartender Mario Ferrari during the 1965 Labor Day holdup of the Mission Inn Tavern.

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he and President Nixon feel it is "ridiculous" to contemplate positions on the 1972 national ticket because "we have too much to do" yet in the current term.

"I don't think about 1972 at all," Agnew said Friday after newsmen questioned him on his future. "I'm too busy trying to do the job I was elected to do in 1968 and here it is not even 1971 yet."

Field Narrowed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New York and California firms have been selected as final competitors in a $1.1 billion program to build a new troop support fighter-bomber for the Air Force.

Named winners of contracts to build prototypes of the plane, to be known as the "A-X," were Fairchild-Hiller of Farmingdale, N.Y., and Northrop of Hawthorne, Calif. Fairchild won a $41.2 million contract and Northrop a $28.9 million contract.

Reagan Holiday

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan flew to Southern California Friday for a two-week holiday vacation until after the New Year's weekend.

Press aides said the governor would spend the time at his Pacific Palisades home. No public appointments were scheduled during the vacation but he will hold a Christmas tree picture-taking session at his home Monday at 10:30 a. m.

New Supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Michael J. Driscoll, 54-year-old leader of the Irish-Catholic community, will serve on the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

The mortician was announced Friday by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, whose son is married to one of Driscoll's daughters. He will fill the seat that John A. Ertola will vacate early next month to become a judge on the superior court.

Smash Success

ROME (UPI)—Divorce Italian style was a smash success with a star cast on the opening day of what could be a limited run in Italy.

In Rome alone, 543 divorce actions were filed by lunchtime Friday, a rate that had citizens standing in line before a special divorce office in the city's new putty-colored court building.

Opera Diva Maria Callas wasn't there but she already has announced she will file suit promptly to divorce Italian industrialist Giovanni Battista Meneghini, from whom she has been separated for 11 years.

Infant Returned

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 3-month-old boy kidnaped Friday from its carriage in front of a Brooklyn store was found safe by police at about 7:30 a.m. today in a subway station in Brooklyn.

The child, the son of a city fireman who had pleaded with the kidnaper for his return, was taken to Sister Elizabeth Hospital to be reunited with his mother.

Bows Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon decided the upbeat humor and moving Christmas readings from entertainer David Frost made a hard act to follow Friday night, and bowed out of a piano recital.

Launching a round of holiday entertainment, the Nixons played host to long-time friends and top Washington officials at a White House Christmas party featuring two hours of comedy, singing, dancing and dramatic readings.

Frost, host of a television talk show, mixed irreverence with solemnity in his performance.

Maddox Walks Out On Cavett — 'Bigot' Remark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Lester Maddox gave Dick Cavett one minute Friday night to apologize for "insulting" the people of Georgia and then walked out on the taping of Cavett's television show.

He would not return even when Cavett followed him to the street outside the ABC-TV studios and asked him to come back.

This portion of the Cavett show was aired on the network's evening news program and the entire Cavett show was then broadcast as scheduled Friday night without any comment on the Maddox exit.

The conversation leading to the walkout was started by former pro football player Jim Brown, a Negro, who asked if Maddox had trouble with white bigots. Before Maddox could answer, a commercial break interrupted and after the commercial Cavett rephrased the question: "Mr. Brown asked you if you had any trouble with your white admirers."

"He did not say admirers," Maddox replied.

"No, he said bigots," Cavett agreed.

Maddox then demanded that Cavett apologize within one minute for calling his admirers and the "four million people of Georgia" bigots. Brown and Maddox both looked at their watches and another guest, author Truman Capte, counted off the final seconds with his fingers.

During the countdown, Cavett said, "If I called any of your admirers bigots who are not bigots I apologize," but Maddox did not consider that an apology. Cavett then said, "I apologize to the extent that a bigot would be my way of characterizing your admirers. You're likeable at your most outrageous moments."

"What do you mean, outrageous?" Maddox asked. "You haven't apologized yet and you've got 15 seconds."

Maddox walked off stage and Cavett followed him to the street during another commercial break. "I gave you the opportunity to apologize," the governor said and refused to return.

As the taping resumed, Cavett said, "I can't tell if Gov. Maddox is all showman ar part politician, or not."

Guerrillas Killed In Border Hit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli army patrol killed three Arab guerrillas Friday night in a clash on the Lebanese border, an Israeli military spokesman said today.

He said there were no Israeli casualties in the fighting near the settlement of Avivim, 15 miles north of the Sea of Galilee. During the fight, the spokesman said, the Israeli patrol pursued the guerrillas into Lebanon and demolished a building at Ainata village, which the guerrillas had used as a staging point.

A military spokesman in Beirut said Israeli commandos blew up one house and set fire to two others in the village, while wounding three Lebanese civilians. The spokesman said Lebanese forces fought with the Israelis and forced them to flee.

British Prime Minister Edward Heath, shortly before leaving Washington after a visit with President Nixon, said the Big Four powers should consider establishing a joint peacekeeping force in the Middle East. Heath said his talks with Nixon, which included the Middle East, were "productive and friendly."

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said Israel will resume peace talks under U.N. meditator Gunnar V. Jarring early next month in a maneuver to influence his progress report to the U.N. Security Council. Israel has boycotted the talks since August in protest over alleged Egyptian violations of the cease-fire.

Egyptian Vice President Hussein El-Shafei flew to Belgrade for a four-day visit to Yugoslavia. His trip is part of Egypt's diplomatic offensive to explain the Arab point of view in the Middle East.

More Details About Spying On Civilians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army intelligence agents were assigned to spy on civilian black athletes, activist priests and Negro militants, according to a former military intelligence officer.

Quentin Burgess, a Washington resident and former first lieutenant in Army intelligence, told UPI in an interview "blacks and anti-war groups were primary Army targets" for surveillance fring late 1968 and early 1969, but that other civilians came in for scrutiny from time to time.

Burgess first reported on his military activities in an NBC television interview arranged after former Army intelligence agent John O'Brien told Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., Army agents had spied on three leading Illinois Democrats and other civilians.

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor strongly denied O'Brien's charges Thursday.

Burgess, a Negro, said he had not himself actually tailed civilians around except for Olympic athlete John Carlos, a black power advocate, who returned from the 1968 games in Mexico in the company of black athlete Harry Edwards and Negro militant Stokely Charmichael.

But Burgess said he knew army agents were in attendance when Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver spoke at Howard University here in late 1968.

Army agents also were assigned to spy on a 1968 dispute over birth control policy between Washington's Catholic archbishop here and a group of dissenting priests, Burgess said. He said the agents at one point were sent to a downtown hotel to cover a protest meeting called by the priests.

Burgess said he knew of no day-to-day surveillance of any political figures here, but he was sure addresses and comments by those strongly against the war were noted and analyzed by the Army as would be those of an enemy.

"The enemy, as I think military intelligence defines it, is the people or forces which are dissenting against a way of life which the Army defines as status quo," he said.

Burgess said he had complained about the surveillance of civilians while still in the service, earning for himself a reputation as "a disruptive influence —new people were told to stay away from me."

In the House Friday, Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., one of the officials O'Brien said was spied on, urged Congress to investigate.

"The allegations, if true, mean that there are some military men who are prepared to impose a military control over the people of this country in order to 'save the county'," Mikva said.

He said Resor's investigation of the charges was inadequate.

"A quicky investigation does not even come up to the level of a white-wash, it is a no wash," he said.

Every year the earth is dusted by 4 million pounds of meteorites, mostly sand-sized.

Nixon, Heath Say No Major Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and Prime Minister Edward Heath have ended two-days of talks by concluding no significant problems divide the United States and Britain.

Heath flew home to London Friday night after meeting with Nixon at which the leaders reviewed world questions.

"It was an exchange of thoughts and ideas that is very beneficial whenever two friends talk", White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said. "As there are no outstanding problems between Britain and the United States, no decisions were reached."

Nixon and Heath talked Friday morning at the President's Camp David, Md., retreat 90 miles from Washington. Following those talks they flew another 20 miles by helicopter to visit Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower at her Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

The two leaders focused during their meeting Thursday upon the Middle east. They were reported to have agreed Arab-Israeli negotiations could resume soon under Dr. Gunnar Jarring, the United Nations mediator.

It was Heath's first official visit to Washington since he took office. He told a news conference before leaving for home that the most pressing issue in the world at the moment was the crisis in the Middle East.

More Toys Are Banned By Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Moving a week before Christmas, the Food and Drug Administration has banned four classes of toys from the market as hazardous.

The agency, however, refused Friday to identify the toys by brand name. Spokesmen would not say how the toys would be removed from stores.

But sources within the agency said 44 toys were subject to the ban and that others might be added later. The four classes banned:

—Breakable toy rattles with parts wtich could cause punctures, be inhaled or eaten.

—Dolls and stuffed animals which could break, exposing sharp parts.

—"Noise-making toys with detachable components having potential for laceration, puncture, aspiration (inhalation) or ingestion."

—Caps or toy guns used without caps which produce sound levels of 138 decibels or higher.

The FDA also ruled that lawn darts "and similar sharp-pointed items" cannot be sold as toys but can be sold outside toy departments if labeled for adult use and if they carry warnings against use by children.

Earlier the FDA had been threatened with a lawsuit by a consumers union which charged it had failed to enforce the Toy Safety Act.

Judge Rules Breast Not A Sex Organ

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—When go-go dancer Julie Ann Brandt was arrested at a local night spot last September, she was charged with exposing sex organs—her breasts.

Brown County Judge James Beyers said Thursday he dismissed the case against her and ruled that the female breast is not a sex organ.

Medi-Cal Slashes Draw More Fire From Medics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The cutbacks in Medi-Cal ordered by the Reagan administration are drawing more fire from the medical community.

Specialists in mental illness asserted Friday that mental patients are already suffering from the cutbacks.

Mentally-disturbed children cannot be seen by psychiatrists or psychologists for diagnosis and the start of treatment, they said.

One physician in San Francisco said the extra cost to San Francisco taxpayers of the upheaval in Medi-Cal services for the mentally-ill could reach $800,000 or more within six months.

Dr. William Goldman of the Westside Community Mental Health Center called the cutbacks a "fiscal hoax" which would drive more patients out of community clinics and into hospitals at triple the cost.

Dr. Warren T. Vaughan Jr. of Burlingame, president of the Northern California Psychiatric Society, said the limit on non-emergency psychiatric visits will also work particular hardship on mentally-distrubed children because diagnosing their cases and deciding on treatment requires more visits and psychological tests than would be permitted under Medi-Cal regulations.

Meanwhile, the California Dental Association fired off a strong protest letter to Governor Reagan by the California Dental Association concerning slashes to Medi-Cal.

Dr. R. Neil Smithwick, CDA president, said there are "mounting protests" from dentists that the Medi-Cal cut, effective Dec. 15, is "ill considered" and will deprive the needy of vital dental services.

The letter asked for a meeting with the governor and Dr. Earl W. Brian, director of the Department of Health Care Services.

Meanwhile, Dr. Brian said he does not intend to resign despite suggestions that he do so.

The 29-year-old physician said he wouldn't quit his post unless asked to by the governor.

Work Camp At Nuclear Test Site Is Evacuated

YUCCA FLAT, Nev (UPI)—A work camp at the U.S. nuclear test site was evacuated Friday when a cloud of radioactive particles escaped from an underground test for the second time in three days.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said small amounts of radiation were found on the clothing of about 300 of the 600 persons evacuated.

However, he said the radiation posed no health hazard to human beings outside the test site and "exposure levels are not estimated to be above the permissible dosage."

The cloud, which escaped from the top of a 900-foot deep shaft following the fourth weapons-related nuclear test in three days, was reported dissipating after drifting north and east from the site, across sparsely populated areas.

The AEC said radiation was measured on the ground as far away as Warm Springs, Nev., about 90 miles from ground zero, although airborne particles were reported farther east.

Planes from the environmental protection agency kept the cloud under surveillance. It reached an altitude of about 8,000 feet and was five miles across as it drifted along highway 25 at about four miles per hour.

The AEC spokesman said minor radioactivity of less than one milliroentgen per hour was measured along the highway. He noted that an average chest x-ray exposes a person to 100 milliroentgens.

The spokesman said workmen had not been able to determine how the radioactivity escaped.

"We have not been able to get in close enough to find out what happened. We just know that it did vent. It came out in a dirty gray cloud and went up several thousand feet.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Skirts Politics

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he and President Nixon feel it is "ridiculous" to contemplate positions on the 1972 national ticket because "we have too much to do" yet in the current term.

"I don't think about 1972 at all," Agnew said Friday after newsmen questioned him on his future. "I'm too busy trying to do the job I was elected to do in 1968 and here it is not even 1971 yet."

Field Narrowed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New York and California firms have been selected as final competitors in a $1.1 billion program to build a new troop support fighter-bomber for the Air Force.

Named winners of contracts to build prototypes of the plane, to be known as the "A-X," were Fairchild-Hiller of Farmingdale, N.Y., and Northrop of Hawthorne, Calif. Fairchild won a $41.2 million contract and Northrop a $28.9 million contract.

Reagan Holiday

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan flew to Southern California Friday for a two-week holiday vacation until after the New Year's weekend.

Press aides said the governor would spend the time at his Pacific Palisades home. No public appointments were scheduled during the vacation but he will hold a Christmas tree picture-taking session at his home Monday at 10:30 a. m.

New Supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Michael J. Driscoll, 54-year-old leader of the Irish-Catholic community, will serve on the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

The mortician was announced Friday by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, whose son is married to one of Driscoll's daughters. He will fill the seat that John A. Ertola will vacate early next month to become a judge on the superior court.

Smash Success

ROME (UPI)—Divorce Italian style was a smash success with a star cast on the opening day of what could be a limited run in Italy.

In Rome alone, 543 divorce actions were filed by lunchtime Friday, a rate that had citizens standing in line before a special divorce office in the city's new putty-colored court building.

Opera Diva Maria Callas wasn't there but she already has announced she will file suit promptly to divorce Italian industrialist Giovanni Battista Meneghini, from whom she has been separated for 11 years.

Infant Returned

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 3-month-old boy kidnaped Friday from its carriage in front of a Brooklyn store was found safe by police at about 7:30 a.m. today in a subway station in Brooklyn.

The child, the son of a city fireman who had pleaded with the kidnaper for his return, was taken to Sister Elizabeth Hospital to be reunited with his mother.

Bows Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon decided the upbeat humor and moving Christmas readings from entertainer David Frost made a hard act to follow Friday night, and bowed out of a piano recital.

Launching a round of holiday entertainment, the Nixons played host to long-time friends and top Washington officials at a White House Christmas party featuring two hours of comedy, singing, dancing and dramatic readings.

Frost, host of a television talk show, mixed irreverence with solemnity in his performance.

Cost Of Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The trial of Charles Manson and three female codefendants for the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other persons has cost Los Angeles County taxpayers $645,595 so far.

Maddox Walks Out On Cavett — 'Bigot' Remark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Lester Maddox gave Dick Cavett one minute Friday night to apologize for "insulting" the people of Georgia and then walked out on the taping of Cavett's television show.

He would not return even when Cavett followed him to the street outside the ABC-TV studios and asked him to come back.

This portion of the Cavett show was aired on the network's evening news program and the entire Cavett show was then broadcast as scheduled Friday night without any comment on the Maddox exit.

The conversation leading to the walkout was started by former pro football player Jim Brown, a Negro, who asked if Maddox had trouble with white bigots. Before Maddox could answer, a commercial break interrupted and after the commercial Cavett rephrased the question: "Mr. Brown asked you if you had any trouble with your white admirers."

"He did not say admirers," Maddox replied.

"No, he said bigots," Cavett agreed.

Maddox then demanded that Cavett apologize within one minute for calling his admirers and the "four million people of Georgia" bigots. Brown and Maddox both looked at their watches and another guest, author Truman Capte, counted off the final seconds with his fingers.

During the countdown, Cavett said, "If I called any of your admirers bigots who are not bigots I apologize," but Maddox did not consider that an apology. Cavett then said, "I apologize to the extent that a bigot would be my way of characterizing your admirers. You're likeable at your most outrageous moments."

"What do you mean, outrageous?" Maddox asked. "You haven't apologized yet and you've got 15 seconds."

Maddox walked off stage and Cavett followed him to the street during another commercial break. "I gave you the opportunity to apologize," the governor said and refused to return.

As the taping resumed, Cavett said, "I can't tell if Gov. Maddox is all showman ar part politician, or not."

45 Marin Employees To Get Pay Hikes

Thirty Marin County firemen and 15 communications workers will get another 5 per cent pay raise, retroactive to Dec. 1, under an agreement that will go to the board of supervisors Tuesday for approval.

With these employees coming to terms, the sheriff's deputies are the only ones holding out on a 1970-71 contract. Other county employees received pay raises of 5 and 6 per cent last July 1.

When talks bogged down between the county and emergency workers earlier this year, the county approved a 5 per cent pay raise for them on Sept. 1. For firemen and communication workers, the new contract will add another 5 per cent raise as of Dec. 1. With this new raise, however, the year's earnings will be slightly less than what they would have grossed had they accepted the county offer of 7.5 per cent for the entire year.

Workers in the fire warden II classification, for example, will receive increases in starting salary from $717 to $753 a month.

John F. Barrows, assistant county administrator, said the total cost of the salary hikes to the county had not been computed.

Sheriff's deputies, who split away from the emergency services unit (firemen and communication workers) last month, will make a separate pitch for a new contract at Tuesday's meeting of the county supervisors. San Francisco attorney Jake W. Ehrlich is scheduled to speak for them at 10:30 a.m. This will be followed by a closed meeting of the supervisors to instruct the county team that is negotiating with the sheriff's deputies.

Deputies were demanding a 12.5 per cent raise when negotiations bogged down three months ago.

Six Hurt In Marin Accidents

One person was hospitalized and five other injured in Marin County auto accidents yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

John F. Kramer, 32, of Kensington, Los Angeles County, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for a cut tongue suffered in an accident at 5:50 p.m. on Highway 101 near Novato.

Kramer's car was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Alfred F. Winter, 54, of 228 San Carlos Way, Novato, according to the highway patrol. Winter was treated at Novato General Hospital for miltiple cuts and a sore knee. Details of the accident were not available today.

A Mill Valley man was treated at Marin General Hospital for injuries received in a four-car accident at 6:05 p.m. on Highway 101.

Haruyo Kaneda, 36, of 10 Milland Drive, suffered scrapes on his right leg.

He was injured, the highway patrol said, when a car driven by Milton C. Morley, 51, of 33 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, stopped in traffic. Morley's vehicle then was struck from behind by a car driven by Gus A. Pinto, 56, of 51 Marie Street, Sausalito, officers said.

A car driven by Samuel D. Waldman, 26, of San Francisco braked to avoid Pinto's vehicle, spun and hit a guard rail. Kaneda, who was driving behind Waldman, braked, spun and collided with Waldman's car, the patrol said.

A Marinwood man was injured in an accident at Miller Creek Road and Las Gallinas Avenue, Marinwood at 8:55 a.m.

John S. Roncevic, 50, of 463 Miller Creek Road, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut ear and possible concussion.

He was injured, the highway patrol said, when a car driven by Joseph W. Bosche, 31, of 103 Ross Street, Apt. 8, San Rafael, turned onto Las Gallinas from Miller Creek and into the path of Roncevic's car.

A 17-year-old San Anselmo boy was treated at Marin General Hospital for a possible concussion following an accident at 2:15 p.m.

The highway patrol said a motorcycle driven by Jerrold D. Young of 15 Estates Drive hit a wet spot near 68 Laura Lane, near Fairfax, and tumbled on its side.

Vivian E. Aten, 69, of Sunnyvale, was treated at Marin General for a back injury suffered at 9:30 a.m. yesterday when a car in which she was a passenger struck a loose tire on the San Rafael viaduct and careened off the road and into a construction area at the end of the viaduct, according to the highway patrol.

The car was driven by Robert C. Thibault, 50, of Los Altos.

met Mantell and Connel and then flew to a secret landing strip within Lebanese territory.

The plane stayed at the makeshift airport for only five minutes. Moore said "we took off immediately because the police approached and shooting broke out."

Prosecution witnesses said before Moore took the stand that the plane was supposed to pick up 60 bags of hashish but because of the shooting took off with only 13 bags and before paying for them.

Police found the bags in the plane's toilet. They also found $51,000 cash allegedly meant for the payment of the drugs shipment. Police witnesses said the whole operation was run by the Mafia in the United States.

"I knew of hashish, I never smoked hashish, and never touched it," Moore said.

The court was expected to reach its verdict Saturday after the prosecutor makes his proposals and defense lawyers make their pleas.

Lawyer Jack Berman of San Francisco, who was hired by the defendants, was not allowed to take part in their active defense. Greek judicial authorities in Athens said Greek law allows only Greek lawyers to plead before Greek courts.

Berman said he protested this attitude by sending a cable to Greek Justice Minister Angelos Tsoukalas and U.S. Ambassador Henry J. Tasca.

South Vietnam's soverignty.

"American and South Korean soldiers have many times slain innocent women, children and honest, religious men, and particularly have without cause shot to death a student in Qui Nhon."

This was a reference to the death of a South Vietnamese boy allegedly shot and killed Dec. 7 by a U.S. Army soldier in the coastal city of Qui Nhon 250 miles northeast of Saigon. The American has been charged with negligent homicide. Officials say he fired a warning shot which hit the boy as other youths were trying to loot a U.S. Army truck.

Doc Lap said the students confronting Thieu today demanded that "foreign soldiers end robbing and killing and absolutely respect Vietnam's sovereignty" and that "the government make public its attitude concerning foreign soldiers who slay Vietnamese."

The students demanded that the American soldier charged in the Qui Nhon incident, Pfc Matias Yzaguierre of Brownsville, Tex., be turned over to South Vietnamese authorities for prosecution.

Thieu reportedly explained that under existing agreements with the United States the soldier cannot be judged by a Vietnamese tribunal.

Allied officials said the rocket attack on Saigon may signal Communist observance of the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The six civilians were killed and eight wounded when one of the rockets smashed into an area across the Mekong River from downtown Saigon. A second rocket hit a gas station 150 miles from the U.S. embassy, wounding a South Vietnamese soldier.

Two terrorists on a speeding motorcycle hurled a six pound plastic bomb through the front gate of Saigon's largest newspaper just before dawn today, with the explosion injuring four employees inside the building.

The incidents occurred at the start of the Viet Cong's National Resistance Day holiday period. Sunday is the 10th anniversary of the founding of the National Liberation Front (NLF), the Viet Cong's political branch. The rockets hit three hours after a Viet Cong radio broadcast threatening an increase in destruction of buildings in the capital.

It was the first rocket attack on Saigon since Nov. 2. At least two women and four children were killed by the rocket which struck across the river from the Majestic Hotel. Among the wounded were four children.

The U.S. Command said an Air Force OV10 Bronoco plane crashed from unknown causes Friday in the South China Sea east of Chu Lai, 335 miles north-northeast of Saigon. The pilot was killed.

Developer Takes Over Motel Unit

Developer Paul J. Broman of Peacock Gap, seeking to build 102 units of apartments at Strawberry Cove, has taken over the unfinished Howard Johnson restaurant-motel project near Richardson Bay Bridge.

Broman, the developer of the Japanese Trade Center in San Francisco, will submit revised plans for completion of the motel and restaurant to the Marin County Planning Commission Monday afternoon.

The five-acre property is on Shoreline Highway across from Fireside Motel.

Broman's proposal reduces the number of motel units from 200 to 150 and adds a three-story office building of 18,000 square feet with underground parking. Plans for a service station, conference center, and restaurant also remain, but with some changes.

The Howard Johnson plan for a six-story motel, but Broman will limit height to three stories.

New York Taxi Strike Is Over

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tentative agreement to end the two-week-old strike by 36,000 taxi drivers was reached early today.

State Mediation Chairman Vincent D. McDonnell said he would meet with Mayor John V. Lindsay at 2 p.m. (EST) to explain the settlement and discuss action required of City Council. The council would have to approve an increase in taxi fares to pay increased wages for the drivers.

The agreement is subject to ratification by the drivers' union and the fleet owners' association. Details will not be released until ratification is complete.

McDonnell said the agreement was reached at 5 a.m. after a 19-hour negotiating session.

The drivers, who were making about $150, including tips, weekly demanded an increase that would make their total pay $200.

Before members of Taxi Drivers' Union Local 3036 struck at midnight, Dec. 11, management offered to split fares 50-50 after taking the first 15 cents of each fare for pension and fringe benefits. Harry Van Arsdale, the union chief, demanded a straight 50-50 split.

Lindsay proposed a fare hike that would raise the average ride to $1.95 from the present $1.35 along with higher charges for waiting time and a 25-cent fee for each additional passenger.

The strike was marked by minor disturbances pitting strikers against "gypsy" cab drivers who illegally picked up passengers for exorbitant fares.

About 800,000 persons ride New York cabs on an average day. Few hardships were reported as they found other means of transportation.

Radio Warsaw said workers in Gdansk were on a normal three shift schedule and that workers in Gdynia were on a two shift schedule. It said a new ship, the Nakhodka, was launched today at the Gdynia yards which makes vessels mostly for the Soviet fleet. Nakhodka is the name of a major Soviet port and the new ship was believed to be Russian.

"For many people, individual interest clouded the common interests," Glos Wybrzeza, the Communist party newspaper in Gdansk (Danzig), said. "also, not a small section of our youth has given us one of the most unpleasant disappointments. We must perhaps revise our critera of the approach to youth."

Man Arraigned On Dope Counts

Paul Christopher MacGowan, 21, of 123 Round Hill Road, Tiburon, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing arijuana and LSD.

MacGowan will enter plea next Wednesday.

He was arrested Monday when Sausalito police obtained a search warrant to enter a house at 214 Third Street.

Police said a search revealed two bags containing marijuana and 17 capsules of LSD.

No charge has been filed against two other men also arrested at the Sausalito house.

OBITUARIES

Ivan L. Slavich Dies At 74

Ivan L. Slavich of San Rafael, retired clerk of the San Francisco Municipal Court and husband of the chief clerk of the Marin Municipal Court, died yesterday in a local hospital.

Slavich, 74, had been in failing health for six months.

His wife for nine years, Edna Lemke Slavich, has been employed by Marin County since 1946.

Slavich, who was born in San Francisco and lived there until his retirement and marriage in 1961, had been selected clerk of the San Francisco Municipal Court in 1942.

Following service in World War I as an Army sergeant in France, he completed his education at San Francisco Business College and began his clerking career in the San Francisco auditor's office.

He became deputy clerk of the municipal court in 1934.

As court clerk, Slavich lobbied for a bill that took the power to set salaries from county boards of supervisors and placed it in the hands of the state Legislature. The bill passed in 1947.

He was a member of the Retired Employees of the City and County of San Francisco, past president of the Association of Municipal Court Clerks of California, honorary member of the San Francisco Bar Association, retired member and former chairman of Selective Service Board 36 of San Francisco and a member of the Stanford parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West of San Francisco.

He also belonged to Municipal Post 429 of the American Legion, McQuaide Post 1205 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Chapter 3 of the Disabled American Veterans, all of San Francisco, and the Association of the United States Army.

Also surviving are a son, Army Col. Ivan L. Slavich Jr. of Newport, R.I., and two sisters, Josephine Bruguiere and Florence Jacobsen, both of San Francisco.

Mass of the Ressurection will be sung at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to a favorite charity.

MRS. WRIGHT

Funeral for Genevieve M. Wright, mother of Mildred Tiborek of San Rafael, was yesterday in Richmond.

Mrs. Wright died in a Marin hospital Thursday after a long illness. She was 83.

Born in Indianapolis, Ind., she moved to San Diego in 1920 and lived there until 1967 when she was forced by failing health to move to her daughter's home at 267 Devon Drive, San Rafael.

She was a member of the San Diego Unitarian Church.

Also surviving are a second daughter, Eleanor Tripp of San Mateo; a sister, Ruth Steinhoff of Goleta, Santa Barbara County, and six grandchildren.

Burial was to be at Rolling Hills Memorial Park in Richmond.

X-Ray Closing

The X-ray Mini-Film department of the Marin County Public Health Department, 920 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, will close at noon Christmas Eve and reopen Dec. 28 at 8 a.m.

MRS. PAQUET

Mass of Requiem for Alphonsine Paquet of Kentfield will be held Monday at 9 a.m. at St. Sebastian's Church, Greenbrae. Mrs. Paquet died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Born in Belgium, she moved to California 22 years ago and to Marin in 1961. She lived at 105 Oak Avenue.

Mrs. Paquet was a member of the Senior Citizens Center in San Francisco and the California Art Society.

Survivors include two daughters, Yvette Davis of Kentfield and Dolores P. Kirby of Pacifica; a sister, Constantine Ducarme of Belgium, and four grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, San Anselmo. Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

FLOYD HILTON

I-J Special Report

HAMILTON, Mont. — Funeral was Monday for Floyd M. Hilton, former Novato plastering contractor who died in Hamilton after a long illness. He was 63.

Born in Wichita, Kan., Hilton moved with his family at a young age to Southern California, where his father formed a building contracting firm.

He worked in the aircraft industry there and later was a police chief and investigator in the San Joaquin Valley. During World War II he was director of plant production at the Marinship yards.

After the war he returned to contracting and opened his own plastering firm in Novato. He retired in 1965 and moved to Salmon, Idaho, where he lived until a few weeks ago, when he moved to Hamilton.

Survivors include his wife, Louise; a son, Lee, of Hamilton; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas McBride, of Gibbonsville, Idaho; his mother, Edna Hilton, and a brother, Clarence, both of Burbank, and four grandsons.

The family requests memorial contributions to medical research foundations.

MRS. CASS

Graveside service will be held Monday at Woodland Cemetery in Philadelphia, Pa., for Dorothea G. Cass, mother of Lolita Wistar of Inverness.

Mrs. Cass, 82, died Thursday at an Oakland retirement home following a long illness.

A native of New York, she had lived in California 27 years.

In addition to Mrs. Wistar, she is survived by three sons, Thomas F. Cass of Chicago, Ill., J. Carroll Cass of Charlotte, N.C., and Col. Bevan G. Cass of Hawaii; 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

ROY LOWRY

Roy I. Lowry, retired San Rafael carpenter and contractor, died yesterday at a local hospital following a long illness.

Lowry, 73, lived at 9 Francis Street, San Rafael.

A native of Sawyerville, Quebec, he and his wife, Anna C. Lowry, came to California on the night of their wedding in 1919. They had lived in Marin for 35 years.

He was a member of San Rafael Carpenters Union 35, San Rafael Eagles and the Methodist Church of Sawyerville.

In addition to his wife, Lowry is survived by two daughters, Eleanor L. Driskell of Lemoore, Kings County, and Olga I. Vanwinkle of Glenwood, Minn.; a son, Robert F. Lowry of San Anselmo; a sister, Rita Bailey of Lindonville, Vt.; two brothers, Howard Lowry of Peers, Alberta, and Sidney Lowry of Marshfield, Vt.; eight grandsons and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

FRANK LARROWE

Frank S. Larrowe of Mill Valley died yesterday at a heart attack at a local hospital, where he had been a patient for one day.

Born in Portland, Ore., Larrowe took his bachelors degree from the University of Portland in 1941 and entered the Army.

He was a lieutenant when discharged at the end of the war.

He lived in San Francisco for a couple of years before moving to Mill Valley in the late 1940s. He lived at 14 Fern Avenue

Larrowe sold hearing equipment for various Bay Area firms, including Schoonmaker of Sausalito. He had been a member of a specifications criteria committee of the Atomic Energy Commission since 1968.

He had been treasurer and a committeeman of Boy Scout Troop 77 and was a parishioner of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

Surviving are his wife, Catherine of the family home; a son, Kevin Larrowe of Mill Valley; three daughters, Anne Larrowe, Maryjo Larrowe and Maureen Larrowe, all of Mill Valley; three brothers, Martin Larrowe of Castro Valley, Charles Larrowe of East Lansing, Mich., and Brother M. Peter of Snowmass, Colo.; and a sister, Sister Marion of Walla Walla, Wash.

Mass will be Monday at 2 p.m. at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Mill Valley. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch mortuary, Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais cemetery, San Rafael.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church.

45 Marin Employees To Get Pay Hikes

Thirty Marin County firemen and 15 communications workers will get another 5 per cent pay raise, retroactive to Dec. 1, under an agreement that will go to the board of supervisors Tuesday for approval.

With these employees coming to terms, the sheriff's deputies are the only ones holding out on a 1970-71 contract. Other county employees received pay raises of 5 and 6 per cent last July 1.

When talks bogged down between the county and emergency workers earlier this year, the county approved a 5 per cent pay raise for them on Sept. 1. For firemen and communication workers, the new contract will add another 5 per cent raise as of Dec. 1. With this new raise, however, the year's earnings will be slightly less than what they would have grossed had they accepted the county offer of 7.5 per cent for the entire year.

Workers in the fire warden II classification, for example, will receive increases in starting salary from $717 to $753 a month.

John F. Barrows, assistant county administrator, said the total cost of the salary hikes to the county had not been computed.

Sheriff's deputies, who split away from the emergency services unit (firemen and communication workers) last month, will make a separate pitch for a new contract at Tuesday's meeting of the county supervisors. San Francisco attorney Jake W. Ehrlich is scheduled to speak for them at 10:30 a.m. This will be followed by a closed meeting of the supervisors to instruct the county team that is negotiating with the sheriff's deputies.

Deputies were demanding a 12.5 per cent raise when negotiations bogged down three months ago.

Six Hurt In Marin Accidents

One person was hospitalized and five other injured in Marin County auto accidents yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

John F. Kramer, 32, of Kensington, Los Angeles County, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for a cut tongue suffered in an accident at 5:50 p.m. on Highway 101 near Novato.

Kramer's car was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Alfred F. Winter, 54, of 228 San Carlos Way, Novato, according to the highway patrol. Winter was treated at Novato General Hospital for miltiple cuts and a sore knee. Details of the accident were not available today.

A Mill Valley man was treated at Marin General Hospital for injuries received in a four-car accident at 6:05 p.m. on Highway 101.

Haruyo Kaneda, 36, of 10 Milland Drive, suffered scrapes on his right leg.

He was injured, the highway patrol said, when a car driven by Milton C. Morley, 51, of 33 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, stopped in traffic. Morley's vehicle then was struck from behind by a car driven by Gus A. Pinto, 56, of 51 Marie Street, Sausalito, officers said.

A car driven by Samuel D. Waldman, 26, of San Francisco braked to avoid Pinto's vehicle, spun and hit a guard rail. Kaneda, who was driving behind Waldman, braked, spun and collided with Waldman's car, the patrol said.

A Marinwood man was injured in an accident at Miller Creek Road and Las Gallinas Avenue, Marinwood at 8:55 a.m.

John S. Roncevic, 50, of 463 Miller Creek Road, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut ear and possible concussion.

He was injured, the highway patrol said, when a car driven by Joseph W. Bosche, 31, of 103 Ross Street, Apt. 8, San Rafael, turned onto Las Gallinas from Miller Creek and into the path of Roncevic's car.

A 17-year-old San Anselmo boy was treated at Marin General Hospital for a possible concussion following an accident at 2:15 p.m.

The highway patrol said a motorcycle driven by Jerrold D. Young of 15 Estates Drive hit a wet spot near 68 Laura Lane, near Fairfax, and tumbled on its side.

Vivian E. Aten, 69, of Sunnyvale, was treated at Marin General for a back injury suffered at 9:30 a.m. yesterday when a car in which she was a passenger struck a loose tire on the San Rafael viaduct and careened off the road and into a construction area at the end of the viaduct, according to the highway patrol.

The car was driven by Robert C. Thibault, 50, of Los Altos.

Prosecution witnesses said before Moore took the stand that the plane was supposed to pick up 60 bags of hashish but because of the shooting took off with only 13 bags and before paying for them.

Police found the bags in the plane's toilet. They also found $51,000 cash allegedly meant for the payment of the drugs shipment. Police witnesses said the whole operation was run by the Mafia in the United States.

"I knew of hashish, I never smoked hashish, and never touched it," Moore said.

The court was expected to reach its verdict Saturday after the prosecutor makes his proposals and defense lawyers make their pleas.

Lawyer Jack Berman of San Francisco, who was hired by the defendants, was not allowed to take part in their active defense. Greek judicial authorities in Athens said Greek law allows only Greek lawyers to plead before Greek courts.

Berman said he protested this attitude by sending a cable to Greek Justice Minister Angelos Tsoukalas and U.S. Ambassador Henry J. Tasca.

The drivers, who were making about $150, including tips, weekly demanded an increase that would make their total pay $200.

Before members of Taxi Drivers' Union Local 3036 struck at midnight, Dec. 11, management offered to split fares 50-50 after taking the first 15 cents of each fare for pension and fringe benefits. Harry Van Arsdale, the union chief, demanded a straight 50-50 split.

Lindsay proposed a fare hike that would raise the average ride to $1.95 from the present $1.35 along with higher charges for waiting time and a 25-cent fee for each additional passenger.

The strike was marked by minor disturbances pitting strikers against "gypsy" cab drivers who illegally picked up passengers for exorbitant fares.

About 800,000 persons ride New York cabs on an average day. Few hardships were reported as they found other means of transportation.

Radio Warsaw said workers in Gdansk were on a normal three shift schedule and that workers in Gdynia were on a two shift schedule. It said a new ship, the Nakhodka, was launched today at the Gdynia yards which makes vessels mostly for the Soviet fleet. Nakhodka is the name of a major Soviet port and the new ship was believed to be Russian.

"For many people, individual interest clouded the common interests," Glos Wybrzeza, the Communist party newspaper in Gdansk (Danzig), said. "also, not a small section of our youth has given us one of the most unpleasant disappointments. We must perhaps revise our critera of the approach to youth."

Man Arraigned On Dope Counts

Paul Christopher MacGowan, 21, of 123 Round Hill Road, Tiburon, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing arijuana and LSD.

MacGowan will enter plea next Wednesday.

He was arrested Monday when Sausalito police obtained a search warrant to enter a house at 214 Third Street.

Police said a search revealed two bags containing marijuana and 17 capsules of LSD.

No charge has been filed against two other men also arrested at the Sausalito house.

OBITUARIES

Ivan L. Slavich Dies At 74

Ivan L. Slavich of San Rafael, retired clerk of the San Francisco Municipal Court and husband of the chief clerk of the Marin Municipal Court, died yesterday in a local hospital.

Slavich, 74, had been in failing health for six months.

His wife for nine years, Edna Lemke Slavich, has been employed by Marin County since 1946.

Slavich, who was born in San Francisco and lived there until his retirement and marriage in 1961, had been selected clerk of the San Francisco Municipal Court in 1942.

Following service in World War I as an Army sergeant in France, he completed his education at San Francisco Business College and began his clerking career in the San Francisco auditor's office.

He became deputy clerk of the municipal court in 1934.

As court clerk, Slavich lobbied for a bill that took the power to set salaries from county boards of supervisors and placed it in the hands of the state Legislature. The bill passed in 1947.

He was a member of the Retired Employees of the City and County of San Francisco, past president of the Association of Municipal Court Clerks of California, honorary member of the San Francisco Bar Association, retired member and former chairman of Selective Service Board 36 of San Francisco and a member of the Stanford parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West of San Francisco.

He also belonged to Municipal Post 429 of the American Legion, McQuaide Post 1205 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Chapter 3 of the Disabled American Veterans, all of San Francisco, and the Association of the United States Army.

Also surviving are a son, Army Col. Ivan L. Slavich Jr. of Newport, R.I., and two sisters, Josephine Bruguiere and Florence Jacobsen, both of San Francisco.

Mass of the Ressurection will be sung at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to a favorite charity.

MRS. WRIGHT

Funeral for Genevieve M. Wright, mother of Mildred Tiborek of San Rafael, was yesterday in Richmond.

Mrs. Wright died in a Marin hospital Thursday after a long illness. She was 83.

Born in Indianapolis, Ind., she moved to San Diego in 1920 and lived there until 1967 when she was forced by failing health to move to her daughter's home at 267 Devon Drive, San Rafael.

She was a member of the San Diego Unitarian Church.

Also surviving are a second daughter, Eleanor Tripp of San Mateo; a sister, Ruth Steinhoff of Goleta, Santa Barbara County, and six grandchildren.

Burial was to be at Rolling Hills Memorial Park in Richmond.

X-Ray Closing

The X-ray Mini-Film department of the Marin County Public Health Department, 920 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, will close at noon Christmas Eve and reopen Dec. 28 at 8 a.m.

MRS. PAQUET

Mass of Requiem for Alphonsine Paquet of Kentfield will be held Monday at 9 a.m. at St. Sebastian's Church, Greenbrae. Mrs. Paquet died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Born in Belgium, she moved to California 22 years ago and to Marin in 1961. She lived at 105 Oak Avenue.

Mrs. Paquet was a member of the Senior Citizens Center in San Francisco and the California Art Society.

Survivors include two daughters, Yvette Davis of Kentfield and Dolores P. Kirby of Pacifica; a sister, Constantine Ducarme of Belgium, and four grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, San Anselmo. Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

FLOYD HILTON

I-J Special Report

HAMILTON, Mont. — Funeral was Monday for Floyd M. Hilton, former Novato plastering contractor who died in Hamilton after a long illness. He was 63.

Born in Wichita, Kan., Hilton moved with his family at a young age to Southern California, where his father formed a building contracting firm.

He worked in the aircraft industry there and later was a police chief and investigator in the San Joaquin Valley. During World War II he was director of plant production at the Marinship yards.

After the war he returned to contracting and opened his own plastering firm in Novato. He retired in 1965 and moved to Salmon, Idaho, where he lived until a few weeks ago, when he moved to Hamilton.

Survivors include his wife, Louise; a son, Lee, of Hamilton; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas McBride, of Gibbonsville, Idaho; his mother, Edna Hilton, and a brother, Clarence, both of Burbank, and four grandsons.

The family requests memorial contributions to medical research foundations.

MRS. CASS

Graveside service will be held Monday at Woodland Cemetery in Philadelphia, Pa., for Dorothea G. Cass, mother of Lolita Wistar of Inverness.

Mrs. Cass, 82, died Thursday at an Oakland retirement home following a long illness.

A native of New York, she had lived in California 27 years.

In addition to Mrs. Wistar, she is survived by three sons, Thomas F. Cass of Chicago, Ill., J. Carroll Cass of Charlotte, N.C., and Col. Bevan G. Cass of Hawaii; 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

ROY LOWRY

Roy I. Lowry, retired San Rafael carpenter and contractor, died yesterday at a local hospital following a long illness.

Lowry, 73, lived at 9 Francis Street, San Rafael.

A native of Sawyerville, Quebec, he and his wife, Anna C. Lowry, came to California on the night of their wedding in 1919. They had lived in Marin for 35 years.

He was a member of San Rafael Carpenters Union 35, San Rafael Eagles and the Methodist Church of Sawyerville.

In addition to his wife, Lowry is survived by two daughters, Eleanor L. Driskell of Lemoore, Kings County, and Olga I. Vanwinkle of Glenwood, Minn.; a son, Robert F. Lowry of San Anselmo; a sister, Rita Bailey of Lindonville, Vt.; two brothers, Howard Lowry of Peers, Alberta, and Sidney Lowry of Marshfield, Vt.; eight grandsons and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

FRANK LARROWE

Frank S. Larrowe of Mill Valley died yesterday of a heart attack at a local hospital, where he had been a patient for one day.

Born in Portland, Ore., Larrowe took his bachelors degree from the University of Portland in 1941 and entered the Army.

He was a lieutenant when discharged at the end of the war.

He lived in San Francisco for a couple of years before moving to Mill Valley in the late 1940s. He lived at 14 Fern Avenue

Larrowe sold hearing equipment for various Bay Area firms, including Schoonmaker of Sausalito. He had been a member of a specifications criteria committee of the Atomic Energy Commission since 1968.

He had been treasurer and a committeeman of Boy Scout Troop 77 and was a parishioner of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

Surviving are his wife, Catherine of the family home; a son, Kevin Larrowe of Mill Valley; three daughters, Anne Larrowe, Maryjo Larrowe and Maureen Larrowe, all of Mill Valley; three brothers, Martin Larrowe of Castro Valley, Charles Larrowe of East Lansing, Mich., and Brother M. Peter of Snowmass, Colo.; and a sister, Sister Marion of Walla Walla, Wash.

Mass will be Monday at 2 p.m. at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Mill Valley. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch mortuary, Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais cemetery, San Rafael.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church.

She's Considered Slamming The Door On His Two-Faced Game

DEAR HELEN:

I've been dating Ray on the sly. If his mother knew about it, she'd figure I put a bruise on her precious son's life.

He won't tell her. When his mother is around, he pretends not to know me, but the minute her back is turned, oh wow!

He likes the idea of having a girl friend who nobody (that matters) knows about. To his family and friends, I'm that crumb, but I'm just fine to sneak around with. He comes to my house without calling because he knows I'll be there, and he takes me places his friends don't go to. Mainly parking.

Every time he goes out on me, I raise a big stink, but he acts cool, and Iget over it because I love him. Once I went out on him, and he wasn't very "cool" about that.

After sizing up his two-faced game, i've considered slamming the door in his face. Is there a way to stop being made a fool of? — FED UP BLONDIE

DEAR BLONDIE:

Yes. Slam the door in his face. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's this guy who lives around the corner. He's about 20 and I'm 14. He's always trying to flirt with me and I can't stand him. I'm scared, because my girl friend said he was a raper — that's the word that's going around. I know he's a little "upstairs" and I'm getting afraid to go outside.

Whenever he sees me he says "Hel-l-l-o there," and if I run, he yells, "Looks like someone's mad at me."

My mother says he's okay, and I should just avoid him, but after what my girl friend said, I'm — SCARED STIFF.

DEAR SCARED:

I'd be more inclined to believe your mother. Rumors spread by girl friends are often highly exaggerated. And they can damage innocent people for life.

As long as your parents are on the alert, and you are cautious, I don't think you need worry. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Every time I go into certain stores in our town, I'm treated like a shoplifter, just because I'm a teenager. Other kids have this problem too. We're watched and followed, and some clerk is breathing down our necks constantly.

We have no intention of stealing, but if we even pick up some piece of merchandise to look it over, along comes a security guard. And the way the clerks treat us — you'd think we never spent a dime. They wait on everyone else first, and when they come to us, they snap our heads off.

Would you please tell store managers that teenagers' money is as good as anyone else's? — WATCHED BUT NOT WAITED ON

DEAR WATCHED:

A better idea: Watch out for the stores where teenagers aren't welcome, and avoid 'em. The best way to make your point is through their dropping sales receipts. — H.

SEW SIMPLE

Join The Sewing Generation

By EUNICE FARMER

It seems like only yesterday when I last wrote my holiday greetings to you. Now it's that time again. It's been a great year, but being an eternal optimist, I have a feeling this next year will be even better.

Thank you for another year of sharing your questions and suggestions with me and for thinking of me as your personal friend. This little greeting that hundreds of thousands of you will be reading, contains my sincerest wishes for your own personal happiness in 1971.

Each year there is more excitement in making your own clothes. There are more beautiful fabrics available, more designer patterns and fortunately, more good teachers to help you. If you've been thinking seriously about learning to sew, or if you already do some of your sewing, advance your knowledge by learning to tailor, do it in January. It's a sewing generation, so join the "in" people and your life will be lifted with enthusiasm and a new dimension will be added.

MRS. FREDA YORK, New Washington, Ind., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her sewing suggestion:

"My ironing board cover always seems to wear out first where I set the iron on end. Before it gets worn very much, I iron on a patch as is used on the knee of blue jeans. These come in several colors that will almost match your cover. It's a neat smooth repair and makes the cover wear much longer!"

(P.S. You could also press on a huge floral pattern or cut out a whimsical design from a bright color and use the type of bonding agent that bonds the two layers together, and this will not only serve the same purpose, but also add a little color to a drab board!)

DEAR MRS. N.C.,

I knew this would be fun for you, and I hope many of my readers got busy and did the same thing. You are right, the quilted fabric is certainly the easiest to work with because it requires no lining. There are many ways this skirt could have been made.

If you are tall and extremely thin, most women buy 1½ yards of this fabric and use it on the cross grain, gather the waistline and apply the waistband. Only one seam is needed for this straight skirt, that would be the center back seam. If you wish to take out some of the bulky look at the waist, make several short darts about 4 inches long at intervals in your fabric. You could also lay in a center front unpressed pleat to remove some of the excess at the waistline. Most 5-year-old girls would need more of a jumper top for their skirt or at least suspenders to keep the skirt up. I think you probably gave your little girl the thrill of her life when you made her such a glamorous grown up long skirt like mommie's.

If you wish a more fitted skirt at the waistline and hips, I would suggest you use a pattern that has darts at the waist and ends in an A-line. You will probably need a pattern for this, although you could use a regular pattern and add the additional length.

For a shaped or A-line skirt, you will have to buy more yardage than one length. If the design is a one way design, you will need two lengths. If it is not a one way design, you can fit the pattern on your fabric by reversing one section of the pattern which requires less fabric. It is best to try to find the yardage on a pattern that is already cut long, or else take your pattern pieces and figure your fabric requirements by laying the pattern onto a paper the width of the fabric.

If you have a little fabric left over, the very short, sleeveless bolero is a great addition to your long skirt and really compliments a long-sleeved shirt!

If you have problems with sleeves, you will want to read Eunice Farmer's booklet "All About Sleeves." Step-by-step instructions are given to help you make your sleeves professional looking. To obtain your booklet send 10 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Simons Is A New President

Mrs. Edward Simons, new president of the Episcopal Churchwomen of Mill Valley's Church of Our Saviour, says church work is her major interest other than her home and family.

A member of the group six years, she has served previously as treasurer and assistant treasurer and as chairman of the church's big antiques show and sale two years ago. She is a member of the altar guild of the church's finance committee.

As her special project for the year she hopes to form a closer parish-to-parish relationship with the Episcopal Diocese in Matabeleland, Africa.

A native of Ogden, Utah, Lucianne Simons was graduated from Sacred Heart Academy there and Henegars Business College in Salt Lake City and Smithsonian Business College in Ogden.

A chief yeoman with the Coast Guard in Washington, D.C., during World War II, she was among the first group of women to go into military service at that time.

She also worked as secretary to the vice president of industrial relations of the Matson Navigation Company in San Francisco two different times, for the Ogden Standard Examiner and with the aero-space program at the Northrup and Douglas Aircraft Corporation in Ogden.

MRS. EDWARD SIMONS

Mrs. Simons has not worked since the family moved to Mill Valley from Ogden six years ago. Her husband is a consultant engineer with his own offices in Tiburon. They have a son, Chris Murphy, 17, who is a student at Tamalpais High School.

The new president, who is a member of the Outdoor Art Club, says she enjoys music, especially opera and symphony.

Other new officers are Mmes. William Cullen, vice president; Lester Fitzsimmons, recording secretary; and William Woodbridge, treasurer.

New Nursing Director Is Greenbrae Resident

Mrs. Patricia Leonard of Greenbrae is the new director of nursing at Memorial Hospital in San Leandro. She was formerly on the staff at Marin General Hospital and served as director of nursing at San Rafael General Hospital for three and a half years prior to its closing.

A native of Idaho, Mrs. Leonard was graduated from nursing school at Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore. She began her nursing career in the Portland area and has also served as director of nursing at San Francisco General Hospital, associate director at St. Francis Memorial Hospital in San Francisco, director of Permanente Medical Group and director of nursing services at Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

Mrs. Leonard is the mother of Janice, 19, a student at the University of the Pacific, spending her sophomore year in Bangalore, India, as part of a round the world study tour; and Robert, 23, a Sonoma State College student.

MRS. PATRICIA LEONARD

In her leisure time Mrs. Leonard enjoys gardening and swimming. Her hobby is collecting pitchers, most of which she categorizes as "early Goodwill."

Spring Colors

As nearly always, the big colors on the spring fashion scene are red, white, blue. In addition, watch for organic shadings — earthy brown, desert sand, mossy greens.

SEW SIMPLE

Join The Sewing Generation

By EUNICE FARMER

It seems like only yesterday when I last wrote my holiday greetings to you. Now it's that time again. It's been a great year, but being an eternal optimist, I have a feeling this next year will be even better.

Thank you for another year of sharing your questions and suggestions with me and for thinking of me as your personal friend. This little greeting that hundreds of thousands of you will be reading, contains my sincerest wishes for your own personal happiness in 1971.

Each year there is more excitement in making your own clothes. There are more beautiful fabrics available, more designer patterns and fortunately, more good teachers to help you. If you've been thinking seriously about learning to sew, or if you already do some of your sewing, advance your knowledge by learning to tailor, do it in January. It's a sewing generation, so join the "in" people and your life will be lifted with enthusiasm and a new dimension will be added.

MRS. FREDA YORK, New Washington, Ind., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her sewing suggestion:

"My ironing board cover always seems to wear out first where I set the iron on end. Before it gets worn very much, I iron on a patch as is used on the knee of blue jeans. These come in several colors that will almost match your cover. It's a neat smooth repair and makes the cover wear much longer!"

(P.S. You could also press on a huge floral pattern or cut out a whimsical design from a bright color and use the type of bonding agent that bonds the two layers together, and this will not only serve the same purpose, but also add a little color to a drab board!)

DEAR EUNICE,

You certainly got me into the mood of at least making a holiday skirt to wear at home with my family, so I went out and got some quilted fabric. It looked like it would be the easiest to make in the least amount of time. Somehow, I ended up with enough fabric left to make my year old girl a long skirt to match mine. Did I really need a pattern for this type of skirt, and how could the bulky look be avoided at the waistline?

MRS. N.C.

DEAR MRS. N.C.,

I knew this would be fun for you, and I hope many of my readers got busy and did the same thing. You are right, the quilted fabric is certainly the easiest to work with because it requires no lining. There are many ways this skirt could have been made.

If you are tall and extremely thin, most women buy 1½ yards of this fabric and use it on the cross grain, gather the waistline and apply the waistband. Only one seam is needed for this straight skirt, that would be the center back seam. If you wish to take out some of the bulky look at the waist, make several short darts about 4 inches long at intervals in your fabric. You could also lay in a center front unpressed pleat to remove some of the excess at the waistline. Most 5-year-old girls would need more of a jumper top for their skirt or at least suspenders to keep the skirt up. I think you probably gave your little girl the thrill of her life when you made her such a glamorous grown up long skirt like mommie's.

If you wish a more fitted skirt at the waistline and hips, I would suggest you use a pattern that has darts at the waist and ends in an A-line. You will probably need a pattern for this, although you could use a regular pattern and add the additional length.

For a shaped or A-line skirt, you will have to buy more yardage than one length. If the design is a one way design, you will need two lengths. If it is not a one way design, you can fit the pattern on your fabric by reversing one section of the pattern which requires less fabric. It is best to try to find the yardage on a pattern that is already cut long, or else take your pattern pieces and figure your fabric requirements by laying the pattern onto a paper the width of the fabric.

If you have a little fabric left over, the very short, sleeveless bolero is a great addition to your long skirt and really compliments a long-sleeved shirt!

If you have problems with sleeves, you will want to read Eunice Farmer's booklet "All About Sleeves." Step-by-step instructions are given to help you make your sleeves professional looking. To obtain your booklet send 10 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Simons Is A New President

MRS. EDWARD SIMONS

Mrs. Edward Simons, new president of the Episcopal Churchwomen of Mill Valley's Church of Our Saviour, says church work is her major interest other than her home and family.

A member of the group six years, she has served previously as treasurer and assistant treasurer and as chairman of the church's big antiques show and sale two years ago. She is a member of the altar guild of the church's finance committee.

As her special project for the year she hopes to form a closer parish-to-parish relationship with the Episcopal Diocese in Matabeleland, Africa.

A native of Ogden, Utah, Lucianne Simons was graduated from Sacred Heart Academy there and Henegars Business College in Salt Lake City and Smithsonian Business College in Ogden.

A chief yeoman with the Coast Guard in Washington, D.C., during World War II, she was among the first group of women to go into military service at that time.

She also worked as secretary to the vice president of industrial relations of the Matson Navigation Company in San Francisco two different times, for the Ogden Standard Examiner and with the aero-space program at the Northrup and Douglas Aircraft Corporation in Ogden.

Mrs. Simons has not worked since the family moved to Mill Valley from Ogden six years ago. Her husband is a consultant engineer with his own offices in Tiburon. They have a son, Chris Murphy, 17, who is a student at Tamalpais High School.

The new president, who is a member of the Outdoor Art Club, says she enjoys music, especially opera and symphony.

Other new officers are Mmes. William Cullen, vice president; Lester Fitzsimmons, recording secretary; and William Woodbridge, treasurer.

Debutantes And Svetlana Are Making News In Marin

By MOLLY MARIN

Since the Marin Debutante Ball on Monday night will be the last large party in the Mural Room at the St. Francis Hotel before the new ballroom and tower are completed there and the 16th Century murals removed, the ball will take on a Renaissance flavor, picking up the muted gold, burgundy and rose hues of the paintings.

The 13 debutantes in formal white gowns will be introduced as a group from the Renaissance Pleasure Faire forms a tableau in costume following their own processional. Baroque music will be played on harpsichord, flutes and harps, and the walls will be hung with large banners of silk. Each debutante has made her own banner as well, and they will be hung in the California Room.

Justice Richard Sims Jr. of Belvedere will introduce the girls, who will be accompanied by their fathers at the presentation, and Russell Smith of Ross will present them again from the stage at the far side of the ballroom.

An orchestra will provide the strains for dancing after the presentation.

Ball guests will be seated for dinner at 8:30 p.m. and the debs will be presented at 10 o'clock, a little earlier than in previous years.

Debutante Ball chairman is Mrs. Dolph B. Hill Jr. of Petaluma, assisted by Mrs. William P. Murray Jr. of San Rafael and Mrs. Richard B. Hay of Petaluma. Others on the committee are Mmes. William Brownell, Max Thelen, Charles Hamilton, William Milliken, Leon Smith, Sanford Paganucci, John Ward, Edwin L. Griffith, Kirk Frederick, William Haney, Harry Orrick, Richie Hay, John Manwaring, Lee Gammill and Richard Newell; and Messrs. Murray, Hill, Hay and William Schoenfeld.

Also this year some of the past-debs will be pressed into service to assist the current debutantes.

SVETLANA PETERS

MRS. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, her sister-in-law, confirmed the news today that the former Svetlana Stalin is expecting a baby. The daughter of the former Soviet premier, is married to Marge Hayakawa's brother, architect William Wesley Peters, who is vice president of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation in Phoenix, Ariz.

The 44-year-old daughter of the late Joseph Stalin is expecting the baby in May, Mrs. Hayakawa said.

"I have known about this for some time, she said, "but they asked me not to say anything until the news became public. I think this is the most wonderful thing — Their meeting and romance is a great love story, and I think it gives people the feeling that wonderful things can happen."

Dr. and Mrs. Hayakawa, who live in Mill Valley, are leaving today to spend four days on the island of Maui, Hawaii, with Dr. Hayakawa's father, Ichiro Hayakawa, before returning for Christmas with their family. Remaining at home are their daughter, Wynne, and son, Mark.

Joining them for Christmas will be their niece, Masako Hayakawa, who is a student at Berkeley. Unable to be present will be their son Alan and his wife Cynthea, who live in Portland, Ore.

JUSTICE SIMS officiated today at the wedding of Mrs. William H. Baldwin (Marjorie Towne) and John Baker Willcutt of Ross at the home of the bride's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Towne Baldwin of Belvedere. Attendants were Mrs. Charles E. Pollock and Gerald Thomas, both of Marin.

The new Mrs. Willcutt is the daughter of Mrs. Gardner B. Towne and the late Mr. Towne, she is the sister of Mrs. David Fasken and the mother of Mrs. William H. Baker of Darien, Conn.

Mr. Willcutt has two daughters by his marriage to Maudee Graves Willcutt, Roberta (Bobbin) and Maudee (Tres) Willcutt.

The girls' mother, who has moved to Sonoma from Kent Woodlands, is expected to be married to John Vigors next week in Sonoma. She is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Jefferson Graves of Ross and the mother of Mrs. Robert Quinlan of San Francisco. Jefferson Graves Jr. of Ross is her brother.

MRS. DELMAR Smith Clinton of Mill Valley, a leader in Marin social and music circles for many years, will celebrate her 90th birthday on Christmas day. She will be honored at a large reception to be given by her daughter, Mrs. Gerald H. Drew of Rehoboth Beach, Del., on Dec. 27 from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Century Club in San Francisco.

Hosts for the party will be Mrs. Clinton's two granddaughters and their husbands. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart McDill of San Francisco and Dr. and Mrs. Willard Day of Reno, Nev. Also present will be Mrs. Clinton's sons, John D. Clinton of Mill Valley and Delmar Clinton of San Francisco.

Coming from out of town are her niece, Mrs. John D. Johnson of New York City and her twin daughters, Gail Johnson of San Francisco and Mrs. S. E. Gilson of Hermosa Beach.

MR. AND Mrs. Salvadore Scotto celebrated 60 years of marriage Dec. 8 with a family dinner and private mass at their home in San Rafael. They were married near Naples in Italy and he came to San Francisco in 1913. Amelia Scotto wasn't able to follow until the end of the war in 1919. They moved to Novato for a short time and then settled in San Rafael where they have lived since 1920.

Their children are Mrs. Robert Thierfeldt of San Rafael, Michael Scotto, Hugo Scotto and Guido Scotto of San Rafael and Vincent Scotto of Mill Valley. They have nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

FRED PERRY III of Sausalito sailed from San Francisco last week aboard the liner Statendam on a Caribbean cruise, and his family joined him on board for a bon voyage before the ship cast off. The group included his parents, the Fred Perrys of Sausalito, Mrs. Joseph Morello of Corte Madera and Mrs. Margaret Compagno of Daly City. The latter two are his sisters. Mr. Perry will be away for a month's tour.

THE CHRISTMAS party for children of Sausalito Yacht Club members will be staged by the Women's Auxiliary tomorrow from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the clubhouse. Mrs. Carl Lescheske is chairman.

Highlight of the afternoon will be a puppet show presented by Lewis Mahlmann and the appearance of Santa Claus (Robert Miller). Santa's helpers will be Carol Anderson and Lucinda and Cynthia Steele.

THE 55TH wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kuimelis of Ross will be celebrated tomorrow with a family dinner with their daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Richard Simi of San Francisco, and Mrs. Jack Wyatt Parshall of Burlingame, and their husbands and the honored couple's grandchildren, Lyon and Lloyd Simi, and Stephan and Kevin Parshall.

The former Elizabeth Murphy and Mr. Kuimelis were married in San Francisco Dec. 20, 1915, and Mr. Kuimelis was active in the grocery business at the corner of Union and Baker Streets in the San Francisco Marina for 40 years. The couple moved to Ross upon his retirement in 1955.

Another TV Film On Jury's Agenda

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Jurors in the Valentine's Day riot trial may see another television film Monday and also may listen to a San Rafael police official testify about riot control procedures.

The film presentation and police testimony are sought by defense attorneys for seven persons being tried in Solano Superior Court on charges arising from the Feb. 14 rally against the Independent-Journal. The prosecutor, Marin County Deputy Dist. Atty Joshua W. Thomas, warned yesterday he may seek to block or severely limit the evidence.

Judge William E. Jensen sent the jury out of the courtroom, while he, the attorneys and the defendants viewed a half-minute segment of movie film taken by KPIX cameramen during the rioting.

Defense Attorney Carl B. Shapiro had obtained the film because it showed the arrest of one of his clients, John J. DeMartini, 42, of Mill Valley. DeMartini is vice president of San Francisco International Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J on Jan. 7.

Thomas protested that the defense must be subjected to the same operating rules as he was when he earlier presented another television film. The defense must consent to showing actions "good as well as bad" instead of a few seconds of selected film, he said.

Judge Jensen ordered the television cameraman and the entire film subpoenaed to court at 10 a.m. Monday. He said he would view the full film then rule on its admissibility.

Thomas L. Stephenson, San Rafael police captain, also was subpoenaed for Monday morning. The defense requested that he bring the department's "riot control manual." Thomas told the court that no such manual existed at the time of the violent rally. He said Stephenson would bring such "scattered documents on procedures" that the department had at the time.

In between legal arguments, the defense yesterday began presenting a case for the last of the seven defendants, deaf-mute printer Joe E. Reese, 32, of Hayward.

James Wesley Taylor of Hayward, a San Francisco Chronicle pressman, testified he was a close friend of Reese. Taylor, also a deaf-mute, said he attended the rally, and went to the Marin County Jail to help Reese after he was arrested.

Through an interpreter, Taylor described seeing a dark red welt across Reese's back. He said it was inflicted by police clearing the demonstrators from Julia Street. He testified that a color photo introduced by the defense depicted the injury.

Also on the stand yesterday were defendant Alvis D. Bailey, 43, of San Francisco, and Milton D. Sterman of Santa Rosa, a printer testifying for Bailey.

Sterman said he had never seen Bailey before attending the Feb. 14 rally. He pointed out Bailey in the courtroom, and said he saw him scuffling with police in Julia Street.

Bailey broke free of the tangle, and said, "Don't you ever hit me with that stick again," Sterman testified.

Then police jumped Bailey again. "One smacked him on the back with a club; another grabbed him around the neck and dragged him back toward the I-J building, Sterman testified.

"They kicked the man, took his club (picket stick) when he was lying on the ground. They beat his head and kicked his kidneys," Sterman said.

The Santa Rosan said he tried to get a nearby television cameraman to film the incident, but "a policeman, well over six feet, stood in front of him and said, 'nobody's taking pictures here today'."

The prosecution films shown earlier recorded Bailey's struggle with police.

Under cross-examination, Bailey yesterday flatly declared that a photograph showing him holding a picket stick high above his head was not because he was going to swing it at a police officer. He said "the officer was pushing my arm back" trying to take the stick away from him.

Bailey and Thomas also sparred over the defendant's claim that he was helpless to resist after being knocked down, because several officers put their knees on his head. Thomas showed him photos in which the officers' knees were not on his head. Bailey said that was because he was not yet fully knocked down.

Bailey, a member of Newspaper and Periodical Drivers Union 921, contended that "to my knowledge I never did anything unlawful" at the rally.

The other defendants on trial include James S. Brooke, 36, of Guerneville; Terry W. Lansing, 20, of Oakland; Nimmes H. Shelton, 41, of San Francisco, and Charles P. Vance, 56, of South San Francisco.

First Budget Round Is Set

The Dixie School District board will begin preliminary budget discussions for 1971-72 at a special meeting Jan. 6 at 8 p.m. at the administration office, 35 Trellis Drive, Terra Linda.

The board will consider projections of income and expenditures, assessed valuation in the district and enrollment.

Also on the agenda is action on a request by the district's Certificated Employees Council for an 11.8 per cent pay raise retroactive to July 1. The board informally rejected the raise on Dec. 2.

Preserve Areas Due Detailed Look

The Marin County Planning Commission will devote a full morning Monday to discussion of the future of agricultural preserve areas in Marin.

The meeting will start at 9 a.m. in the commission chambers on the third floor of the Civic Center.

A Land Conservation Advisory Committee, appointed by county supervisors, has recommended that 213,000 acres now designated as agricultural preserve areas be reduced to 92,000 acres, the area already under agricultural preserve contract.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell argued against the drastic reduction in the agricultural preserve area. He suggested that a new zoning district, called the agricultural and land conservation district, be established and applied to all areas that are now zoned limited agricultural.

The new district would give the county some control over existing open land, said Von Gundell. For example, the new district could specify a minimum building site of 20 acres, with 50 and 75 foot yard setbacks.

Planning commissioners also will decide whether the county should cancel agricultural preserve contracts on some small (less than 100 acres) parcels, as recommended by the Land Conservation Advisory Committee.

The county commission's afternoon agenda includes:

KENTFIELD — Continued hearing on Gus Niederholzer's request for planned apartment zoning on his 3.4 acres on Geary Avenue at Toussin Street, Kentfield.

WOODSHOP — The county superintendent of schools will ask for permission to build a shop building at the Marin County Farm, 1450 Lucas Valley Road, near homes on Idylberry Road and Mount Lassen Drive.

FILL PERMIT — Tony Morris, who has a .41-acre parcel along Tomales Bay south of Inverness, wants to fill his property which juts 393-feet from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard toward the bay. The county fill committee said the fill should stop at 170 feet from Drake Boulevard.

MARINA — Larry Marks Jr. will submit a tentative subdivision map for nine homes on seven acres along Tomales Bay, just north of Golden Hinde Boatel in Inverness. This is the same property where the Sierra Club has sued for a ruling on the public's right of navigation, fishing and recreation.

CHICKEN — Hearing of protests against plans to convert the former C's Drive-In at 410 Miller Avenue, outside Mill Valley, into a Kentucky Fried Chicken take-home restaurant.

Fracas Jury Fails On Verdict; Mistrial Declared

A jury in Marin Superior Court yesterday divided 9 to 3 over whether a 19-year-old San Anselmo youth was guilty of a felony count of battery against a police officer during an April fracas in San Anselmo.

Judge Henry J. Broderick declared a mistrial in the case of Bernardo Groves and the youth then decided to accept an offer to plead guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge.

He admitted disturbing the peace of officer David Oliva.

Groves, who wears leg braces and walks with crutches, had been accused of hitting Oliva during the fracas which started after the officer stopped Groves in his car for not having a license plate.

A charge of interfering with an officer against a pregnant woman who was with Groves was dismissed earlier this year.

Groves is to be sentenced Jan. 4.

Hearing Is Set On Drug Charges

A preliminary hearing has been set for Feb. 16 in Marin Municipal Court for two men accused of possessing heroin and marijuana when arrested Dec. 8 in their pickup truck in Sausalito.

Charged with the felonies are Steven Charles Barrett, 37, of known address, and Charles Buddy Beyes, 24, of Gretena, La.

Station Looted

An undetermined amount of cash was stolen Thursday night from a floor safe at the H and H Enco service station, 411 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley police reported. Officers said the building was entered by knocking a hole in the rear wall.

PLAN PAYS
FUNERAL BILLS

Many people will be pleased to know that there is now available a plan which pays funeral expenoses. It is available to persons up to age 90. There are no enrollment fees and a few cents a day provides complete protection from funeral expenses regardless of where death occurs. The plan is good anywhere in the World. The plan is called the American Funeral Plan and is underwritten by the American Guaranty Life Insurance Company. Complete information without cost or obligation can be obtained by writing American Funeral Plan.

CHRISTMAS IN GREENBRAE
The price is right! Clean, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, with a Bay view, seasoned landscaping. Extra storage. Unusual to find a home of this quality in this excellent neighborhood for only $39,500. Owner might assist with financing. We'd be most happy to make an appt. for you to see this unusual opportunity.
NEW YEAR'S IN PEACOCK
Just listed! It's unusual for a condominium at Peacock Terrace to come on the market and when one does, it doesn't last very long. This one is just above the 11th green. Besides the atrium, there are 2 other patios, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, plus study, stainless sink and oven, self-cleaning of course, electric garage door opener, cable TV, in fact all the extras that you would expect from a quality home. Flexible occupancy. A good investment at $44,950.

CHRISTMAS IN GREENBRAE
The price is right! Clean, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, with a Bay view, seasoned landscaping. Extra storage. Unusual to find a home of this quality in this excellent neighborhood for only $39,500. Owner might assist with financing. We'd be most happy to make an appt. for you to see this unusual opportunity.

NEW YEAR'S IN PEACOCK
Just listed! It's unusual for a condominium at Peacock Terrace to come on the market and when one does, it doesn't last very long. This one is just above the 11th green. Besides the atrium, there are 2 other patios, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, plus study, stainless sink and oven, self-cleaning of course, electric garage door opener, cable TV, in fact all the extras that you would expect from a quality home. Flexible occupancy. A good investment at $44,950.

San Francisco Man Pleads Innocent

Blake Hall Bowen, 25, of San Francisco has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possession of marijuana. Preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 9.

Bowen was arrested Dec. 10 when Novato police stopped him for driving without tail lights. A bag of suspected marijuana was found in a car door pocket and three hand rolled cigarettes were found in Bowen's pocket, police said.

San Francisco Man Pleads Innocent

Blake Hall Bowen, 25, of San Francisco has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possession of marijuana. Preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 9.

Bowen was arrested Dec. 10 when Novato police stopped him for driving without tail lights. A bag of suspected marijuana was found in a car door pocket and three hand rolled cigarettes were found in Bowen's pocket, police said.

Reed Trustees Slates Closed Salary Session

The Reed School District board will hold a special closed meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Bel Aire School to discuss contract negotiations with the district's teachers.

Teachers Tuesday rejected a contract proposed by trustees calling for a 5.2 per cent wage boost, and declared a "sanctions alert" against the district.

The board also will discuss hiring of a superintendent to replace interim Supt. Stanley H. Friese, on loan from the county schools office. Friese will return to the county office Jan. 4.

Reed Trustees Slates Closed Salary Session

The Reed School District board will hold a special closed meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Bel Aire School to discuss contract negotiations with the district's teachers.

Teachers Tuesday rejected a contract proposed by trustees calling for a 5.2 per cent wage boost, and declared a "sanctions alert" against the district.

The board also will discuss hiring of a superintendent to replace interim Supt. Stanley H. Friese, on loan from the county schools office. Friese will return to the county office Jan. 4.

New Vicar For Ignacio Church

The Church In Ignacio (Episcopal) is observing the Christmas season with a new vicar — Rev. Joe R. Kennedy, formerly associate rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Oakland.

Kennedy, 38, succeeds Rev. Charles B. Gompertz, who resigned several months ago.

A native of Falls City, Neb., he attended high school in Oklahoma City and received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from the University of Omaha. He received his divinity degree from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and has done graduate work at Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley.

Prior to joining the staff at St. Paul's in 1966 where he was also headmaster, Kennedy served churches in Panhandle, Tex., and Winfield, Kan.

The church, located in the Pacheco Plaza Shopping Center, has Holy Communion services at 8 and 10 a.m. on Sundays with the sermon at the 10 a.m. service. Also a communion service is held every Wednesday.

The Christmas schedule includes a wassail party, 7:30 p.m., Tuesday; festival lessons and carols, 5 p.m.; festival eucharist mass, 11 p.m., Christmas Eve., and a 10 a.m. service, Christmas Day.

Papal Gendarmerie Nearing Duty's End

VATICAN CITY (UPI) Pope Paul VI has set Jan. 20 as the date for dissolution of the Papal gendarmerie and its replacement by a civilian law enforcement agency.

The Vatican announced the date and other details of a law governing the transition.

It said the 140-man gendarmerie, until now responsible for the Pope's personal security and for law enforcement in the 108.7-acre Vatican City state, will be replaced by a "Central Vigilance Office" under the Vatican governor's office.

The Vatican said the new force would be marked by "extreme simplicity" and would be of a strictly civilian nature in line with the Pope's desire to stress the religious nature of his mission.

The new agency's tasks, organization and other details will be announced early next year, the Vatican said.

Pope Paul VI announced Sept. 15 he was doing away with the gendarmerie and two colorful corps of part-time soldiers, the Noble and Palatine Guards, so "everything that surrounds the successor of Peter would clearly manifest the religious nature of his mission."

While dissolution of the guard corps was effective immediately, the disbanding of the gendarmerie was put off until the new surveillance agency could be set up.

Vatican sources said the new agency — comparable to security guards at U.N. headquarters in New York — would have a complement of 90 men. Of these, they said, 80 will be drawn from among the 140 gendarmes.

The other 60 gendarmes will be given other jobs of some kind or retire, the sources said. They said among those retiring will be the gendarmerie commander, Col. Spartaco Angelini.

Members of the new agency will take over such Gendarmerie chores as handling traffic in the 108.7-acre Vatican state, guarding its gates, courtyards, museum and rarely used railroad station.

Halberd — carrying Swiss Guards — the only ancient armed corps retained by Pope Paul — will take over guard duties from the gendarmerie inside the Papal Palace.

Episcopal Church In A 'First'

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The nation's first woman deacon in the Episcopal Church was ordained last Sunday night.

Kathleen Ryan, 33, Tucson, was ordained by Rt. Rev. Kosph M. Harte, bishop of the Diocese of Arizona, at a ceremony at St. Philip's in the Hills Church.

The ordination was made possible by a canon change Oct. 21 at the general convention of the church in Houston.

"I'm sure women eventually will be allowed to be priests, but I'm not even thinking of that. I'll leave my vocation in the hands of God," she said.

Miss Ryan, a graduate of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific at Berkeley, will assist the Rev. Joseph Heistand, rector of St. Philip's here.

A native Coloradan who graduated from Colorado State University, Miss Ryan said, "I got very interested in church and volunteer work while working in San Jose, Calif. I decided to try my life in the seminary and see if it would work. It certainly was the right thing to do."

African Missions

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Lay Mission-Helpers of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Los Angeles maintains missions in five African nations, including Rhodesia, Malawi and Uganda.

JUST CALL ME 'ANYTIME'

Rev. Charles K. Trewhella of Portland, Ore., points to his new license plates which signify "PADRE." Trewhella, director of Pastoral Services at Good Samaritan Hospital, feels that being a minister isn't an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. job and with his new plates he will be on call 24-hours a day. He said it's like an open invitation for anyone on the highways to pull "me over in time of need."

CHANUKKAH TO BEGIN TUESDAY

Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, will observe Chanukkah, the eight-day festival of lights, beginning Tuesday with 4:30 p.m. services.

In his Chanukkah message Rabbi David Davis of Congregation Rodef Sholom said this week that the outstanding element of the festival is "spiritual" and not the "victory of arms, nor the national glory and power won. . ."

Theologian To Hanover Bishopric

HANOVER, West Germany (LWF) — A 46-year-old theologian from the University of Goettingen, Eduard Lohse, has been elected to succeed Bishop Hanns Lilje of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Hanover.

He was the only candidate named by a senate of the 3.9-million member regional body, largest Lutheran grouping in either part of Germany.

Following his election, he told the press that he probably would not assume the office until next summer following the close of the academic year.

The recent election met a request of the retiring bishop, who asked as he announced about a year ago that he would leave the post that a successor be named before next March 31, the end of the church's current legislative period.

A churchman with an illustrious career, Bishop Lilje, 71, is known globally in Lutheran and ecumenical circles.

He was named to the Hanover bishopric in 1947.

Nun Elected

MANILA (UPI) — Of the 320 delegates elected by Filipino voters for the 1972 Philippine constitutional convention, one is a Roman Catholic nun — Sister Sonia Aldequer. Another is a poet — Amado Yuzon, president-for-life of the Poets Laureate International.

LISTENING, TOO?

Various Ways To Minister To The Needs Of Another

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

There are many ways in which one human being can minister to the needs of another.

Feeding the hungry, housing the homeless, healing the sick are traditional "ministries of mercy" well known to everyone.

But you seldom hear anyone mention the ministry of listening.

Because listening seems to be purely passive, we don't realize it can be an act of kindness.

Yet there are many occasions when it's the most helpful thing you can do for a person in trouble.

When you really listen to someone, more than your ears are involved. Your heart has to be engaged too. To listen, in a true sense, is to open yourself up to another person, and take his pains or troubles or bewilderments into yourself.

Many genuinely compassionate people make poor listeners. They are so anxious to correct the problem that's causing pain they begin to break in with advice and solutions before they've heard the whole story.

Veteran listeners say this is bad form. It's their experience that when a person confides in you, he usually doesn't want advice: he wants somebody to understand and care about his troubles.

Sometimes — as in the case of a person who is grieving over the death of a loved one — there's really nothing you can do to "solve" the problem. Any effort to distract a friend from his grief will only make him feel more lonely because it will convince him that you really don't comprehend how he feels.

In such situations, listening requires a willingness to suffer silently with the grieving friend, accepting not only reality but also the insolubility of his problem.

Another essential aspect of the art of listening, according to expert practitioners, is the ability to suspend moral judgment — or at least, to suppress the urge to voice moral judgments.

Some morally upright people find this quite difficult. They feel that if they keep quiet when another person confesses a misdeed or unworthy motive, their silence may be construed as tacit approval.

But no less a moral authority than Jesus of Nazareth refuted the notion that we are required to condemn any course of action which we cannot in good conscience condone. The basic rule laid down by Jesus was: "Do not judge others."

When you listen to a person's troubles in silent sympathy, restraining the impulse to offer good advice or moral counsel, you show him that you care for him, and that you accept him for what he is.

To care and to accept are to love, so listening is an act of love. Indeed, it may be a more intimate act of love — in the sense of establishing true human contact at a deep level — than a purely physical sexual encounter.

In contemporary urban society, where relationships between people seem to be growing ever more impersonal and dehumanized, there is great need for the ministry of listening.

The beauty of it is that this is one form of service that NO one is too old or sick or poor or weak to undertake. The feeblest and frailest person can listen — and in doing so, can give to others the benison of knowing that somebody cares.

Moslem Can Wed Christian Woman

SINGAPORE (UPI) — A Moslem male here can marry a woman professing the Christian or Jewish faith, according to a Moslem religious body here.

The Moslem Advisory Board, the highest local Moslem authority, recently ruled that a Moslem man can take a Christian or a Jewish woman as his wife without her changing or denouncing her religion.

New Vicar For Ignacio Church

The Church In Ignacio (Episcopal) is observing the Christmas season with a new vicar — Rev. Joe R. Kennedy, formerly associate rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Oakland.

Kennedy, 38, succeeds Rev. Charles B. Gompertz, who resigned several months ago.

A native of Falls City, Neb., he attended high school in Oklahoma City and received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from the University of Omaha. He received his divinity degree from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and has done graduate work at Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley.

Prior to joining the staff at St. Paul's in 1966 where he was also headmaster, Kennedy served churches in Panhandle, Tex., and Winfield, Kan.

The church, located in the Pacheco Plaza Shopping Center, has Holy Communion services at 8 and 10 a.m. on Sundays with the sermon at the 10 a.m. service. Also a communion service is held every Wednesday.

The Christmas schedule includes a wassail party, 7:30 p.m., Tuesday; festival lessons and carols, 5 p.m.; festival eucharist mass, 11 p.m., Christmas Eve., and a 10 a.m. service, Christmas Day.

Papal Gendarmerie Nearing Duty's End

VATICAN CITY (UPI) Pope Paul VI has set Jan. 20 as the date for dissolution of the Papal gendarmerie and its replacement by a civilian law enforcement agency.

The Vatican announced the date and other details of a law governing the transition.

It said the 140-man gendarmerie, until now responsible for the Pope's personal security and for law enforcement in the 108.7-acre Vatican City state, will be replaced by a "Central Vigilance Office" under the Vatican governor's office.

The Vatican said the new force would be marked by "extreme simplicity" and would be of a strictly civilian nature in line with the Pope's desire to stress the religious nature of his mission.

The new agency's tasks, organization and other details will be announced early next year, the Vatican said.

Pope Paul VI announced Sept. 15 he was doing away with the gendarmerie and two colorful corps of part-time soldiers, the Noble and Palatine Guards, so "everything that surrounds the successor of Peter would clearly manifest the religious nature of his mission."

While dissolution of the guard corps was effective immediately, the disbanding of the gendarmerie was put off until the new surveillance agency could be set up.

Vatican sources said the new agency — comparable to security guards at U.N. headquarters in New York — would have a complement of 90 men. Of these, they said, 80 will be drawn from among the 140 gendarmes.

The other 60 gendarmes will be given other jobs of some kind or retire, the sources said. They said among those retiring will be the gendarmerie commander, Col. Spartaco Angelini.

Members of the new agency will take over such Gendarmerie chores as handling traffic in the 108.7-acre Vatican state, guarding its gates, courtyards, museum and rarely used railroad station.

Halberd — carrying Swiss Guards — the only ancient armed corps retained by Pope Paul — will take over guard duties from the gendarmerie inside the Papal Palace.

Episcopal Church In A 'First'

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The nation's first woman deacon in the Episcopal Church was ordained last Sunday night.

Kathleen Ryan, 33, Tucson, was ordained by Rt. Rev. Kosph M. Harte, bishop of the Diocese of Arizona, at a ceremony at St. Philip's in the Hills Church.

The ordination was made possible by a canon change Oct. 21 at the general convention of the church in Houston.

"I'm sure women eventually will be allowed to be priests, but I'm not even thinking of that. I'll leave my vocation in the hands of God," she said.

Miss Ryan, a graduate of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific at Berkeley, will assist the Rev. Joseph Heistand, rector of St. Philip's here.

A native Coloradan who graduated from Colorado State University, Miss Ryan said, "I got very interested in church and volunteer work while working in San Jose, Calif. I decided to try my life in the seminary and see if it would work. It certainly was the right thing to do."

African Missions

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Lay Mission-Helpers of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Los Angeles maintains missions in five African nations, including Rhodesia, Malawi and Uganda.

Nun Elected

MANILA (UPI) — Of the 320 delegates elected by Filipino voters for the 1972 Philippine constitutional convention, one is a Roman Catholic nun — Sister Sonia Aldequer. Another is a poet — Amado Yuzon, president-for-life of the Poets Laureate International.

JUST CALL ME 'ANYTIME'

Rev. Charles K. Trewhella of Portland, Ore., points to his new license plates which signify "PADRE." Trewhella, director of Pastoral Services at Good Samaritan Hospital, feels that being a minister isn't an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. job and with his new plates he will be on call 24-hours a day. He said it's like an open invitation for anyone on the highways to pull "me over in time of need."

CHANUKKAH TO BEGIN TUESDAY

Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, will observe Chanukkah, the eight-day festival of lights, beginning Tuesday with 4:30 p.m. services.

In his Chanukkah message Rabbi David Davis of Congregation Rodef Sholom said this week that the outstanding element of the festival is "spiritual" and not the "victory of arms, nor the national glory and power won. . ."

Theologian To Hanover Bishopric

HANOVER, West Germany (LWF) — A 46-year-old theologian from the University of Goettingen, Eduard Lohse, has been elected to succeed Bishop Hanns Lilje of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Hanover.

He was the only candidate named by a senate of the 3.9-million member regional body, largest Lutheran grouping in either part of Germany.

Following his election, he told the press that he probably would not assume the office until next summer following the close of the academic year.

The recent election met a request of the retiring bishop, who asked as he announced about a year ago that he would leave the post that a successor be named before next March 31, the end of the church's current legislative period.

A churchman with an illustrious career, Bishop Lilje, 71, is known globally in Lutheran and ecumenical circles.

He was named to the Hanover bishopric in 1947.

LISTENING, TOO?

Various Ways To Minister To The Needs Of Another

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

There are many ways in which one human being can minister to the needs of another.

Feeding the hungry, housing the homeless, healing the sick are traditional "ministries of mercy" well known to everyone.

But you seldom hear anyone mention the ministry of listening.

Because listening seems to be purely passive, we don't realize it can be an act of kindness.

Yet there are many occasions when it's the most helpful thing you can do for a person in trouble.

When you really listen to someone, more than your ears are involved. Your heart has to be engaged too. To listen, in a true sense, is to open yourself up to another person, and take his pains or troubles or bewilderments into yourself.

Many genuinely compassionate people make poor listeners. They are so anxious to correct the problem that's causing pain they begin to break in with advice and solutions before they've heard the whole story.

Veteran listeners say this is bad form. It's their experience that when a person confides in you, he usually doesn't want advice: he wants somebody to understand and care about his troubles.

Sometimes — as in the case of a person who is grieving over the death of a loved one — there's really nothing you can do to "solve" the problem. Any effort to distract a friend from his grief will only make him feel more lonely because it will convince him that you really don't comprehend how he feels.

In such situations, listening requires a willingness to suffer silently with the grieving friend, accepting not only reality but also the insolubility of his problem.

Another essential aspect of the art of listening, according to expert practitioners, is the ability to suspend moral judgment — or at least, to suppress the urge to voice moral judgments.

Some morally upright people find this quite difficult. They feel that if they keep quiet when another person confesses a misdeed or unworthy motive, their silence may be construed as tacit approval.

But no less a moral authority than Jesus of Nazareth refuted the notion that we are required to condemn any course of action which we cannot in good conscience condone. The basic rule laid down by Jesus was: "Do not judge others."

When you listen to a person's troubles in silent sympathy, restraining the impulse to offer good advice or moral counsel, you show him that you care for him, and that you accept him for what he is.

To care and to accept are to love, so listening is an act of love. Indeed, it may be a more intimate act of love — in the sense of establishing true human contact at a deep level — than a purely physical sexual encounter.

In contemporary urban society, where relationships between people seem to be growing ever more impersonal and dehumanized, there is great need for the ministry of listening.

The beauty of it is that this is one form of service that NO one is too old or sick or poor or weak to undertake. The feeblest and frailest person can listen — and in doing so, can give to others the benison of knowing that somebody cares.

Moslem Can Wed Christian Woman

SINGAPORE (UPI) — A Moslem male here can marry a woman professing the Christian or Jewish faith, according to a Moslem religious body here.

The Moslem Advisory Board, the highest local Moslem authority, recently ruled that a Moslem man can take a Christian or a Jewish woman as his wife without her changing or denouncing her religion.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Cautionary Tale: Fearless Play Gets Deserving Ax

When the little woman demands "What are you afraid of?" the correct answer is "Plenty." The greater your intelligence, the more you fear. And since a bridge expert is a very intelligent creature, the only reason he doesn't quake like a jellyfish is that his clothing holds him firm. (Statistics show that very few bridge experts join nudist colonies.)

FEARLESS PLAYER

Just in case you were wondering what this had to do with today's bridge hand, listen to the sad tale of the Fearless Player.

West led the king of diamonds, and East followed suit with the five. West continued with the jack of diamonds, and East followed with the three, completing a high-low in the suit.

RUFFS THIRD DIAMOND

The high-low encouraged West to lead the suit again. South wasn't afraid of a thing. He ruffed the third diamond in dummy with the nine of spades.

This fearless play got exactly what it deserved — the ax. East overruffed with the king of spades, taking the third defensive trick.

DEFEAT CONTRACT

East returned a heart, and the defenders eventually took a heart and a club to defeat the contract. The Fearless Player smiled smugly as he scored 100 for his honors. He had a profit of 50 points, and what did it matter if his partner screamed for a few minutes? The Fearless Player could turn off his hearing aid.

Just in case your own hearing aid sticks when you try to turn it off, try a fearful play on a hand like this. When West leads a third diamond, quake under your shirt. You have seen East's high-low, and you should fear an overruff.

Discard a heart from dummy on the third diamond. Now if West shifts to a heart (as good a defense as any), you can take the top hearts and ruff a heart in dummy. Lead the nine of spades for a finesse, continue with another spade finesse and draw the last trump with the ace. The rest is easy, and you make three spades.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, opens with one club. Your partner doubles, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 9 8 7 3
♥ - 7 3 2
♦ - 10 8
♣ - 10 7 6 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

This is, of course, a ghastly hand, but you should nevertheless respond to your partner's takeout double. The weaker your hand, the more essential the response.

Unmarried women between 17 and 24 pay less for auto insurance than do married men under 25, the Insurance Information Institute reported.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venue, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1777 George Washington and the Continental Army began a winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

In 1942 members of the American Federation of Labor elected William Green president to succeed labor pioneer Samuel Gompers.

In 1965 Charles de Gaulle won a second five-year term as president of France.

In 1968 Norman Thomas, six-time Socialist party presidential candidate, died at the age of 84.

A thought for today: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "Intellect is invisible to the man who has none."

Broken Windows Told To Police

Two San Rafael homeowners have reported broken windows to police.

Claudette Jean Trout of 423 Riviera Drive told police a pellet cracked a $40 window at her home at 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

Also smashed Thursday was a 24-square-foot window of unknown value at the home of Jefferson A. Mulanex, 4 Highland Avenue, police said. The vandalism occurred between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., police reported.

Today is Saturday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venue, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1777 George Washington and the Continental Army began a winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

In 1942 members of the American Federation of Labor elected William Green president to succeed labor pioneer Samuel Gompers.

In 1965 Charles de Gaulle won a second five-year term as president of France.

In 1968 Norman Thomas, six-time Socialist party presidential candidate, died at the age of 84.

A thought for today: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "Intellect is invisible to the man who has none."

Broken Windows Told To Police

Two San Rafael homeowners have reported broken windows to police.

Claudette Jean Trout of 423 Riviera Drive told police a pellet cracked a $40 window at her home at 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

Also smashed Thursday was a 24-square-foot window of unknown value at the home of Jefferson A. Mulanex, 4 Highland Avenue, police said. The vandalism occurred between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., police reported.

Cautionary Tale: Fearless Play Gets Deserving Ax

When the little woman demands "What are you afraid of?" the correct answer is "Plenty." The greater your intelligence, the more you fear. And since a bridge expert is a very intelligent creature, the only reason he doesn't quake like a jellyfish is that his clothing holds him firm. (Statistics show that very few bridge experts join nudist colonies.)

FEARLESS PLAYER

Just in case you were wondering what this had to do with today's bridge hand, listen to the sad tale of the Fearless Player.

West led the king of diamonds, and East followed suit with the five. West continued with the jack of diamonds, and East followed with the three, completing a high-low in the suit.

RUFFS THIRD DIAMOND

The high-low encouraged West to lead the suit again. South wasn't afraid of a thing. He ruffed the third diamond in dummy with the nine of spades.

This fearless play got exactly what it deserved — the ax. East overruffed with the king of spades, taking the third defensive trick.

DEFEAT CONTRACT

East returned a heart, and the defenders eventually took a heart and a club to defeat the contract. The Fearless Player smiled smugly as he scored 100 for his honors. He had a profit of 50 points, and what did it matter if his partner screamed for a few minutes? The Fearless Player could turn off his hearing aid.

Just in case your own hearing aid sticks when you try to turn it off, try a fearful play on a hand like this. When West leads a third diamond, quake under your shirt. You have seen East's high-low, and you should fear an overruff.

Discard a heart from dummy on the third diamond. Now if West shifts to a heart (as good a defense as any), you can take the top hearts and ruff a heart in dummy. Lead the nine of spades for a finesse, continue with another spade finesse and draw the last trump with the ace. The rest is easy, and you make three spades.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:

♣ - 10 7 6 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. This is, of course, a ghastly hand, but you should nevertheless respond to your partner's takeout double. The weaker your hand, the more essential the response.

Christian Ethics Tested In Prolonged Labor Strife

NEXT WEEK WE observe the anniversary of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

What should be a joyous holiday season is upon us again.

It is a time when traditionally we feel a measure of malice toward none and charity toward all, in keeping with the teachings of Him whose birthday we commemorate.

For those of us at the I-J who are dedicated to Judeo-Christian ethics and teachings, it is rather a time of severe trial.

For nearly a year we have regularly been the targets of insult/obscenity from picketing strikers and anonymous phone callers.

Man's natural inclination is to reply in kind.

St. Luke tells us that Jesus taught, "Bless them that curse you."

Pickets have jostled some I-J employees and tried forcibly to prevent them from coming to work. Man's natural inclination is to meet force with force.

But Christ taught, "Unto him that smiteth you on the one cheek, offer also the other."

When young women employees of the I-J have been followed in the streets by striking printers, one is naturally inclined to become furious at such intimidation tactics.

But the first book of the Old Testament contains a passage which, translated into present-day language, warns, "Don't let your anger burn against an employee."

When spokesmen for San Francisco Typographical Union 21 make false and inflammatory accusations against the I-J, a man's natural instinct is to reply in the strongest terms, calling a lie a lie.

"A soft answer turneth away wrath," says the Book of Psalms.

"Cease from anger and foresake wrath," the psalmist adds for good measure.

When the chief spokesman for the striking union makes a speech which has the effect of declaring a state of war with the I-J, a man's inclination is to accept the challenge to all-out combat.

But Jesus says, "Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you."

THE WAR-LIKE atmosphere which the union spokesman described brings out the worst and the best in men.

The worst shows up in vandalism of the most despicable sort, sabotage, obscenity, malicious threats and violence, even including murder.

The best shows up in heart warming ways.

When a hooligan among pickets dumps sugar into the gas tank of the auto of a non-union worker, another picket privately informs the car's owner so it can be drained and cleaned without damaging the engine.

More than one picket inquired sympathetically and expressed hopes for a quick recovery of a worker who suffered a serious illness.

One picket inquired sympathetically about injuries suffered by a non-union worker and expressed hope for early recovery.

CAN THERE BE adherents to Judeo-Christian ethics and teachings on both sides of a labor dispute?

Yes, there can be. And there are. But you must watch and listen carefully to find them.

Nearly 2,000 years ago Christ observed, "A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth good; and an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart brings forth evil; for (out) of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh."

It is easy, then, to know who is evil and who is good; who is right and who is wrong?

Beware of categorizing.

Jesus admonished, "Judge not and ye shall not be judged; condemn not and ye shall not be condemned; forgive and ye shall be forgiven."

Rev. Arthur Sorenson, pastor of All Saints Lutheran Church of Novato, who conducted the funeral for the I-J's murdered Alan Daly last July, put the challenge to us bluntly.

We must say of Daly's murderers, as Christ did of his executioners, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Of Alan Daly's murderers we are challenged by Judeo-Christian teachings to say, "Forgive them, please God; have mercy on them."

To repeat, for those of us at the I-J who are dedicated to Judeo-Christian ethics and teachings, this Christmastime is not carefree and joyous; rather it is a time of severe trial of our dedication to our religious convictions and principals.

The Grandest Christmas Tree

The coast redwoods, which are native to Marin, are probably our grandest Christmas tree. Some of them were young giants when Christ was born.

Like Christ, they symbolize immortality, for even when they are cut down or burned they spring forth anew from their roots.

Sequoia sempervirens, the everliving Sequoia, is handsome, rugged, useful and an all-round great tree.

What better living Christmas tree could we want?

A Special Christmas Gift

Marinites this year are being offered the opportunity to give a different kind of Christmas present, which may have many appreciative recipients.

The Linear Accelerator Campaign of Marin is trying to raise $80,000 to assure purchase for Marin General Hospital of a linear accelerator for the treatment of cancer. The device would replace the cobalt machine which has been in use at the hospital for nine years. It is a later development, more effective and reliable, according to doctors.

The campaign is far short of its goal, but the campaigners, led by Mrs. Walter G. Strauss of Terra Linda, Marin Medical Society Auxiliary president, are not giving up. They plan to keep the drive going until the money is raised.

That's where that special kind of Christmas present comes in. A check to Linear Accelerator Campaign at 124 Bellam Boulevard, San Rafael, may help to provide this life-saving machine.

Bouquets — And One Brickbat

BOUQUETS to the Marin County Health Department for its well-run rubella inoculation centers, where 18,321 were immunized against German measles. There will be makeup clinics next month for those who missed on the first round.

BRICKBAT to the San Anselmo City Council for dropping its application for a planning grant on the basis that it is unwilling to have the city pay a $1000 inspection fee. The council previously had pledged $10,000 of city funds for the plan. If councilmen believe in the project $10,000 worth, they should believe in it $11,000 worth. If they have had second thoughts and don't want the planning survey, they should say so. The turn-around on the basis of the $1,000 added cost sounds like a copout.

BOUQUET to Tiburon Cub Scout Pack 48 for planting Monterey pine trees to landscape the new Reedland Woods School.

BOUQUET to the Golden Gate Bridge District for starting intracounty bus service in Marin.

"God rest you, restive gentlemen, as you to rest we lay!"

Fairfax Ruling Doesn't Make Sense

In regards your article stating "Fairfax Council will not waive regulation for job competition" (Dec. 15), all I can say is the City of Fairfax is badly in need of a new city administrator if only to rewrite the personnel regulations.

Fairfax allows the ins to get their relatives on the payroll, but forbids a man who is and has been a commissioner for seven years to compete fairly for a job opening in the city.

Are the people of Fairfax aware that the commissioner serves free, and that his job entails many hours of meetings and works, all for the citizens of the fine city of Fairfax?

Are the citizens of Fairfax aware that councilmen are paid, city administrators are paid, and street maintenance men are paid? They all come under the title of city employees. . .

It just doesn't make sense. . .

Firemen Save House In Storm

I would like to convey my thanks to the Larkspur Fire Department through your paper. During the storm of the evening of Dec. 15 our roof was blown off, and having tried several roofing firms to no avail, the firemen came out in the storm, and fixed the roof temporarily with tarpaulin. They were working for two hours in the terrible storm. Their efforts prevented further damage to the interior of our house. There is no way we can appreciate these fine men other than through your paper.

Why We Shouldn't Build SST: No Place To Fly The Tourists

WASHINGTON — President Nixon was asked at last week's press conference why he didn't release a top secret report on the SST that the White House had commissioned. The question was asked because it is believed that the report was unfavorable to the SST.

The President replied he had no objection to the substance of the report being made public. The problem was that when reports are made for the President, they're supposed to be held in confidence. That's what Mr. Nixon said.

MAX LINDBERGH, a friend of mine who is an aviation consultant, believes he knows what is in the report.

"It has nothing to do with the environment," Max told me. "The report says the reason we shouldn't build the SST is that by the time it comes off the assembly line there won't be any places left for Americans to go"

"I don't understand," I said.

"If we start on the SST now, it will be ready by 1979. Most scientists agree the SST is not a practical plane to fly over land because of its sonic boom. Its only value would be in flying over water, from one continent to another, in less than three hours. Therefore the success of the plane will be dependent on tourists, and there is some question as to how many tourists will be flying by 1979."

"I still don't understand."

"WELL, FOR ONE thing, South America by then will probably be off limits for American tourists unless they're willing to be kidnaped by Communist guerrillas.

"In 1979, we'll be in a trade war with Japan because she dumped all her television sets in the United States. The Japanese will retaliate by refusing to let us dump our tourists in Tokyo.

"Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa will ban U.S. tourists because we wouldn't let him attack the mainland of Red China. And Red China will refuse tourist rights to the United States because we wouldn't let Chiang Kai-shek attack the mainland."

"What about Australia?"

"Australia will turn down SST tourist flights because we put a high tariff on wool, and Hong Kong will do the same because we won't let any men's suits into the United States."

"India?"

"India won't be talking to the United States because we gave fighter planes to Pakistan."

"Pakistan?"

"Pakistan won't be talking to the United States because we gave tanks to India."

"SURELY SOUTH Vietnam will let us fly Americans to Saigon."

"Yes, but we won't find any American tourists who will want to go there."

"There is always Europe," I said.

"Hardly. The British will boycott the United States because we won't allow the Concorde, which they built with the French, to fly to the United States. And the French won't allow tourists to land in France because that's the way the French are."

"What about West Germany?"

"West Germany will be mad at us by then because we pulled 10,000 American troops out of NATO."

"I IMAGINE the Soviet Union will give us problems because they have built an SST of their own."

"Not because of that, but because Life magazine will have published the memoirs of the deposed chief of state, Premier Alexei Kosygin."

"What are the chances of an American tourist business in the Middle East?"

Max shook his head sadly. "Don't ask."

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

GovernmentByTelevision: St. Nicks Vs. The Dragon

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Nick Johnson, the bad boy of the Federal Communications Commission, came to Washington long ago as a clean-shaven, innocent-looking law clerk to Justice Hugo Black. Later, Lyndon Johnson, cognizant of the fact that the young man not only was named Johnson but was an honors graduate of the University of Texas, named him to the Federal Maritime Commission. And still later, in 1966, he put him on the FCC.

There begins the metamorphosis of a gadfly. Since joining the FCC, Johnson has abandoned his neat haircut and button-down wardrobe for wide ties, coiffure rather like William Kunstler's and a mustache rather like Buffalo Bill Cody's. Parallel to that metamorphosis has come his emergence into public view, usually raising hell with the broadcasting industry most of his colleagues think they were appointed to protect.

Being a Democrat whose term on the commission expires in 1973, and being absolutely sure that he will not be reappointed (unless the Democrats should win the White House in 1972), Johnson also has been having a lot of fun taking whacks at the Republican administration. Often he is able to combine his attacks on the broadcasters with attacks on Richard Nixon and friends. It's natural.

THE OTHER DAY, for example, he described this administration as the best example yet of "government by television."

What he said was that the administration has combined not always subtle coercion and refined show business techniques in using television more often and skillfully than anybody else ever thought of doing in politics. He added that the networks have helped, partly because they have been intimidated — whether or not they admit it — by the speeches and actions of Spiro Agnew and the FCC chairman, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, Dean Burch.

Burch's request for transcripts of commentators' remarks about a presidential address implied that "the FCC was going to be run as a branch office of the White House," Johnson declared, "and its powers might very well be used to punish those who failed to provide the propaganda support the administration desired."

That's the obvious part, on the public record — the coercion and intimidation. The show business part is not laid out so clearly. But it is more pervasive. Mr. Nixon masters it as if somebody at the White House had managed to boil down the turgid theories of Marshall McLuhan into a one-page memo for him on how television affects viewers. In fact, somebody over there undoubtedly has.

MR. NIXON'S semiannual press conference last week was too late for inclusion in Johnson's 40-page brief, but it included a precious instance of presidential McLuhanism in action.

It came when a reporter asked Mr. Nixon how he reconciled his professional status as a lawyer with his ill-advised comments on three cases yet undecided by the courts.

Totally uncharacteristically, the President conceded that the question was "legitimate criticism." Lawyers, like doctors, sometimes make mistakes, he said, and "that kind of comment probably is unjustified." Then he turned abruptly back to the other side of the room and called on Lu Warren of the Buffalo Evening News.

Those in the East Room were attentive as Warren asked about the election results. But most of those in the audience outside were letting the President's rare admission of indiscretion sink in. Next morning, the headlines on page 1 went to Mr. Nixon's statements on Vietnam, suburban integration and the economy. The reporters covering the press conference sifted through the substance and came out with what weighed the most in terms of hard news.

BUT THE SINGLE impression taken away by most of the nation, which had to watch the President in place of Walter Cronkite or the other network shows in that time slot, was of a Richard Nixon big enough to show humility there in front of the millions.

His answer to that question did not change the fact that he had done wrong in commenting on the court cases. But what the public remembers about it is his apparent sincerity in admitting it.

Nick Johnson's persistent slashing at the broadcast industry and the way the administration uses it is a public service, even if it is sometimes overstated. But even his flamboyance and his meticulous cataloguing of the programs and hours involved make a case only about the quantity of the administration's domination of political broadcasting. The quality of it, the way the style of the President's public appearances consistently outweighs what he says, is a much more elusive subject. That aspect of television makes Johnson's objections all the more frightening.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Common Market Setback Drops 'Spirit Of Hague'

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The "spirit of The Hague" symbolizing a new era of cooperation in Europe has taken a nasty knock.

Ministers of the European Common Market nations have abandoned their Jan. 1, 1971, target date for launching a sweeping plan for economic and monetary union.

The date was set by heads of government of the six market nations — West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg —meeting in The Hague one year ago.

The summit produced a new impetus for expansion of the Common Market dubbed by ministers the "spirit of The Hague."

BUT SHARP disagreement among market ministers over economic and monetary union "did not confirm the spirit of the Hague," West German Economics Minister Karl Schiller said.

The market's blueprint for economic and monetary integration calls for full union, including creation of a single European currency to rival the U.S. dollar by 1980.

It also calls for the eventual creation of a supranational "decision center" to control the economic policies of the six member countries and a federal bank system to administer the market's monetary affairs.

But strong French objections to handing over national powers to the community blocked approval of the blueprint at a 12-hour all-night ministerial session on Tuesday.

OFFICIALS INSIST the setback is only temporary.

But to make matters worse, the deadlock on economic and monetary union followed the ministers' failure to agree on a common position for terms for British entry into the market.

The decision to reopen negotiations with Britain — twice before vetoed by France —was another outcome of The Hague summit.

Britain has asked for eight years to adopt its full share of financing the market after becoming a member.

But France, once again ranged against the other five, insists that five years is enough. The others are more willing to offer safeguards to a nervous Britain.

ENLARGEMENT of the Common Market to include other West European states, and agreement on economic and monetary union are two of the corner stones on which plans for an eventual United States of Europe must be built.

The setback in the past few days, is not irreparable, but it has once again brought out the sharp differences between France and the rest of the Common Market partners, which had seemed to be mellowed by the "spirit of The Hague."

Firemen Save House In Storm

I would like to convey my thanks to the Larkspur Fire Department through your paper. During the storm of the evening of Dec. 15 our roof was blown off, and having tried several roofing firms to no avail, the firemen came out in the storm, and fixed the roof temporarily with tarpaulin. They were working for two hours in the terrible storm. Their efforts prevented further damage to the interior of our house. There is no way we can appreciate these fine men other than through your paper.

Why We Shouldn't Build SST: No Place To Fly The Tourists

WASHINGTON — President Nixon was asked at last week's press conference why he didn't release a top secret report on the SST that the White House had commissioned. The question was asked because it is believed that the report was unfavorable to the SST.

The President replied he had no objection to the substance of the report being made public. The problem was that when reports are made for the President, they're supposed to be held in confidence. That's what Mr. Nixon said.

MAX LINDBERGH, a friend of mine who is an aviation consultant, believes he knows what is in the report.

"It has nothing to do with the environment," Max told me. "The report says the reason we shouldn't build the SST is that by the time it comes off the assembly line there won't be any places left for Americans to go"

"I don't understand," I said.

"If we start on the SST now, it will be ready by 1979. Most scientists agree the SST is not a practical plane to fly over land because of its sonic boom. Its only value would be in flying over water, from one continent to another, in less than three hours. Therefore the success of the plane will be dependent on tourists, and there is some question as to how many tourists will be flying by 1979."

"I still don't understand."

"WELL, FOR ONE thing, South America by then will probably be off limits for American tourists unless they're willing to be kidnaped by Communist guerrillas.

"In 1979, we'll be in a trade war with Japan because she dumped all her television sets in the United States. The Japanese will retaliate by refusing to let us dump our tourists in Tokyo.

"Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa will ban U.S. tourists because we wouldn't let him attack the mainland of Red China. And Red China will refuse tourist rights to the United States because we wouldn't let Chiang Kai-shek attack the mainland."

"What about Australia?"

"Australia will turn down SST tourist flights because we put a high tariff on wool, and Hong Kong will do the same because we won't let any men's suits into the United States."

"India?"

"India won't be talking to the United States because we gave fighter planes to Pakistan."

"Pakistan?"

"Pakistan won't be talking to the United States because we gave tanks to India."

"SURELY SOUTH Vietnam will let us fly Americans to Saigon."

"Yes, but we won't find any American tourists who will want to go there."

"There is always Europe," I said.

"Hardly. The British will boycott the United States because we won't allow the Concorde, which they built with the French, to fly to the United States. And the French won't allow tourists to land in France because that's the way the French are."

"What about West Germany?"

"West Germany will be mad at us by then because we pulled 10,000 American troops out of NATO."

"I IMAGINE the Soviet Union will give us problems because they have built an SST of their own."

"Not because of that, but because Life magazine will have published the memoirs of the deposed chief of state, Premier Alexei Kosygin."

"What are the chances of an American tourist business in the Middle East?"

Max shook his head sadly. "Don't ask."

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

GovernmentByTelevision: St. Nicks Vs. The Dragon

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Nick Johnson, the bad boy of the Federal Communications Commission, came to Washington long ago as a clean-shaven, innocent-looking law clerk to Justice Hugo Black. Later, Lyndon Johnson, cognizant of the fact that the young man not only was named Johnson but was an honors graduate of the University of Texas, named him to the Federal Maritime Commission. And still later, in 1966, he put him on the FCC.

There begins the metamorphosis of a gadfly. Since joining the FCC, Johnson has abandoned his neat haircut and button-down wardrobe for wide ties, coiffure rather like William Kunstler's and a mustache rather like Buffalo Bill Cody's. Parallel to that metamorphosis has come his emergence into public view, usually raising hell with the broadcasting industry most of his colleagues think they were appointed to protect.

Being a Democrat whose term on the commission expires in 1973, and being absolutely sure that he will not be reappointed (unless the Democrats should win the White House in 1972), Johnson also has been having a lot of fun taking whacks at the Republican administration. Often he is able to combine his attacks on the broadcasters with attacks on Richard Nixon and friends. It's natural.

THE OTHER DAY, for example, he described this administration as the best example yet of "government by television."

What he said was that the administration has combined not always subtle coercion and refined show business techniques in using television more often and skillfully than anybody else ever thought of doing in politics. He added that the networks have helped, partly because they have been intimidated — whether or not they admit it — by the speeches and actions of Spiro Agnew and the FCC chairman, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, Dean Burch.

Burch's request for transcripts of commentators' remarks about a presidential address implied that "the FCC was going to be run as a branch office of the White House," Johnson declared, "and its powers might very well be used to punish those who failed to provide the propaganda support the administration desired."

That's the obvious part, on the public record — the coercion and intimidation. The show business part is not laid out so clearly. But it is more pervasive. Mr. Nixon masters it as if somebody at the White House had managed to boil down the turgid theories of Marshall McLuhan into a one-page memo for him on how television affects viewers. In fact, somebody over there undoubtedly has.

MR. NIXON'S semiannual press conference last week was too late for inclusion in Johnson's 40-page brief, but it included a precious instance of presidential McLuhanism in action.

It came when a reporter asked Mr. Nixon how he reconciled his professional status as a lawyer with his ill-advised comments on three cases yet undecided by the courts.

Totally uncharacteristically, the President conceded that the question was "legitimate criticism." Lawyers, like doctors, sometimes make mistakes, he said, and "that kind of comment probably is unjustified." Then he turned abruptly back to the other side of the room and called on Lu Warren of the Buffalo Evening News.

Those in the East Room were attentive as Warren asked about the election results. But most of those in the audience outside were letting the President's rare admission of indiscretion sink in. Next morning, the headlines on page 1 went to Mr. Nixon's statements on Vietnam, suburban integration and the economy. The reporters covering the press conference sifted through the substance and came out with what weighed the most in terms of hard news.

BUT THE SINGLE impression taken away by most of the nation, which had to watch the President in place of Walter Cronkite or the other network shows in that time slot, was of a Richard Nixon big enough to show humility there in front of the millions.

His answer to that question did not change the fact that he had done wrong in commenting on the court cases. But what the public remembers about it is his apparent sincerity in admitting it.

Nick Johnson's persistent slashing at the broadcast industry and the way the administration uses it is a public service, even if it is sometimes overstated. But even his flamboyance and his meticulous cataloguing of the programs and hours involved make a case only about the quantity of the administration's domination of political broadcasting. The quality of it, the way the style of the President's public appearances consistently outweighs what he says, is a much more elusive subject. That aspect of television makes Johnson's objections all the more frightening.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Common Market Setback Drops 'Spirit Of Hague'

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The "spirit of The Hague" symbolizing a new era of cooperation in Europe has taken a nasty knock.

Ministers of the European Common Market nations have abandoned their Jan. 1, 1971, target date for launching a sweeping plan for economic and monetary union.

The date was set by heads of government of the six market nations — West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg —meeting in The Hague one year ago.

The summit produced a new impetus for expansion of the Common Market dubbed by ministers the "spirit of The Hague."

BUT SHARP disagreement among market ministers over economic and monetary union "did not confirm the spirit of the Hague," West German Economics Minister Karl Schiller said.

The market's blueprint for economic and monetary integration calls for full union, including creation of a single European currency to rival the U.S. dollar by 1980.

It also calls for the eventual creation of a supranational "decision center" to control the economic policies of the six member countries and a federal bank system to administer the market's monetary affairs.

But strong French objections to handing over national powers to the community blocked approval of the blueprint at a 12-hour all-night ministerial session on Tuesday.

OFFICIALS INSIST the setback is only temporary.

But to make matters worse, the deadlock on economic and monetary union followed the ministers' failure to agree on a common position for terms for British entry into the market.

The decision to reopen negotiations with Britain — twice before vetoed by France —was another outcome of The Hague summit.

Britain has asked for eight years to adopt its full share of financing the market after becoming a member.

But France, once again ranged against the other five, insists that five years is enough. The others are more willing to offer safeguards to a nervous Britain.

ENLARGEMENT of the Common Market to include other West European states, and agreement on economic and monetary union are two of the corner stones on which plans for an eventual United States of Europe must be built.

The setback in the past few days, is not irreparable, but it has once again brought out the sharp differences between France and the rest of the Common Market partners, which had seemed to be mellowed by the "spirit of The Hague."

Novato Couple In School Tax Protest

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Machado of Novato have asked the county to withhold from Novato Unified School District the $143.09 of their first installment 1970-71 tax bill that would go for the district's tax.

The Machados paid their tax under protest of the school district's share. In a letter of protest filed with Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez, Mrs. Machado said that "only when the governing board actually adopts written policies to insure improvements in . . . two areas, will we request the release of our tax funds."

The two areas are budgeting and public relations.

In the formal protest, Mrs. Machado declared:

"The present system of 'scare tactics, blackmail and false information' to increase the budget after it has been formally 'adopted' is a very grave error. . . . To deny children reading clinics, classroom materials and necessary teaching personnel and then to give salary raises, especially to administration, does not constitute good will; not can it be accepted."

As to public relations, she demanded a policy "allowing a citizen, taxpayer or a parent to observe school activities and classroom atmosphere at any time."

Fontez explained that when taxes are paid under protest, the money may be impounded by the auditor-controller until the complaint is resolved. This is not mandatory, however.

Regardless of whether the money is impounded, the protesting taxpayer may bring court action within six months to recover the payment.

Mrs. Machado, who has called a "watchdog of Novato government," has twice been a candidate for city council, has served on the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission and is active in women's clubs and Parent-Teacher Association.

Esthetic Issue: Red-Dyed River

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (UPI)—The Crystal Tissue Co. says the dye it dumps into the Great Miami River may make the water red, but it doesn't pollute it.

The crimson flow has completely colored the river for more than 25 miles from Hamilton to the Ohio River, but the plant says the incident is not unusual and the dye is not poisonous.

"It's probably happened a thousand times in the last 10 or 15 years," Crystal President Stanley Reed said. "There is no problem other than the unsightliness of it. The problem is primarily esthetic."

Teachers Stage Giant Walkout

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Some 600 teachers left a Board of Education meeting in protest Thursday night because the board refused to rehire 64 of their colleagues next semester.

Because of a decrease in the number of pupils, the board found the teachers surplus and said it would rehire them only to replace those who failed to return.

James Ballard, American Federation of Teachers president, asserted the board broke a promise to reduce class sizes by adding teachers.

Warrant Out In Drug Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued Thursday in Marin Municipal Court for Charles Noell Hess, 27, of Forest Knolls, who is charged with selling cocaine to drug agents.

It was reported in court that he is possibly in jail in another county.

Hess, accused of being involved in a $6,200 sale of cocaine on Sept. 15, is also awaiting trial in superior court on an earlier drug charge.

HANOI DIPLOMAT

Collegian Scores An Interview Coup

PARIS (UPI)—A student bearing prisoner of war letters from University of Utah students told Friday how he gate-crashed a champagne reception for the highest ranking North Vietnamese diplomat in the west and talked with him for 45 minures.

The student, William T. Baker, 22, of Salt Lake City, succeeded where high powered American delegates from San Antonio, Texas and Colorado Springs, failed.

The San Antonio group received its final "no" today in its efforts to deliver 524,000 letters demanding humane treatment for American war prisoners.

The closest the Texans got was a French guard outside the closed gate of the villa housing the Hanoi delegates to the Paris peace talks. The Colorado Springs delegation fared no better and left Paris on Thursday.

Baker succeeded with a combination of luck and brashness.

He said in an interview Friday he was given the Utah petitions because he happened to be flying to Heidelberg for a Christmas reunion with his mother and father, a civilian financial adviser to the U.S. Army.

The Texas delegation had received $10,000 from public spirited citzens for expenses but Baker said the Utah students paid his air passage only from Heidelberg to Paris and gave him $20 for expenses.

He began his mission by gate-crashing the press briefings for the Paris talks on Thursday and asking for the location of the Hanoi mission.

"I took a subway to try to give the mission a letter asking for an appointment," the slim, dark-haired student said.

"Two orientals arrived at the mission door at the same time as I, so when the door opened all three of us walked in. A reception was taking place. My rule is never look lost, so I took my coat off as if I were planning on staying. I started shaking hands with the guests. Ambassadors? I had no idea I was speaking to such important people.

"I told a North Vietnamese I had a letter for Mai Van Bo, and he went up a staircase where Bo was standing so I tagged behind and shook hands with Bo and the two men talking to him.

"Bo asked me to sit down and introduced me to his wife. He brought me some Vietnamese food and a drink, I don't know what it was.

"I told him through an interpreter I had letters written by Utah students that Iwanted to bring him on their behalf. He said 'you eat and drink with us and come back tomorrow.'"

While the Texans and other delegations were installed at the luxurious Hilton Hotel, Baker spent the rest of the night drinking cokes and window shopping on the Champs Elysees because he did not have funds for a hotel room.

This morning he got the student petitions out of his luggage he had left at a USO center. He was unable to get by BO's secretary on the telephone so he had the petitions delivered to the mission before flying to Frankfurt Friday night.

Baker said his expenditures in Paris for his Universtiy of Utah friends who had organized the petition signing came to less than $20. He bought no meals and the USO gave him a free cup of coffee and a shave.

Baker said he was studying international relations and he hoped to become a diplomat.

The Texas delegation said they were going back over the weekend to San Antonio.

Fined $2,250 For Pollution

PITTSBURG (UPI) —A Municipal Court judge fined U.S. Steel $2,250 Thursday and put the corporation on probation for two years for polluting the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

U.S. Steel, which pleaded no contest, was charged with dumping pollutants into a slough leading to the two rivers.

Judge Manuel Rose pronounced sentence after probation officer Don F. Yost praised the corporation's corrective measures since it was cited by the State Fish and Game Department.

Rec Program Urged By Association

A recreation program for Sleepy Hollow residents should be established, financed by a community service fund of the San Anselmo School District, directors of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association have decided.

President Merritt A. Robinson said the board Thursday asked that Sleepy Hollow's share of the $28,000 fund be used to set up youth and adult activities, possibly at Sleepy Hollow and Hidden Valley schools.

The amount of money available is not known, Robinson said, but Sleepy Hollow comprises about 20 per cent of the school district and so would be entitled to about $5,600. Part of this, however, is used for other than recreation purposes, Robinson said.

Directors also heard county flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy relate that the county department of public works will survey Sleepy Hollow Creek in the spring to see what can be done to relieve flooding.

Murphy reported that debris and tree roots and branches in the creek are mostly responsible for yearly flooding, Robinson said, but no removal can be done until after July 1, when Flood Control Zone 9-A can begin levying taxes.

Pair Bound Over On Pot Charge

Two San Rafael youths charged with selling a kilo of marijuana to a narcotics agent on July 1 have been bound over to Marin Superior Court for trial on the felony count.

Randall Joachim Wells, 20, and Allen Michael Crivello, 19, are to be arraigned Dec. 28.

A further preliminary hearing will be held in Municipal Court Jan. 5 to determine if there is enough evidence to hold Wells for trial on an additional count of possessing marijuana.

James Ballard, American Federation of Teachers president, asserted the board broke a promise to reduce class sizes by adding teachers.

Warrant Out In Drug Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued Thursday in Marin Municipal Court for Charles Noell Hess, 27, of Forest Knolls, who is charged with selling cocaine to drug agents.

It was reported in court that he is possibly in jail in another county.

Hess, accused of being involved in a $6,200 sale of cocaine on Sept. 15, is also awaiting trial in superior court on an earlier drug charge.

HANOI DIPLOMAT

Collegian Scores An Interview Coup

PARIS (UPI)—A student bearing prisoner of war letters from University of Utah students told Friday how he gate-crashed a champagne reception for the highest ranking North Vietnamese diplomat in the west and talked with him for 45 minures.

The student, William T. Baker, 22, of Salt Lake City, succeeded where high powered American delegates from San Antonio, Texas and Colorado Springs, failed.

The San Antonio group received its final "no" today in its efforts to deliver 524,000 letters demanding humane treatment for American war prisoners.

The closest the Texans got was a French guard outside the closed gate of the villa housing the Hanoi delegates to the Paris peace talks. The Colorado Springs delegation fared no better and left Paris on Thursday.

Baker succeeded with a combination of luck and brashness.

He said in an interview Friday he was given the Utah petitions because he happened to be flying to Heidelberg for a Christmas reunion with his mother and father, a civilian financial adviser to the U.S. Army.

The Texas delegation had received $10,000 from public spirited citzens for expenses but Baker said the Utah students paid his air passage only from Heidelberg to Paris and gave him $20 for expenses.

He began his mission by gate-crashing the press briefings for the Paris talks on Thursday and asking for the location of the Hanoi mission.

"I took a subway to try to give the mission a letter asking for an appointment," the slim, dark-haired student said.

"Two orientals arrived at the mission door at the same time as I, so when the door opened all three of us walked in. A reception was taking place. My rule is never look lost, so I took my coat off as if I were planning on staying. I started shaking hands with the guests. Ambassadors? I had no idea I was speaking to such important people.

"I told a North Vietnamese I had a letter for Mai Van Bo, and he went up a staircase where Bo was standing so I tagged behind and shook hands with Bo and the two men talking to him.

"Bo asked me to sit down and introduced me to his wife. He brought me some Vietnamese food and a drink, I don't know what it was.

"I told him through an interpreter I had letters written by Utah students that Iwanted to bring him on their behalf. He said 'you eat and drink with us and come back tomorrow.'"

While the Texans and other delegations were installed at the luxurious Hilton Hotel, Baker spent the rest of the night drinking cokes and window shopping on the Champs Elysees because he did not have funds for a hotel room.

This morning he got the student petitions out of his luggage he had left at a USO center. He was unable to get by BO's secretary on the telephone so he had the petitions delivered to the mission before flying to Frankfurt Friday night.

Baker said his expenditures in Paris for his Universtiy of Utah friends who had organized the petition signing came to less than $20. He bought no meals and the USO gave him a free cup of coffee and a shave.

Baker said he was studying international relations and he hoped to become a diplomat.

The Texas delegation said they were going back over the weekend to San Antonio.

Fined $2,250 For Pollution

PITTSBURG (UPI) —A Municipal Court judge fined U.S. Steel $2,250 Thursday and put the corporation on probation for two years for polluting the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

U.S. Steel, which pleaded no contest, was charged with dumping pollutants into a slough leading to the two rivers.

Judge Manuel Rose pronounced sentence after probation officer Don F. Yost praised the corporation's corrective measures since it was cited by the State Fish and Game Department.

Rec Program Urged By Association

A recreation program for Sleepy Hollow residents should be established, financed by a community service fund of the San Anselmo School District, directors of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association have decided.

President Merritt A. Robinson said the board Thursday asked that Sleepy Hollow's share of the $28,000 fund be used to set up youth and adult activities, possibly at Sleepy Hollow and Hidden Valley schools.

The amount of money available is not known, Robinson said, but Sleepy Hollow comprises about 20 per cent of the school district and so would be entitled to about $5,600. Part of this, however, is used for other than recreation purposes, Robinson said.

Directors also heard county flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy relate that the county department of public works will survey Sleepy Hollow Creek in the spring to see what can be done to relieve flooding.

Murphy reported that debris and tree roots and branches in the creek are mostly responsible for yearly flooding, Robinson said, but no removal can be done until after July 1, when Flood Control Zone 9-A can begin levying taxes.

Franco's Guest

MADRID (UPI)—Chief of state Generalissimo Francisco Franco received Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, chief of U.S. naval operations, Thursday. Zumwalt is on a two-day inspectional visit to U.S. naval bases in Spain.

Pair Bound Over On Pot Charge

Two San Rafael youths charged with selling a kilo of marijuana to a narcotics agent on July 1 have been bound over to Marin Superior Court for trial on the felony count.

Randall Joachim Wells, 20, and Allen Michael Crivello, 19, are to be arraigned Dec. 28.

A further preliminary hearing will be held in Municipal Court Jan. 5 to determine if there is enough evidence to hold Wells for trial on an additional count of possessing marijuana.

Big Mental Health Aid Slice Seen

The Marin Mental Health Advisory Board has been warned the county's mental Health Advisory Board has been warned the county's mental health program faces cutbacks because of a shortage of state funds.

Peter Palmer, board chairman, said the group was told Wednesday night by Dr. John S. Guerrant, mental health program chief and director of the Community Mental Health Center, that Marin faces a possible loss of up to $400,000 in aid.

STATE PROGRAM

The state Short-Doyle program, which supplies mental health funds to local agencies, is expected to be trimmed for 1971-72, Guerrant told the board.

Palmer said there also was a shortage for the current fiscal year, but the county held the line with local funds. Guerrant told the board it cannot expect similar assistance next year.

As a result of a suggestion by Guerrant, the board decided, Palmer said, to hold a series of meetings early next year with agencies associated with the mental health program to familiarize itself with their operations in the event cuts are needed.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board postponed a decision on increasing fees for psychiatrists under contract for mental health services until the effect of Medi-Cal cutbacks is known; approved an exchange of services of mental health personnel between the Community Mental Health Center and other clinical agencies in the county and re-elected Palmer as chairman and named Jack D. Williams as vice chairman.

Wild Chase On 101 Ends In Arrest

A novato man has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of felony drunken driving and released on $1,200 bail following a series of accidents on Highway 101 north of Marinwood.

Lawrence Tracey Williams, 46, who gave his address as the Novato Trap Club, was to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

The California Highway Patrol said Williams, in a pickup truck, was northbound on the freeways at 3:40 p.m. Thursday when he attempted to squeeze between a car and a truck but hit them both.

He proceeded north, officers said, pursued by Austin D. Scott, 38, of 809 Diablo Avenue, Apt. 23, Novato. The chase ended when Williams rammed another car from behind at a speed of 90 miles an hour, the patrol reported.

Also involved in the accidents was Craig J. Lanphear, 16, of 805 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, but the highway patrol was unable to say which car he was driving.

24 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Census Bureau says there were 24.3 million Americans living in poverty in the United States in 1969, and it would have taken $10.1 billion to raise their incomes above poverty levels.

12 Tips In Avoiding Any Electrical Tragedies

To avoid a holiday season tragedy caused by careless usage of electrical decorations, the fire prevention bureau of the Novato Fire Department has offered the following tips:

1. Don't overload the electrical circuits with more lights than they can handle.
2. Don't repair a blown fuse with a penny.
3. Don't attempt to cope with an overloaded circuit by using an oversize circuit breaker.
4. Make a careful inspection of light strings and extension cords before putting them into use.
5. Don't work on light strings that are plugged into the circuit.
6. Don't put extension cords under rugs.
7. Don't use string lights on metal trees.
8. Don't leave electrical fixtures in reach of small children.
9. Never use fuses larger than 15 amps for lighting circuits.
10. Don't use indoor lamps for outdoor decorations.
11. When joining two strings of outdoor lights, seal the connection with plastic tape.
12. Put outdoor lights up with insulated staples, not nails, and be careful not to staple through the insulation.

San Rafael Home Hit By Vandals

Vandals tore a screen door from its runner, slashed it and hurled it in the mud at a San Rafael home earlier this week, San Rafael police reported today.

Douglas W. Clark of 23 Regina told police the $35 screen door damaged at his home between Monday and Wednesday was open so it was not pried off to gain entry to the dwelling.

New Policy Due Water Panel Study

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — The fate of some pending developments in Southern Marin, including a 102-unit apartment project on Strawberry Cove, may be on the line under new standards to be set Tuesday by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The new standards have been proposed by the board's staff for the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, and could mean a halt to serving such large projects until treatment facilities are upgraded and expanded.

The board's executive director, Fred H. Dierker, told the Independent-Journal that the new standards were "quite a bit tougher."

The board's all-day long meeting will open at 8:30 a.m. in the board of supervisors chambers, San Francisco City Hall.

The Strawberry Cove project, proposed by Paul J. Broman of Peacock Gap, would connect to the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, which in turn has its wastes treated at the Sausalito district's plant.

Also on the regional board's agenda are setting new requirements for Tiburon Sanitary District and Paradise Cay Yacht Harbor.

Appeal To ICC

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government appealed today to the International Control Commission ICC to ask Hanoi "for the sake of humanity" to release a list of prisoners of war held in North Vietnam to insure their comfort.

More Security At Civic Center

Two large mail deposit boxes next to the escalator at the entrance to the Marin Civic Center have been removed as part of the security clampdown.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said the mail deposit boxes, which were there for the convenience of the public, were removed because the boxes are not searchable.

Otherwise, the mail to and from the Civic Center and Hall of Justice will remain unchanged. The Civic Center mail carrier, Lynn Boyd, will continue to pick up and deliver mail to various offices, said Wallace Madson, assistant superintendent of mails.

The mail carrier is stopped and frisked at the entrance to the Civic Center.

Ralph Walker Resigns From Ross Council

Attorney Ralph C. Walker has announced his resignation from the Ross Town Council, effective Jan. 1, because of "pressing personal and professional reasons."

Walker made the announcement in a letter to Mayor Frederick S. Allen.

Walker, of 32 Woodside Way, was appointed to the town council in 1969 to succeed radio personality Jack Carney, who also resigned.

Allen announced the council hoped to appoint Walker's successor at its next meeting Jan. 14. He said persons interested in the post should apply to town clerk Virginia Stott before Jan. 6.

Wild Chase On 101 Ends In Arrest

A novato man has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of felony drunken driving and released on $1,200 bail following a series of accidents on Highway 101 north of Marinwood.

Lawrence Tracey Williams, 46, who gave his address as the Novato Trap Club, was to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

The California Highway Patrol said Williams, in a pickup truck, was northbound on the freeways at 3:40 p.m. Thursday when he attempted to squeeze between a car and a truck but hit them both.

He proceeded north, officers said, pursued by Austin D. Scott, 38, of 809 Diablo Avenue, Apt. 23, Novato. The chase ended when Williams rammed another car from behind at a speed of 90 miles an hour, the patrol reported.

Also involved in the accidents was Craig J. Lanphear, 16, of 805 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, but the highway patrol was unable to say which car he was driving.

24 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Census Bureau says there were 24.3 million Americans living in poverty in the United States in 1969, and it would have taken $10.1 billion to raise their incomes above poverty levels.

12 Tips In Avoiding Any Electrical Tragedies

To avoid a holiday season tragedy caused by careless usage of electrical decorations, the fire prevention bureau of the Novato Fire Department has offered the following tips:

1. Don't overload the electrical circuits with more lights than they can handle.
2. Don't repair a blown fuse with a penny.
3. Don't attempt to cope with an overloaded circuit by using an oversize circuit breaker.
4. Make a careful inspection of light strings and extension cords before putting them into use.
5. Don't work on light strings that are plugged into the circuit.
6. Don't put extension cords under rugs.
7. Don't use string lights on metal trees.
8. Don't leave electrical fixtures in reach of small children.
9. Never use fuses larger than 15 amps for lighting circuits.
10. Don't use indoor lamps for outdoor decorations.
11. When joining two strings of outdoor lights, seal the connection with plastic tape.
12. Put outdoor lights up with insulated staples, not nails, and be careful not to staple through the insulation.

San Rafael Home Hit By Vandals

Vandals tore a screen door from its runner, slashed it and hurled it in the mud at a San Rafael home earlier this week, San Rafael police reported today.

Douglas W. Clark of 23 Regina told police the $35 screen door damaged at his home between Monday and Wednesday was open so it was not pried off to gain entry to the dwelling.

New Policy Due Water Panel Study

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — The fate of some pending developments in Southern Marin, including a 102-unit apartment project on Strawberry Cove, may be on the line under new standards to be set Tuesday by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The new standards have been proposed by the board's staff for the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, and could mean a halt to serving such large projects until treatment facilities are upgraded and expanded.

The board's executive director, Fred H. Dierker, told the Independent-Journal that the new standards were "quite a bit toughter."

The board's all-day long meeting will open at 8:30 a.m. in the board of supervisors chambers, San Francisco City Hall.

The Strawberry Cove project, proposed by Paul J. Broman of Peacock Gap, would connect to the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, which in turn has its wastes treated at the Sausalito district's plant.

Also on the regional board's agenda are setting new requirements for Tiburon Sanitary District and Paradise Cay Yacht Harbor.

Appeal To ICC

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government appealed today to the International Control Commission ICC to ask Hanoi "for the sake of humanity" to release a list of prisoners of war held in North Vietnam to insure their comfort.

More Security At Civic Center

Two large mail deposit boxes next to the escalator at the entrance to the Marin Civic Center have been removed as part of the security clampdown.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said the mail deposit boxes, which were there for the convenience of the public, were removed because the boxes are not searchable.

Otherwise, the mail to and from the Civic Center and Hall of Justice will remain unchanged. The Civic Center mail carrier, Lynn Boyd, will continue to pick up and deliver mail to various offices, said Wallace Madson, assistant superintendent of mails.

The mail carrier is stopped and frisked at the entrance to the Civic Center.

Ralph Walker Resigns From Ross Council

Attorney Ralph C. Walker has announced his resignation from the Ross Town Council, effective Jan. 1, because of "pressing personal and professional reasons."

Walker made the announcement in a letter to Mayor Frederick S. Allen.

Walker, of 32 Woodside Way, was appointed to the town council in 1969 to succeed radio personality Jack Carney, who also resigned.

Allen announced the council hoped to appoint Walker's successor at its next meeting Jan. 14. He said persons interested in the post should apply to town clerk Virginia Stott before Jan. 6.

Fiscal Freeze Hurts Sonoma State

By BONNIE BARD

The statewide fiscal freeze on spending has put the chill on expansion and diversification plans at Sonoma State College.

Original plans call for the college to diversify and broaden its educational scope to embrace more than the liberal arts, which have become its base.

College officials agree that if Sonoma State is to grow in proportion to the burgeoning population of Sonoma and Marin counties, it must expand physically, with additional buildings, and academically, with a wider range of degree programs, particularly science and mathamatics.

With the current austerity program, the 19 state colleges will be in a battle for funds. One of those leading the fight on behalf of Sonoma State will be James P. Enochs, vice president for academic affairs.

Faculty offices and classrooms in some disciplines are already crowded, but the worst may be yet to come.

"1971 and 1972 will be peak years for high school graduates," Enochs said, calling the graduates "Korean War babies."

"Many of them will go on to junior colleges, so the next big push for us will be in 1973," he said. "That will be a very critical year."

In preparing for the 1973 onslaught, the campus planning committee has requested $1.2 million for construction of the first phase of a new art complex and $400,000 to finance working drawings for a physical science-mathematics complex.

Presently the art, physical science and biological science departments are crammed into Darwin Hall. While enrollment has held steady in science and mathematics, the college has had to turn away students because of limited art facilities.

The art complex plans, which would permit an additional enrollment of 180-190 students, were approved by the state college board of trustees in November, but funds were not included in the capital outlay budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

"If we can get funding for it next year, the building could still be finished by 1973 as we (campus planning committee) had originally proposed," Enochs said.

With the completion of the art center, a section of Darwin Hall could be remodeled to expand the physical science department and accommodate more students.

Enochs feels very strongly that a great deal of effort must be given to getting funds for plans for the physical science-mathematics complex.

Funds for the working drawings are included on a priority list for the 1971-72 year, but until actual allocations are made, nothing will be certain.

"Sonoma State college was never designed as a total liberal arts school," he said. It did, however, develop more liberal arts programs at the outset because they are less expensive than science programs that require sophisticated and costly equipment.

"We now have 16 per cent of our students enrolled in science and mathematics programs, but I'd like to see that figure increased to 20 or 22 per cent," he said.

In the field of biological sciences, the college offers a medical technology program, pre-medical studies and oceanography. The physical science department offers chemistry, physics and geology with all programs designed so students may enter directly into jobs or go on to graduate school.

Enochs said he would also like to see funds made available for an enviromental school that could make use of science facilities.

The vice president acknowledged the fact that many community leaders in Southern Sonoma and Marin are pushing for expanded science and mathematics facilities because they feel those students will be less politically active and less inclined to radical activities.

"I'm not sure the science and math students are any different than liberal arts students," he said, adding that science majors can be very politically involved when it comes to ecological problems.

"You just can't stereotype a student by his major anymore," Enochs said.

The vice president has also heard criticism by community leaders that the college should develop more study programs that will benefit the area.

Enochs said he felt the college was contributing more to its service area than most people realize and gave the extension classes as an example.

He said the expanded science and mathematics programs would increase this service by providing more graduates for business and industry.

Although most of the service area — Sonoma, Marin, Napa, Lake Mendocino and Solano counties — is rural in nature, the college has no plans for agriculturally-related programs. Enochs said that this is following a policy set by the trustees several years ago.

Enochs said the community had also shown interest in an engineering program at the school, but said that would be doubtful since other colleges have shown a drop in engineering enrollment and several may be phased out in several years.

Game Plans For Battle Of Bay Depend On Rams' Fate

OAKLAND (UPI)—Dick Nolan and John Madden have alternate plans, just in case.

The plans are for Sunday's game between their San Francisco Forty Niners and Oakland Raiders—a game the Forty Niners may have to win or tie to win a division title.

Both coaches, Nolan of the Forty Niners, and Madden of the Raiders, laid in their game plans earlier in the week. Those won't change no matter what.

However, should the Giants beat the Los Angeles Rams in New York, a game which should be over before the San Francisco-Oakland tussle begins, then the alternate plans will go into effect.

The Raiders nailed down their fourth consecutive division title last Saturday by beating the Kansas City Chiefs in the AFC West. They are assured of the playoffs, meeting either the AFC Central champ or the Eastern runnerup in the first round on Dec. 27.

THE Forty Niners, with a 9-3-1 record, hold a game lead on the Rams. Should the Rams win Sunday then the Forty Niners must beat or tie Oakland to win their first division title ever.

A Los Angeles loss would give San Francisco the title regardless of what it does against Oakland.

Should that possibility arise, then Nolan will rest many of his so-called regulars and might even use Steve Spurrier, John Brodie's backup man who has had very little playing time this year, at quarterback.

In that event, Madden can be expected to start with rookie Ken Stabler of Alabama as the Oakland signal caller. Stabler has had even less playing time this year than Spurrier.

Other changes also would be indicated, especially for the Raiders who have a bunch of players with minor aches and pains. Madden would like to give them the day off so that all would be fit and ready for the playoffs.

On the San Francisco side a player who has not missed a game despite a flock of injuries is fullback Ken Willard, the club's bread and butter runner. Hewritt Dixon of the Raiders is in the same category but he would have to play because his backup, Marv Hubbard aches a bit more.

If Los Angeles wins then both sides will go with their best.

The oddsmajers are sticking with the Forty Niners as 2 1-2 point favorites even though the Raiders beat San Francisco the last three times the two clubs met—all in exhibition games.

With first liners operating both teams are formidable. Brodie leads NFC passers and Daryle Lamonica tops the AFC. Each has 21 touchdown throws to his credit, and Willard and Dixon are among the top rushers in the NFL, as are receivers Gene Washington for San Francisco and Warren Wells and Fred Biletnikoff for Oakland.

Also, Bruce Gossett and George Blanda are leading kickers. Gossett has scored 94 points and Blanda, the 43-year-old backup quarterback who has engineered four miracle finishes, has 83.

The weather outlook is for showers sometime Sunday.

The Schedule Maker In A Stocking Cap

"Hello, Operator, get me the Commissioner of Football. Make it collect. Hello, Pete? That you, Pete? How's it going, buddy? How's the old 'NFL Today'? Boffo ratings, eh? Padlocked Broadway Monday nights, I heard.

"Listen, Pete. It's about the schedule. I mean, I've got the hang of the down-and-out, and the Z-flare and the Brown-right-on-two, and I'm beginning to break down the divisions, but I can't crack the schedule code. Could you start at the top? I'll take notes. What? The schedule-maker? OK, put him on the phone. What? You can't? I have to do WHAT?!

"I see. He lives in a treehouse in the Black Forest. First, you cross through a looking glass 'til you see a rabbit wearing a hat and watch, THAT'S the schedule maker!? No. You just follow him and you leave a trail of bread crumbs and pretty soon the birds will lead you to the schedule maker. How will I recognize him, Pete? Oh. He's two feet six inches tall and wears glasses with no glass in them, and a stocking cap, and the pigeons will be feeding him. Pete, how do YOU get a hold of him? You leave a bowl of milk on the back stoop, a stocking on the chimney or —.

"What's that you say? He just flew in the window? OK, as soon as he puts his umbrella down, put him on.

"Hello? Little Old Schedule-Maker? Listen. About that NFL schedule. Now, let's run through it again. Now, we've played 169 games, and, as I get it, the Boston Patriots are eliminated, right?

"Not necessarily, you say? Well, look; I'm not figuring Baltimore is going to drop football, that Miami is going to vote to go skiing instead.

"What? You say you've designed the thing to try for a 26-team dead heat? Well, look, how did you arrive at the formula that the three divisional winners and the team with the best second-place record in the conference get into the playoffs? You got it from page 72 of 'Alice In Wonderland?' Well, now, look. You see what a mischief it caused. I mean, the way it's set up, I'm not real sure San Diego State won't get in the Super Bowl. I mean, you can't seem to get the ribbon clerks out of this game. As of right now, you've got only three clear-cut champions out of 26 teams and 169 games and, as of right now, Heaven only knows who the other five teams will be. What's that you say? Heaven was on the phone this morning and it wanted to know what would happen if the Rams beat the Giants and Oakland beats the 49ers and Dallas beats Houston and Buffalo beats Miami and Kansas City beats San Diego. As you said, in that case we'll have more ties than the Pennsylvania Centrail railroad.

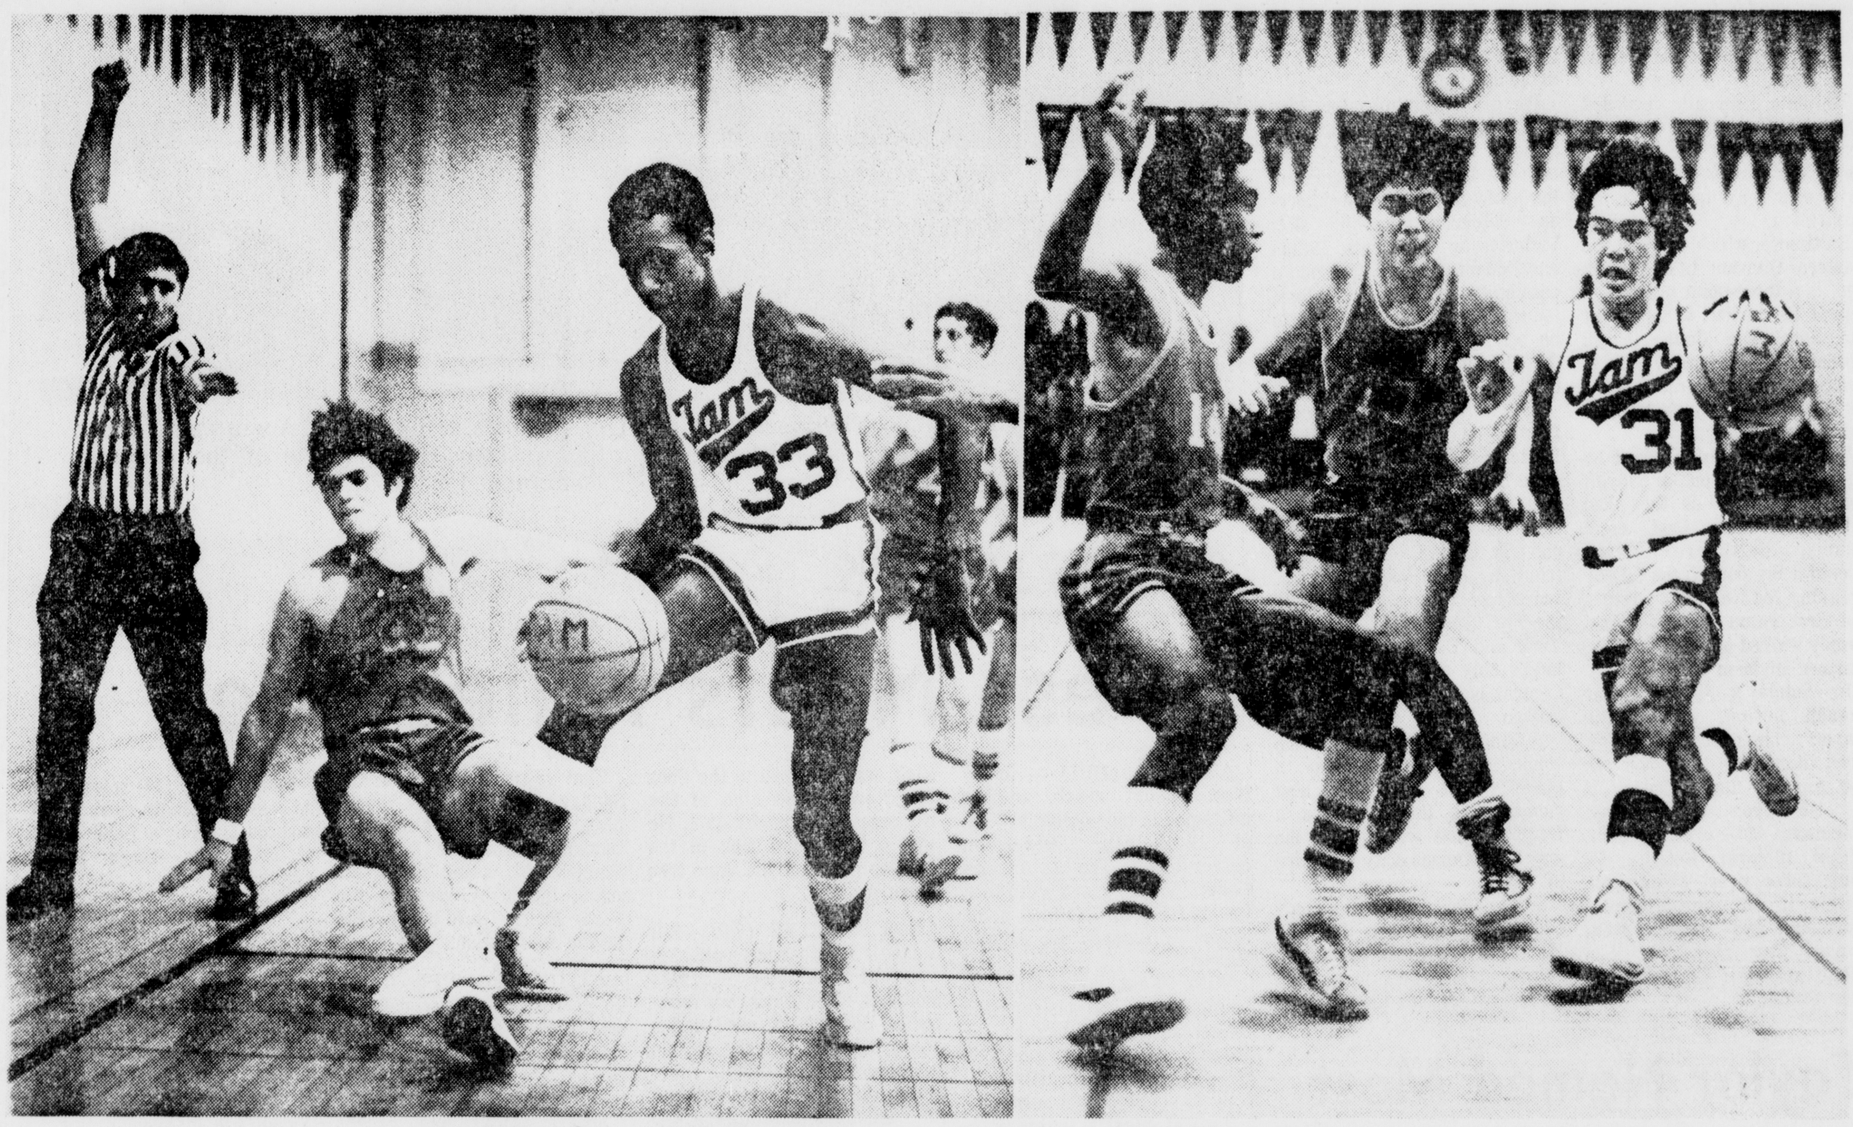
"Now, you got your tie-breaking formula from where? Oh, of course, page 80 of 'Alice in Wonderland.'

"Now, the first tie-breaker is competition between the two teams involved. What if they split? THEN, it's competition in their division? But, you have 88 intra-divisional and 54 inter-divisional and 40 inter-conference games. Baltimore scheduled 11 games against former AFL teams. It hardly seems a fair measure. Well, never mind. What's the third tie-breaker? Scoring in the games between the contending teams? Well, that would tend to encourage pouring it on, wouldn't it? Oh, I see. You're a sadist.

"Listen, let me read you this from your venue, or home team schedule: 'If the designated division representative should lose in a divisional playoffs, the next division in the rotation should become the home site. If both the designated division and the next division in the rotatin should become the home site. If both the designated division and the next division should lose in the playoffs, the third division would become the home site. In no case, will the best percentage second place be the home team. What in the world does that mean? What? I have to hold it up to a mirror? Oh.

"Look. If the Giants beat the Rams, and Cowboys beat Houston in the last game of the season and Detroit beats Green Bay, then the Giants are Eastern Division champions by virtue of most wins in a division, but the Cowboys and Lions are tied for best second-place percentage in the conference. What do we do then? Wait a minute. Will you please repeat that? We what?! We flip a coin! It comes down to heads-tails?! You play 182 regular-season games, plus six playoffs, plus 11,280 minutes football and God knows how many nose bleeds and bone fractures, and the biggest play of the year might be a coincall?! Where in the world did you get that —

"Yes, yes, I know, I know. Page 110. 'Off with their heads!' "



BRIGHT SPOTS ON A BAD AFTERNOON

The Tamalpais Indians, sixth ranked among Bay Area high school basketball teams, took their second loss of the season yesterday at the hands of 15th ranked Washington of San Francisco. At left, Tam forward Will Garner drew a foul by Ed Chow. At right, Pat Locey drove on Washington's James Matson (14), and Dave Ota (10). Despite 15 points by Garner, and 13 from John Earl Huff, the Indians lost, 55-48.

Ninowski Tells Of Payoff

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The federal grand jury anti-trust probe of the National Football League recessed Friday until next month after former pro quarterback Jim Ninowski testified about an anti-trust suit he filed against the league.

Ninowski's attorney, Jerry Dempsey, said Ninowski was paid an extra $200,000 to drop his suit, which charged the NFL with violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. It involved the quarterback's relations with the old American Football League.

Dempsey said Ninowski got his regular $50,000 salary from the Cleveland Browns in the 1965-66 season plus another $100,000 from a kitty put up by all NFL teams. He said the other $100,000 was paid to Ninowski while he was with the Washington Redskins.

Ninowski, 34, played with the Browns, Redskins, and Detroit before ending his career with the New Orleans Saints last year. He currently operates a window manufacturing business in Michigan.

Also testifying Friday were former Browns center John Wooten and former Washington Redskins guard Jim Nisby. Nisby said later he was blacklisted by the league because he was too outspoken on league policies and social issues.

Wooten said he believed he had been placed on a blacklist, but kept his status as a player by threatening legal action.

400 Fans To Watch Big Game On Cable

Thanks to an enterprising San Rafael man and his club, called Ski — Limited, some 400 Bay Area fans who weren't able to get tickets to the Oakland Coliseum will be able to see the battle of the bay live anyway.

Chuck Burgess said yesterday that Ski — Limited has chartered buses and arranged to use the banquet hall of the Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa, where the Oakland Raiders, San Francisco 49ers football game will be shown on color television Sunday afternoon.

Burgess said the club originally planned to bus fans to Fresno, until the Flamingo announced it would carry the game via cable.

Buses will leave the Ferry building in San Francisco at 8 a.m. Sunday morning, and return at around 5 o'clock that afternoon. The price per person for the trip is $15, which includes two meals at the hotel, transportation, and, of course, the telecast, which will be shown on multiple sets.

As of 9 a.m. yesterday, Burgess said more than 250 fans had signed up for the trip, and he expected a sellout. Anyone interested in going can make arrangements by contacting Burgess at 1299 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Bears' Halas Will Be Official Coin Flipper

NEW YORK (UPI)—Colorful George S. Halas Sr., president of the National Football Conference, has assumed yet another responsibility at the age of 76.

Halas, one of the founders of the National Football League 51 years ago, will be the official "coin-flipper" Sunday if that method of determining the NFC's fourth playoff qualifier is needed.

Halas will flip the coin in Chicago between halves of the nationally-televised San Francisco-Oakland game at Oakland and cameras will switch to the site of the flip at intermission.

New York, Dallas and Detroit are the teams that could be involved. Results of Sunday's games could produce a tie between Dallas and Detroit for the final playoff berth if all three teams win, or between New York and Detroit if they play ties while Dallas wins its game.

Which team gets to call heads or tails will be established prior to the toss of the coin, and will be determined this way:

The team that has tails will be (1.) the team that has the greater point differential over its opponent in its game on Sunday; (2.) the involved team that scores the most points in Sunday's game; (3.) the team that registers the most first downs in its game on Sunday.

Step No. 2 will not be used by the team calling "heads" unless there is a tie in step No. 1; similarly, step No. 3 will be invoked only in the event that the first two steps fail to settle the matter.

The Giants play Los Angeles on Sunday, Detroit meets Green Bay and Dallas faces Houston.

Seals Shutout Philly

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals have finally come in from the cold.

Their 1-0 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers Friday night had a twofold effect. For one, the shutout enabled the Seals to disclaim sole owner of last place in the National Hockey League West for the first time this season. Secondly, the win was their first of the year over a division opponent.

California's ninth win—as opposed to 19 defeats and two ties—gives them 20 points, the same number as that of the Los Angeles Kings, who are 8-16-4.

Norm Ferguson's tip-in goal at the 5:48 mark of the third period provided the Seals with their lone score. The lightflasher was only the second of the year for Ferguson and it came on an assist from Doug Roberts.

The hard-checking California defense enabled goalie Gary Smith to turn in his second whitewashing of the year. The Flyers managed to get off only 24 shots—13 of them over the first two periods.

Going into the game, California's eight victories had all been achieved against teams from the Eastern Division. The Seals had been unable to beat a team from their own division in 12 games.

Warriors Streak Into First Place

Portland Falls As S.F. Takes Sixth In Seven

OAKLAND (UPI) —Hitching themselves onto a rising star named Jerry Lucas, the San Francisco Warriors again find themselves with a piece of first place today.

After weathering a terrific comeback be expansionist Portland, the Warriors held on to whip the Trail Blazers 122-118 Friday night at San Diego.

Tonight, San Francisco tackles the Philadelphia 76ers in a doubleheader at the Oakland Coliseum-Arena. Portland and San Diego play in the first game.

Lucas popped 32 points to help lead the Warriors into a deadlock for first with Los Angeles in the West Division of the National Basketball Association. Heading for his finest pro season, Lucas leads the Warriors in scoring, field goals, field goal percentage and rebounds.

Lucas got lots of help from center Nate Thurmond with 25 points, guard Jeff Mullins with 23 and guard Fritz Williams with 18.

Taking advantage of numerous Portland mistakes, the Warriors built a 36-18 lead at the end of the first period, then seemingly sat back and watched the Trail Blazers deadlock the score at 78-78 on Jim Barnett's layup with 4:50 remaining in the third period. With the score tied 80-80, San Francisco went on an 11-2 spree for a 91-82 lead.

Portland closed to within three at 119-116 but a tipin by Thurmond put the game out of reach.

Rookie Geoff Petrie led Portland with 23, followed by Leroy Ellis with 22.

Despite a 21-15 record, the Warriors are 17,000 behind in attendance, compared to last year. After 16 home dates, the Warriors have drawn 68,306 fans this season. During a comparable period when they compiled a 17-18 record last season, the Warriors had 85,241 paying customers at home.

Game Plans For Battle Of Bay Depend On Rams' Fate

OAKLAND (UPI)—Dick Nolan and John Madden have alternate plans, just in case.

The plans are for Sunday's game between their San Francisco Forty Niners and Oakland Raiders—a game the Forty Niners may have to win or tie to win a division title.

Both coaches, Nolan of the Forty Niners, and Madden of the Raiders, laid in their game plans earlier in the week. Those won't change no matter what.

However, should the Giants beat the Los Angeles Rams in New York, a game which should be over before the San Francisco-Oakland tussle begins, then the alternate plans will go into effect.

The Raiders nailed down their fourth consecutive division title last Saturday by beating the Kansas City Chiefs in the AFC West. They are assured of the playoffs, meeting either the AFC Central champ or the Eastern runnerup in the first round on Dec. 27.

THE Forty Niners, with a 9-3-1 record, hold a game lead on the Rams. Should the Rams win Sunday then the Forty Niners must beat or tie Oakland to win their first division title ever.

A Los Angeles loss would give San Francisco the title regardless of what it does against Oakland.

Should that possibility arise, then Nolan will rest many of his so-called regulars and might even use Steve Spurrier, John Brodie's backup man who has had very little playing time this year, at quarterback.

In that event, Madden can be expected to start with rookie Ken Stabler of Alabama as the Oakland signal caller. Stabler has had even less playing time this year than Spurrier.

Other changes also would be indicated, especially for the Raiders who have a bunch of players with minor aches and pains. Madden would like to give them the day off so that all would be fit and ready for the playoffs.

On the San Francisco side a player who has not missed a game despite a flock of injuries is fullback Ken Willard, the club's bread and butter runner. Hewritt Dixon of the Raiders is in the same category but he would have to play because his backup, Marv Hubbard aches a bit more.

If Los Angeles wins then both sides will go with their best.

The oddsmajers are sticking with the Forty Niners as 2 1-2 point favorites even though the Raiders beat San Francisco the last three times the two clubs met—all in exhibition games.

With first liners operating both teams are formidable. Brodie leads NFC passers and Daryle Lamonica tops the AFC. Each has 21 touchdown throws to his credit, and Willard and Dixon are among the top rushers in the NFL, as are receivers Gene Washington for San Francisco and Warren Wells and Fred Biletnikoff for Oakland.

Also, Bruce Gossett and George Blanda are leading kickers. Gossett has scored 94 points and Blanda, the 43-year-old backup quarterback who has engineered four miracle finishes, has 83.

The weather outlook is for showers sometime Sunday.

The Schedule Maker In A Stocking Cap

"Hello, Operator, get me the Commissioner of Football. Make it collect. Hello, Pete? That you, Pete? How's it going, buddy? How's the old 'NFL Today'? Boffo ratings, eh? Padlocked Broadway Monday nights, I heard.

"Listen, Pete. It's about the schedule. I mean, I've got the hang of the down-and-out, and the Z-flare and the Brown-right-on-two, and I'm beginning to break down the divisions, but I can't crack the schedule code. Could you start at the top? I'll take notes. What? The schedule-maker? OK, put him on the phone. What? You can't? I have to do WHAT?!

"I see. He lives in a treehouse in the Black Forest. First, you cross through a looking glass 'til you see a rabbit wearing a hat and watch, THAT'S the schedule maker!? No. You just follow him and you leave a trail of bread crumbs and pretty soon the birds will lead you to the schedule maker. How will I recognize him, Pete? Oh. He's two feet six inches tall and wears glasses with no glass in them, and a stocking cap, and the pigeons will be feeding him. Pete, how do YOU get a hold of him? You leave a bowl of milk on the back stoop, a stocking on the chimney or —.

"What's that you say? He just flew in the window? OK, as soon as he puts his umbrella down, put him on.

"Hello? Little Old Schedule-Maker? Listen. About that NFL schedule. Now, let's run through it again. Now, we've played 169 games, and, as I get it, the Boston Patriots are eliminated, right?

"Not necessarily, you say? Well, look: I'm not figuring Baltimore is going to drop football, that Miami is going to vote to go skiing instead.

"What? You say you've designed the thing to try for a 26-team dead heat? Well, look, how did you arrive at the formula that the three divisional winners and the team with the best second-place record in the conference get into the playoffs? You got it from page 72 of 'Alice In Wonderland?' Well, now, look. You see what a mischief it caused. I mean, the way it's set up, I'm not real sure San Diego State won't get in the Super Bowl. I mean, you can't seem to get the ribbon clerks out of this game. As of right now, you've got only three clear-cut champions out of 26 teams and 169 games and, as of right now, Heaven only knows who the other five teams will be. What's that you say? But, you have 88 intra-divisional and 54 inter-divisional and 40 inter-conference games. Baltimore scheduled 11 games against former AFL teams. It hardly seems a fair measure. Well, never mind. Warriors Streak Into First Place

Portland Falls As S.F. Takes Sixth In Seven

OAKLAND (UPI) —Hitching themselves onto a rising star named Jerry Lucas, the San Francisco Warriors again find themselves with a piece of first place today.

After weathering a terrific comeback be expansionist Portland, the Warriors held on to whip the Trail Blazers 122-118 Friday night at San Diego.

Tonight, San Francisco tackles the Philadelphia 76ers in a doubleheader at the Oakland Coliseum-Arena. Portland and San Diego play in the first game.

Lucas popped 32 points to help lead the Warriors into a deadlock for first with Los Angeles in the West Division of the National Basketball Association. Heading for his finest pro season, Lucas leads the Warriors in scoring, field goals, field goal percentage and rebounds.

Lucas got lots of help from center Nate Thurmond with 25 points, guard Jeff Mullins with 23 and guard Fritz Williams with 18.

Taking advantage of numerous Portland mistakes, the Warriors built a 36-18 lead at the end of the first period, then seemingly sat back and watched the Trail Blazers deadlock the score at 78-78 on Jim Barnett's layup with 4:50 remaining in the third period. With the score tied 80-80, San Francisco went on an 11-2 spree for a 91-82 lead.

Portland closed to within three at 119-116 but a tipin by Thurmond put the game out of reach.

Rookie Geoff Petrie led Portland with 23, followed by Leroy Ellis with 22.

Despite a 21-15 record, the Warriors are 17,000 behind in attendance, compared to last year. After 16 home dates, the Warriors have drawn 68,306 fans this season. During a comparable period when they compiled a 17-18 record last season, the Warriors had 85,241 paying customers at home.

Ten NFL Teams Still In Running

UPI Sports

While 10 teams ponder the possibilities of what could be on Sunday, the New York Jets today end their season with thoughts of what could have been.

Only three playoff berths — Oakland, Baltimore and Minnesota —have been secured and 10 teams still remain in the running Sunday for the remaining five as the National Football League season comes to a close.

The Jets, generally regarded as a playoff favorite before the season, won't be one of them. New York travels to Baltimore today with only its pride as an inspiration.

Baltimore, which clinched the Eastern Division title a week ago, is a three-point favorite to repeat its earlier victory over the Jets. The Colts, in all probability, will simply look to come out of the game healthy for the playoffs which begin a week from today.

The Jets were decimated by injuries and fell out of playoff contention early as they lost seven of their first eight games. Baltimore, which played a big part in the fall by breaking Joe Namath's wrist in the first game at New York, simply walked off with the AFC Eastern division race.

In Sunday's final regular season action, among the playoff contenders, the New York Giants are 1 1-2 over the Los Angeles Rams, Detroit is 13 1-2 over Green Bay, Cincinnati 13 over Boston, Miami 12 over Buffalo, St. Louis three over Washington, Dallas 13 1-2 over Houston, Cleveland and Denver even, Kansas City nine over San Diego and San Francisco 10 over Oakland.

In the other remaining games, Minnesota is three over Atlanta, Philadelphia two over Pittsburgh and Chicago five over New Orleans.

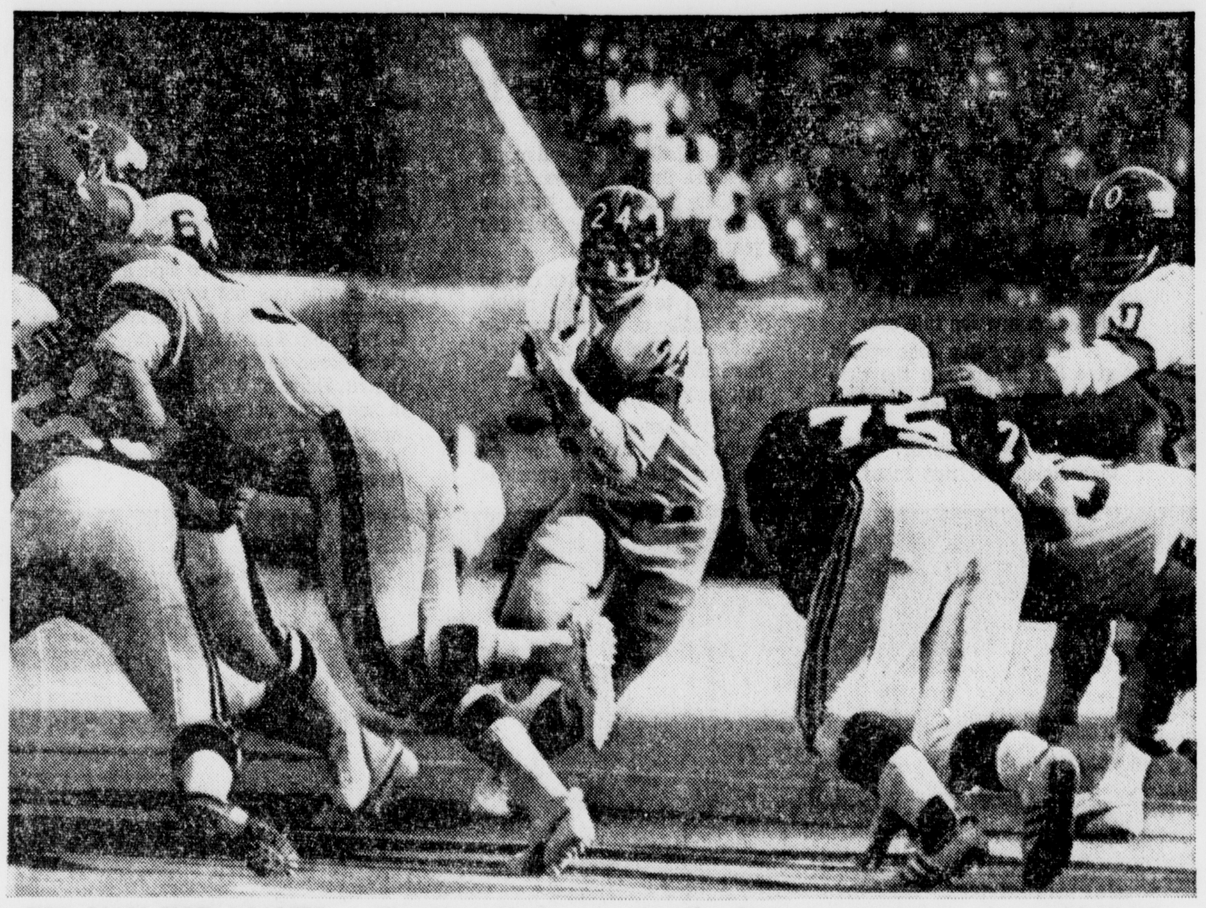
In today's game, the Jets try to avert the worst record in the club's history while attempting to nail down the league defensive title. "They're all pros," says Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank. "They're not going to dog it just because they're out of it. I don't expect Baltimore to die out there, either."

Playoff possibilities for Sunday are limitless, with the most remote that of a coin flip between Detroit and Dallas for the National Conference runner-up category playoff slot. Victories by the Giants, Dallas and Detroit would set up such a possibility, with the coin toss, naturally enough, scheduled to be televised from Chicago at the half of the San Francisco-Oakland game.

A victory by the Giants would give New York the NFC Eastern division title. Detroit must beat Green Bay to stay in the running for the best runnerup record slot. Cincinnati can win the AFC Central with a triumph over Boston and St. Louis has a remote chance in the NFC East should both New York and Dallas Lose. Cleveland's only chance in the AFC Central is a Cincinnati loss to Boston.

A Miami victory over Buffalo would give the Dolphins a playoff slot as the best runnerup in the AFC and a Dolphins' loss would open the way for Kansas City to move in.

San Francisco needs a victory over Oakland to take the NFC West. A Forty Niner loss and a Rams' victory over New York gives Los Angeles the title.



BIG MAN FOR GIANTS — The New York Giants will be trying to open some big holes, as they did for Tucker Fredrickson against St. Louis last week, when they host the Los Angeles Rams tomorrow. A win would clinch the Eastern Division title of the National Conference for the Giants.

Tars, Wildcats, Giants All Win

Two Marin County Athletic League basketball teams, Redwood and Marin Catholic, made it to the finals of pre-Christmas tournaments last night. For other MCAL teams, however, it wasn't a good Friday.

In a junior college game in Yuba, the College of Marin Tars ran their impressive record to 10-1 with a convincing 90-62 win over Yuba City.

Redwood, also in Yuba for the Yuba City tourney, blasted Livermore off the court, 70 - 37. The Giants of Larkspur were up 39 - 12 at the half, and, despite the fact that everybody on the team played, they could not avoid turning the game into a rout.

Scott Trobbe led the Giants with 13 points, followed by Bert Farb with 11, Steve McGee with 10 and Scott Tikker with 10.

The Marin Catholic Wildcats, the dark horses of the Rose City Tournament in Santa Rosa, rolled into today's finals with a 46-39 win over Piner of Santa Rosa. Bil' Donellan and Austin Sullivan hit for 17 and 13 points respectively to pace the Kentfield squad to its second win in two nights.

The College of Marin Tars, a veritable super team so far this season, got 19 points from Roosevelt Green, 15 from Joe Smith and 10 from Ed Herrnberger as they demolished Yuba for their fifth straight win. The Tars go against Sierra tonight in Kentfield at 8 o'clock.

Other MCAL teams won two games and lost three. San Marin, playing in the consolation semi-finals in the Rose City Affair, came from 17 points back to tip Eureka, 85-77. Six-foot-eight center Dana LaFerriere was the Mustang's principal hero, as he dumped in 33 points. Mike Kassenbrock helped out with 19, and Pete Thompson had 15.

In a game where everyone on both benches played, Terra Linda knocked off its alumni, 70 - 52 in Terra Linda. Every player on the Trojans scored, led by Larry Kerr and Andy Mora with nine points each.

On the losing side, Tamalpais was upset by Washington of San Francisco, 55 - 48, San Rafael lost to Vallejo, 70 - 56, and Drake ran afoul of Mark Gilberg and the Lowell Indians and lost, 88 - 44 in the semi-finals of the El Camino Tourney in Daly City.

Gilberg, the leading scorer in Northern California, matched his per game average with 38 against the Pirates, 24 of them in the first half.

Housewife Rolls 690 Series

Marilyn Epidendio, petite San Rafael housewife and former secretary in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association, was star of the week in Marin County bowling.

Mrs. Epidendio rolled games of 257, 233 and 200 for a whopping 690 series in the Tuesday Mixed Mates League at Greenbrae Lanes. Bowling with her husband, Rich, and Lee and Mitzi Brown, Marilyn led the Tom's Tigers team to a score of 2,482, perhaps the highest mixed team score in the county this season. That comes out to an average of 206 per team member.

High men's score at Greenbrae was also 690, rolled by Gene Helbing, while Jack Lundahl rolled a 686 for game honors at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael. High score at Nave Lanes near Ignacio was Paul Carrigan's 630.

The honor roll:

GREENBRAE LANES

NAVE LANES

West Nears Milestone

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jerry West should reach another milestone in his notable National Basketball Association career tonight. The Los Angeles Lakers' all-pro guard will reach the 20,000-point plateau if he scores 17 against the Atlanta Hawks.

With West averaging 28 points a game, he was expected to get at least 17 against the Hawks. That will make him the fifth player in NBA history to score 20,000 points.

Two of West's teammates, Wilt Chamberlain and the injured Elgin Baylor, are among the 20,000-point men. The others are Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee and the retired Bob Petit.

The Lakers are coming off a 118-102 victory over Cincinnati after having been edged by the expansion Buffalo Braves earlier in the week.

Baseball

OAKLAND (UPI) —Right-handed pitcher Mike Kowalik of Sacramento has been signed by the Oakland Athletics for a "substantial," but undisclosed, bonus.

Kowalik, who posted a 14-6 record and earned-run average of 1.45 during three varsity seasons at John F. Kennedy High, was assigned to the Coos Bay-North Bend club of the Northwest League for 1971. He was a 10th-round pick in the regular phase of the June free agent draft.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bill Singer, righthanded pitching star of the Los Angeles Dodgers, went to surgery today for an operation to correct his fractured index finger on his pitching hand.

He pitched a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies a few weeks after having recovered from hepatitis last season.

Singer later suffered two linear fractures of his index finger when he was hit by a pitched ball during a game at Pittsburgh. He was sidelined the remainder of the season and ended with an 8-5 record.

Football

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the past 15 years, Ed Scanlon and his wife Betty have greeted the San Francisco Forty Niners at the local airport each time they returned from a road game.

Sometimes, only the Scanlons and a few of the players' wives would be the only ones on hand to greet the returning gladiators. This made the Scanlons the team's No. 1 fans.

That record may be broken Sunday when the Forty Niners play a "road" game at Oakland, across the Bay. But Scanlon, 57, could keep his string intact by greeting the Forty Niner team bus at the bridge toll station.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Texas Longhorns Coach Darrell Royal said Friday there is no chance wide receiver Cotton Speyrer can play against Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Speyrer, who has caught clutch passes for Texas time and again during his three-year varsity career, broke his arm against Oklahoma Oct. 10. He suited up for the Longhorns' Dec. 5 game against Arkansas, but did not play.

OAKLAND (UPI) —Warren Wells, wide receiver of the Oakland Raiders, has won a continuance until Jan. 6 of a court hearing on a misdemeanor hit-run charge.

Wells' attorney was granted the postponement Friday in Municipal Court. Oakland plays San Francisco Sunday and either Miami, Cincinnati or Cleveland on Dec. 27 in a pro football playoff.

Police said Wells drove off without giving his mame or showing his driver's license after his car struck another auto Sunday night. Minutes later Wells was arrested on a drunk charge at a bar owned by a teammate.

Horse Racing

SAN MATEO (UPI) —Coach Crowley, a bay colt owned by Forty Niner quarterback John Brodie and former PGA champion Bob Rosburg, made his debut this afternoon in his first stakes race at Bay Meadows in the inaugural $20,000 added Saratoga Stakes.

Lulie's Glory ($9) splashed to an easy four-length victory over favored Balcony's Babe in the $21,750 Santa Clara Stakes Friday.

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Unbeaten Mike Quarry, younger brother of heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry, tries for his 25th straight ring win tonight when he meets Amado Vasquez of Mexico.

Vasquez expected to give Quarry his stiffest test of his brief ring career. In his last bout, Quarry knocked out Enrique Villarreal of Mexico but did not impress observers.

Vasquez is fighting out of San Diego and has a 20-2 record.

Taylor Named Most Inspirational 49er

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Free safety Roosevelt Taylor, winding up his first full season with the San Francisco Forty Niners, today was named the team's most inspirational and courageous player.

By secret balloting among the Forty Niners, Taylor was selected to receive the 14th Len Eshmont Memorial Award. It has gone annually since 1957 to the Forty Niner "who best exemplifies the inspirational and courageous play of Len Eshmont."

Eshmont, a Fordham graduate, was a halfback on the first Forty Niner squad in 1946. He later coached at the Naval Academy and the University of Virginia before meeting an untimely death in 1957.

Taylor, 32, joined the Prospectors midway through the 1969 season in a trade which sent offensive guard Howard Mudd to the Chicago Bears. Taylor, a Grambling graduate who is in his 10th pro season, is regarded as one of the three best free safeties in the game, along with Larry Wilson of St. Louis and Dave Grayson of Oakland.

Thus far this season, Taylor, 5-11 and 186 pounds, has intercepted only two passes. But opposing quarterbacks are hesitant to throw in his area because of his great range, speed and jumping ability.

For the second year in a row, the Len Eshmont Award, which is a $1,000 watch, has gone to a defensive back. Last year's winner was cornerback Jimmy Johnson. Only other defensive back to win the coveted award was Dave Baker in 1960.

Taylor came to the Bears as a free agent prior to the 1961 season and was All-Pro in 1963, when he set a Bears season record of nine pass interceptions.

In eight years with the Bears, he pilfered 23 passes and returned them for 414 yards and three touchdowns. He also served on occasion as a kick returner.

Hawks Looking For Fresh Start

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

With a new year less than two weeks away, the Atlanta Hawks have made an early resolution to obliterate the bitter past and seek a fresh start.

"All we're doing is looking to the future," explained Atlanta playmaker Walt Hazzard Friday night after the Hawks ran up their fourth consecutive victory by beating the Baltimore Bullets, 116-112. "We're not thinking about things that happened before the streak."

What happened before the streak is unthinkable to any member of the Hawks. Rated a good shot at beating out the Bullets in the Central Division of the National Basketball Association, Atlanta won only seven of its first 28 games despite the addition of Pete Maravich. Dissension was a common word in discussing the Hawks, and they weren't helped any by the unexpected loss of Joe Caldwell to the American Basketball Association.

"Before the streak you know we were in bad shape," Hazzard said. "What it all means right now is we're thinking positively, knowing that's the only way to win. We're doing all the things we know we should do, playing team defense, hitting the open man and penetrating the other team's defenses. When we do that, nobody can beat us, nobody."

Lou Hudson led the Atlanta attack with 29 points, including the clinching field goal with 26 seconds left in the game, and Maravich had 28 points. Hazzard, in addition to eight assists, contributed 22 points. Earl Monroe led Baltimore with 24 points.

The Bullets still lead third-place Atlanta by seven games, but the Hawks are only two games behind the Cincinnati Royals, who dropped a 137-122 decision to the Chicago Bulls. This verdict fed another streak as the Bulls, aided by 75 points in the second half, equalled a team record with their sixth triumph in a row.

Elsewhere, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Boston Celtics, 124-114; the Buffalo Braves crushed the Cleveland Cavaliers, 113-94; and in a doubleheader at San Diego, the San Francisco Warriors edged the Portland Trail Blazers, 122-118 and the Detroit Pistons downed the San Diego Rockets 129-116.

Jerry Sloan, who shared game honors of 31 points with Cincinnati's Norm Van Lier, hit on seven of eight field goal attempts in the third period when Chicago ran up 37 points. Chet Walker added 26 points for the Bulls and Jim Fox and Bob Weiss had 20 each.

Lew Alcindor scored 40 points as Milwaukee registered its 24th victory against only five losses. John Havlicek, who wound up with 25 points, and Don Nelson combined for 20 points in the final period to help Boston gain a 109-109 tie, but the Bucks went right out front again on a pair of free throws by Bob Dandridge.

Mike Davis and Bob Kauffman scored 19 points each to pace Buffalo, which rolled up the biggest victory margin of its short history. The Cavaliers suffered their 34th defeat in 36 games.

Secret Meetings

SEATTLE (UPI) A series of secret closed-door meetings were held in executive offices of the University of Washington Friday as the Board of Regents probed charges of racism lodged against head football coach Jim Owens.

The secret sessions took place in the regents' chambers for four hours after the board had quickly dispensed with normal business and adjourned its regular weekly meeting.

Meeting with the regents were Owens, Sports Programs Director Joe Kearney and six whites who played on this year's football team.

Five blacks, including two who quit the team, met with the white athletes but it was not known if they conferred with the regents or Owens.

Hamilton To Host Boxing

Some of the finest amateur boxers in the Western United States will be in action Monday night at the Hamilton Air Force Base gymnasium.

Boxers will be trying for spots on a 10-man team which will face a team from eastern U.S. at Fort Carson, Colo., on Jan. 17. The winners from the Fort Carson bouts will make up the team to fight the Russian amateur boxing team in Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 23.

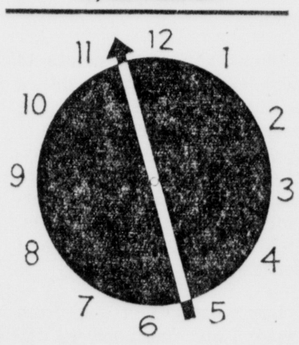
The Hamilton bouts Monday will start at 8 p.m. Proceeds of the $1 admission fee will go to the U.S. Olympic Fund.

Eight of the boxers in the tryouts will be from Hamilton Field. They include Randy Dubose, 1970 National AAU runnerrup at 106 pounds; Elijah Cooper, National AAU champ at 112 pounds; Steve Dement, AAU runnerup at 119; Ricky Carreras, All-Air Force and Interservice champion at 125; Kenny Bazer, AAU champ at 132; Juan Ruiz, all-Air Force, Inter-Service, and AAU champ at 139; Howard Clements, Texas state 147-pound runnerup; Jesse Valdez, fourtime Texas state champ, two-time National AAU champion and Inter-Service champ, 156.

The bouts are open to the public, and special arrangements have been made to provide access to the base.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Many women often find that they are rolling the ball with too much curve. This is usually caused by the combination of too light a ball and insufficient speed. If you can't roll a heavier ball, keep your wrist very stiff at release, and your thumb in the 11:30 position.

USC, Washington In Tournament Wins

United Press International

It was a good night for a couple of Pacific-8 Conference challengers, but for West Coast Athletic Conference teams Friday was a disaster.

At the Sun Bowl Basketball Tournament in El Paso, Texas, sixth-ranked Southern California, down by 16 points at one stage, rebounded to a 94-85 victory over Florida State, a southern power which entered the game with an 18th-place ranking. Dennis Layton sparked the Trojan attack with 37 points.

The Washington Huskies made it unanimous for the Pac-8 by downing Navy, 80-69, in the Utah Classic at Salt Lake City. In that one, the Huskies' 6-10 center Steve Hawes pumped in 19 points and gathered in 10 rebounds.

Host Utah walloped NYU, 103-67, in the opener.

Meanwhile, five WCAC teams saw action and none could muster a victory. In fact, four of the teams were beaten badly with the differences ranging from 15 to 25 points.

Pacific put up stiff opposition before bowing to Seattle, 77-75, on a 15-foot jumper by Mike Collins with 15 seconds left in the game.

Otherwise, it was Rutgers 84, Santa Clara 69; small college power Puget Sound 96, St. Mary's 76; Hardin-Simmons 116, Nevada-Reno 91; and Tennessee 79, San Francisco 59.

Even former WCAC member San Jose State took its lumps. Arizona, with Bill Warner scoring 25 points, routed the Spartans, 100-77. Warner has now scored 1,062 points to move into fourth place in the school's career scoring records.

Among the West Coast teams, Fresno State turned in the most lopsided victory in its 102-67 stomping of Northern Arizona.

In other games, San Diego State outscored North Dakota State, 92-86; Occidental downed Cal Poly of Pomona, 98-92; Whittier defeated Humboldt State, 72-61; Idaho trounced Whitworth, 84-56; Warner Pacific edged Whitman, 70-67; and New Mexico State routed Portland, 82-56.

First-round play in the Rogue Valley Tournament saw two Oregon schools record victories. Eastern Oregon downed Hayward State, 72-67; and Southern Oregon beat Sonoma State, 93-68.

In a big battle tonight, Long Beach State tries for national big-time fame and fortune in invading nationally fifth-ranked Marquette.

In a junior college game in Yuba, the College of Marin Tars ran their impressive record to 10-1 with a convincing 90-62 win over Yuba City.

Redwood, also in Yuba for the Yuba City tourney, blasted Livermore off the court, 70 - 37. The Giants of Larkspur were up 39 - 12 at the half, and, despite the fact that everybody on the team played, they could not avoid turning the game into a rout.

Scott Trobbe led the Giants with 13 points, followed by Bert Farb with 11, Steve McGee with 10 and Scott Tikker with 10.

The Marin Catholic Wildcats, the dark horses of the Rose City Tournament in Santa Rosa, rolled into today's finals with a 46-39 win over Piner of Santa Rosa. Bil' Donellan and Austin Sullivan hit for 17 and 13 points respectively to pace the Kentfield squad to its second win in two nights.

The College of Marin Tars, a veritable super team so far this season, got 19 points from Roosevelt Green, 15 from Joe Smith and 10 from Ed Herrnberger as they demolished Yuba for their fifth straight win. The Tars go against Sierra tonight in Kentfield at 8 o'clock.

Other MCAL teams won two games and lost three. San Marin, playing in the consolation semi-finals in the Rose City Affair, came from 17 points back to tip Eureka, 85-77. Six-foot-eight center Dana LaFerriere was the Mustang's principal hero, as he dumped in 33 points. Mike Kassenbrock helped out with 19, and Pete Thompson had 15.

In a game where everyone on both benches played, Terra Linda knocked off its alumni, 70 - 52 in Terra Linda. Every player on the Trojans scored, led by Larry Kerr and Andy Mora with nine points each.

On the losing side, Tamalpais was upset by Washington of San Francisco, 55 - 48, San Rafael lost to Vallejo, 70 - 56, and Drake ran afoul of Mark Gilberg and the Lowell Indians and lost, 88 - 44 in the semi-finals of the El Camino Tourney in Daly City.

Gilberg, the leading scorer in Northern California, matched his per game average with 38 against the Pirates, 24 of them in the first half.

Housewife Rolls 690 Series

Marilyn Epidendio, petite San Rafael housewife and former secretary in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association, was star of the week in Marin County bowling.

Mrs. Epidendio rolled games of 257, 233 and 200 for a whopping 690 series in the Tuesday Mixed Mates League at Greenbrae Lanes. Bowling with her husband, Rich, and Lee and Mitzi Brown, Marilyn led the Tom's Tigers team to a score of 2,482, perhaps the highest mixed team score in the county this season. That comes out to an average of 206 per team member.

High men's score at Greenbrae was also 690, rolled by Gene Helbing, while Jack Lundahl rolled a 686 for game honors at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael. High score at Nave Lanes near Ignacio was Paul Carrigan's 630.

The honor roll:

GREENBRAE LANES

NAVE LANES

Men — Paul Carrigan, 630; Terry DeYoung, 608; Morrie Katz, 605; Dick Rice, 603; Bob King, 601. Women — Laverne Backstedt, 560; Dolly Farmer, 554; Lu Sharp, 538; Jan Sabbatini, 524; Mary Ann Brendel, 521.

SPORTS SHORTS

West Nears Milestone

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jerry West should reach another milestone in his notable National Basketball Association career tonight. The Los Angeles Lakers' all-pro guard will reach the 20,000-point plateau if he scores 17 against the Atlanta Hawks.

With West averaging 28 points a game, he was expected to get at least 17 against the Hawks. That will make him the fifth player in NBA history to score 20,000 points.

Two of West's teammates, Wilt Chamberlain and the injured Elgin Baylor, are among the 20,000-point men. The others are Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee and the retired Bob Petit.

The Lakers are coming off a 118-102 victory over Cincinnati after having been edged by the expansion Buffalo Braves earlier in the week.

Baseball

OAKLAND (UPI) —Right-handed pitcher Mike Kowalik of Sacramento has been signed by the Oakland Athletics for a "substantial," but undisclosed, bonus.

Kowalik, who posted a 14-6 record and earned-run average of 1.45 during three varsity seasons at John F. Kennedy High, was assigned to the Coos Bay-North Bend club of the Northwest League for 1971. He was a 10th-round pick in the regular phase of the June free agent draft.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bill Singer, righthanded pitching star of the Los Angeles Dodgers, went to surgery today for an operation to correct his fractured index finger on his pitching hand.

He pitched a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies a few weeks after having recovered from hepatitis last season.

Singer later suffered two linear fractures of his index finger when he was hit by a pitched ball during a game at Pittsburgh. He was sidelined the remainder of the season and ended with an 8-5 record.

Football

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the past 15 years, Ed Scanlon and his wife Betty have greeted the San Francisco Forty Niners at the local airport each time they returned from a road game.

Sometimes, only the Scanlons and a few of the players' wives would be the only ones on hand to greet the returning gladiators. This made the Scanlons the team's No. 1 fans.

That record may be broken Sunday when the Forty Niners play a "road" game at Oakland, across the Bay. But Scanlon, 57, could keep his string intact by greeting the Forty Niner team bus at the bridge toll station.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Texas Longhorns Coach Darrell Royal said Friday there is no chance wide receiver Cotton Speyrer can play against Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Speyrer, who has caught clutch passes for Texas time and again during his three-year varsity career, broke his arm against Oklahoma Oct. 10. He suited up for the Longhorns' Dec. 5 game against Arkansas, but did not play.

OAKLAND (UPI) —Warren Wells, wide receiver of the Oakland Raiders, has won a continuance until Jan. 6 of a court hearing on a misdemeanor hit-run charge.

Wells' attorney was granted the postponement Friday in Municipal Court. Oakland plays San Francisco Sunday and either Miami, Cincinnati or Cleveland on Dec. 27 in a pro football playoff.

Police said Wells drove off without giving his mame or showing his driver's license after his car struck another auto Sunday night. Minutes later Wells was arrested on a drunk charge at a bar owned by a teammate.

Horse Racing

SAN MATEO (UPI) —Coach Crowley, a bay colt owned by Forty Niner quarterback John Brodie and former PGA champion Bob Rosburg, made his debut this afternoon in his first stakes race at Bay Meadows in the inaugural $20,000 added Saratoga Stakes.

Lulie's Glory ($9) splashed to an easy four-length victory over favored Balcony's Babe in the $21,750 Santa Clara Stakes Friday.

General

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Unbeaten Mike Quarry, younger brother of heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry, tries for his 25th straight ring win tonight when he meets Amado Vasquez of Mexico.

Vasquez expected to give Quarry his stiffest test of his brief ring career. In his last bout, Quarry knocked out Enrique Villarreal of Mexico but did not impress observers.

Vasquez is fighting out of San Diego and has a 20-2 record.

Secret Meetings

SEATTLE (UPI) A series of secret closed-door meetings were held in executive offices of the University of Washington Friday as the Board of Regents probed charges of racism lodged against head football coach Jim Owens.

The secret sessions took place in the regents' chambers for four hours after the board had quickly dispensed with normal business and adjourned its regular weekly meeting.

Meeting with the regents were Owens, Sports Programs Director Joe Kearney and six whites who played on this year's football team.

Five blacks, including two who quit the team, met with the white athletes but it was not known if they conferred with the regents or Owens.

Taylor Named Most Inspirational 49er

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Free safety Roosevelt Taylor, winding up his first full season with the San Francisco Forty Niners, today was named the team's most inspirational and courageous player.

By secret balloting among the Forty Niners, Taylor was selected to receive the 14th Len Eshmont Memorial Award. It has gone annually since 1957 to the Forty Niner "who best exemplifies the inspirational and courageous play of Len Eshmont."

Eshmont, a Fordham graduate, was a halfback on the first Forty Niner squad in 1946. He later coached at the Naval Academy and the University of Virginia before meeting an untimely death in 1957.

Taylor, 32, joined the Prospectors midway through the 1969 season in a trade which sent offensive guard Howard Mudd to the Chicago Bears. Taylor, a Grambling graduate who is in his 10th pro season, is regarded as one of the three best free safeties in the game, along with Larry Wilson of St. Louis and Dave Grayson of Oakland.

Thus far this season, Taylor, 5-11 and 186 pounds, has intercepted only two passes. But opposing quarterbacks are hesitant to throw in his area because of his great range, speed and jumping ability.

For the second year in a row, the Len Eshmont Award, which is a $1,000 watch, has gone to a defensive back. Last year's winner was cornerback Jimmy Johnson. Only other defensive back to win the coveted award was Dave Baker in 1960.

Taylor came to the Bears as a free agent prior to the 1961 season and was All-Pro in 1963, when he set a Bears season record of nine pass interceptions.

In eight years with the Bears, he pilfered 23 passes and returned them for 414 yards and three touchdowns. He also served on occasion as a kick returner.

NBA ROUNDUP

Hawks Looking For Fresh Start

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

With a new year less than two weeks away, the Atlanta Hawks have made an early resolution to obliterate the bitter past and seek a fresh start.

"All we're doing is looking to the future," explained Atlanta playmaker Walt Hazzard Friday night after the Hawks ran up their fourth consecutive victory by beating the Baltimore Bullets, 116-112. "We're not thinking about things that happened before the streak."

What happened before the streak is unthinkable to any member of the Hawks. Rated a good shot at beating out the Bullets in the Central Division of the National Basketball Association, Atlanta won only seven of its first 28 games despite the addition of Pete Maravich. Dissension was a common word in discussing the Hawks, and they weren't helped any by the unexpected loss of Joe Caldwell to the American Basketball Association.

"Before the streak you know we were in bad shape," Hazzard said. "What it all means right now is we're thinking positively, knowing that's the only way to win. We're doing all the things we know we should do, playing team defense, hitting the open man and penetrating the other team's defenses. When we do that, nobody can beat us, nobody."

Lou Hudson led the Atlanta attack with 29 points, including the clinching field goal with 26 seconds left in the game, and Maravich had 28 points. Hazzard, in addition to eight assists, contributed 22 points. Earl Monroe led Baltimore with 24 points.

The Bullets still lead third-place Atlanta by seven games, but the Hawks are only two games behind the Cincinnati Royals, who dropped a 137-122 decision to the Chicago Bulls. This verdict fed another streak as the Bulls, aided by 75 points in the second half, equalled a team record with their sixth triumph in a row.

Elsewhere, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Boston Celtics, 124-114; the Buffalo Braves crushed the Cleveland Cavaliers, 113-94; and in a doubleheader at San Diego, the San Francisco Warriors edged the Portland Trail Blazers, 122-118 and the Detroit Pistons downed the San Diego Rockets 129-116.

Jerry Sloan, who shared game honors of 31 points with Cincinnati's Norm Van Lier, hit on seven of eight field goal attempts in the third period when Chicago ran up 37 points. Chet Walker added 26 points for the Bulls and Jim Fox and Bob Weiss had 20 each.

Lew Alcindor scored 40 points as Milwaukee registered its 24th victory against only five losses. John Havlicek, who wound up with 25 points, and Don Nelson combined for 20 points in the final period to help Boston gain a 109-109 tie, but the Bucks went right out front again on a pair of free throws by Bob Dandridge.

Mike Davis and Bob Kauffman scored 19 points each to pace Buffalo, which rolled up the biggest victory margin of its short history. The Cavaliers suffered their 34th defeat in 36 games.

Hamilton To Host Boxing

Some of the finest amateur boxers in the Western United States will be in action Monday night at the Hamilton Air Force Base gymnasium.

Boxers will be trying for spots on a 10-man team which will face a team from eastern U.S. at Fort Carson, Colo., on Jan. 17. The winners from the Fort Carson bouts will make up the team to fight the Russian amateur boxing team in Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 23.

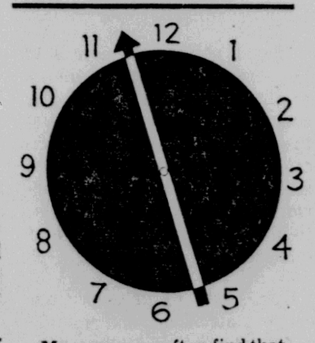
The Hamilton bouts Monday will start at 8 p.m. Proceeds of the $1 admission fee will go to the U.S. Olympic Fund.

Eight of the boxers in the tryouts will be from Hamilton Field. They include Randy Dubose, 1970 National AAU runnerrup at 106 pounds; Elijah Cooper, National AAU champ at 112 pounds; Steve Dement, AAU runnerup at 119; Ricky Carreras, All-Air Force and Interservice champion at 125; Kenny Bazer, AAU champ at 132; Juan Ruiz, all-Air Force, Inter-Service, and AAU champ at 139; Howard Clements, Texas state 147-pound runnerup; Jesse Valdez, fourtime Texas state champ, two-time National AAU champion and Inter-Service champ, 156.

The bouts are open to the public, and special arrangements have been made to provide access to the base.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Many women often find that they are rolling the ball with too much curve. This is usually caused by the combination of too light a ball and insufficient speed. If you can't roll a heavier ball, keep your wrist very stiff at release, and your thumb in the 11:30 position.

USC, Washington In Tournament Wins

United Press International

It was a good night for a couple of Pacific-8 Conference challengers, but for West Coast Athletic Conference teams Friday was a disaster.

At the Sun Bowl Basketball Tournament in El Paso, Texas, sixth-ranked Southern California, down by 16 points at one stage, rebounded to a 94-85 victory over Florida State, a southern power which entered the game with an 18th-place ranking. Dennis Layton sparked the Trojan attack with 37 points.

The Washington Huskies made it unanimous for the Pac-8 by downing Navy, 80-69, in the Utah Classic at Salt Lake City. In that one, the Huskies' 6-10 center Steve Hawes pumped in 19 points and gathered in 10 rebounds.

Host Utah walloped NYU, 103-67, in the opener.

Meanwhile, five WCAC teams saw action and none could muster a victory. In fact, four of the teams were beaten badly with the differences ranging from 15 to 25 points.

Pacific put up stiff opposition before bowing to Seattle, 77-75, on a 15-foot jumper by Mike Collins with 15 seconds left in the game.

Otherwise, it was Rutgers 84, Santa Clara 69; small college power Puget Sound 96, St. Mary's 76; Hardin-Simmons 116, Nevada-Reno 91; and Tennessee 79, San Francisco 59.

Even former WCAC member San Jose State took its lumps. Arizona, with Bill Warner scoring 25 points, routed the Spartans, 100-77. Warner has now scored 1,062 points to move into fourth place in the school's career scoring records.

Among the West Coast teams, Fresno State turned in the most lopsided victory in its 102-67 stomping of Northern Arizona.

In other games, San Diego State outscored North Dakota State, 92-86; Occidental downed Cal Poly of Pomona, 98-92; Whittier defeated Humboldt State, 72-61; Idaho trounced Whitworth, 84-56; Warner Pacific edged Whitman, 70-67; and New Mexico State routed Portland, 82-56.

First-round play in the Rogue Valley Tournament saw two Oregon schools record victories. Eastern Oregon downed Hayward State, 72-67; and Southern Oregon beat Sonoma State, 93-68.

In a big battle tonight, Long Beach State tries for national big-time fame and fortune in invading nationally fifth-ranked Marquette.

Six In Race For Cafeteria Operation

Three local caterers and three out-of-county restaurateurs are competing to take over the Civic Center cafeteria operations next month.

Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office, said he had received bids from the following firms:

Tamal Foods of San Anselmo; a partnership composed of Verne Dwelly of Mill Valley and Armand T. Allegra of San Francisco; the partnership of Donald A. Giovannoni of Novato and Camilla Bamatter of Mill Valley; ARA Services of Los Angeles; Service Systems Corp., a subsidiary of Del Monte and Manning's.

Canteen Corp. of Millbrae also submitted a bid but did not give the required guarantee of no loss from the operation.

The bids include several factors that must be analyzed before the best offer can be determined, said Chrystal. One requirement is for the bidder to buy tables and chairs and other equipment and lease them back to the county. The cost will be amortized over a five-year period from the profits. The interest on this initial outlay, one of the bid items, ranges from 5 per cent offered by Manning's to a high of 10.4 per cent.

Another bid item is the percentage of the gross that the operator will take as his management fee and for indirect expenses. This ranges from 3.5 per cent to 13 per cent. A third factor to be considered is the quality and price of food offered, said Chrystal.

Chrystal said he will evaluate these factors and make a recommendation to the Marin County Board of Supervisors either next Tuesday or Dec. 29.

The cafeteria was closed yesterday because the state Department of Rehabilitation is removing its equipment. Starting next week, Tamal Foods of San Anselmo will cater coffee and snacks at the cafeteria on a temporary basis through Jan. 8. The county hopes to award a bid and have the new operators take over after Jan. 8.

Leasing Of Hospital Is Rejected

The Hillcrest Hospital board has rejected an offer to lease the hospital to the owner of Petaluma General Hospital and turned the tables and offered to assume the management of the private hospital.

Hospital administrator Joseph Horner said Joseph Wilner, owner of the private Petaluma General, had told the board he would like to lease Hillcrest to expand or replace his facilities.

In a letter to Wilner, the board Thursday night said the electorate of Petaluma Hospital District had chosen the nonprofit format for medical care and that it would be in the best interests of the community to reinvest profit in improved facilities rather than for private gain.

The board said it would, however, be interested in taking over his hospital as part of a plan to expand facilities.

Horner said Hillcrest would be interested only in managing Petaluma General and purchasing its equipment and supplies for use later in an addition to Hillcrest or in a new hospital building. He said the board had no interest in purchasing Wilner's hospital building, which is in need of renovation and repair.

50-Year License Sought For Plant

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has applied for a new 50-year license for its El Dorado Hydroelectric Project, according to the Federal Power Commission.

The project is on the south fork of the American River in El Dorado, Alpine and Amador counties. PG&E's present license expires Feb. 22, 1971.

Ferry Pitch To Be Studied By Span Panel

A proposal to include a free Sausalito ferry ticket in each book of bridge commute tickets will be considered by Golden Gate Bridge District directors at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in toll plaza offices.

Directors, meeting as the rules and policy committee, also will consider a dime ferry rate for groups of school children and expansion of the sick leave policy to include parents in-laws of district employees.

The finance-auditng committee will meet at 9:30 a.m. to consider monitoring out-of-state trips financed by the district for its staff and directors.

The regualr meeting of the full board will be at 10 a.m.

Larkspur Trustees To Negotiator Roles

The Larkspur School District board has named two of its members negotiators to deal with employees groups.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen said the board Thursday night appointed trustees Howard C. Harvey and Leon Persson to negotiate with the Larkspur Teachers Association in the future.

Asst. Supt. Gilbert Slusher was appointed the board's representative in all dealings with Marin Classified Services, which represents non-teachers.

No immediate negotiations are contemplated since contracts have been signed for the 1970-71 fiscal year, Cohen said.

The Larkspur School District board also:

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION — Decided to join the California Association of School Districts, formerly the California Small School District Association, at a cost of $75 a year.

UNIFICATION — Appointed trustee Curtis P. Kamai to attend the Marin County Committee on School District Organization meeting Jan. 20 on unifying all schools in the San Rafael and Tamalpais high school districts.

TENNIS COURTS — Took no action on a request by the Mariner Cove Improvement Association for construction of tennis courts at San Clemente School pending a decision by the Town of Corte Madera.

FUNDS — Announced receipt of $8,000 in federal education funds for purchase of educational and classroom materials plus $1,367 for library improvement.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of district gardener Al Schaefer, who quit to take another job.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to Jan. 12.

The first modern police system was organized in London in 1829.

Drunken Drivers Get Schooling

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Drunk drivers here will go to school instead of jail, starting next month.

Three Kanawha County judges have agreed to a proposal of the Southern West Virginia Auto Club, to compel intoxicated motorists to attend a ten-hour course.

The convicted drunken driver will sit through four sessions that run more than two hours each, and learn at exhaustive length why police consider him to be a menace.

In order that our employees may enjoy the Christmas Holidays there will be a slight change in our collection schedule during the period from December 21, 1970 thru January 1, 1971.

All Friday pickups will be made on Thursday, December 24 and December 31. All other collections will be made either on the regular day or one day earlier.

May we take this opportunity to wish all our customers a very happy holiday season.

Ferry Pitch To Be Studied By Span Panel

A proposal to include a free Sausalito ferry ticket in each book of bridge commute tickets will be considered by Golden Gate Bridge District directors at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in toll plaza offices.

Directors, meeting as the rules and policy committee, also will consider a dime ferry rate for groups of school children and expansion of the sick leave policy to include parents in-laws of district employees.

The finance-auditng committee will meet at 9:30 a.m. to consider monitoring out-of-state trips financed by the district for its staff and directors.

The regualr meeting of the full board will be at 10 a.m.

Larkspur Trustees To Negotiator Roles

The Larkspur School District board has named two of its members negotiators to deal with employees groups.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen said the board Thursday night appointed trustees Howard C. Harvey and Leon Persson to negotiate with the Larkspur Teachers Association in the future.

Asst. Supt. Gilbert Slusher was appointed the board's representative in all dealings with Marin Classified Services, which represents non-teachers.

No immediate negotiations are contemplated since contracts have been signed for the 1970-71 fiscal year, Cohen said.

The Larkspur School District board also:

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION — Decided to join the California Association of School Districts, formerly the California Small School District Association, at a cost of $75 a year.

UNIFICATION — Appointed trustee Curtis P. Kamai to attend the Marin County Committee on School District Organization meeting Jan. 20 on unifying all schools in the San Rafael and Tamalpais high school districts.

TENNIS COURTS — Took no action on a request by the Mariner Cove Improvement Association for construction of tennis courts at San Clemente School pending a decision by the Town of Corte Madera.

FUNDS — Announced receipt of $8,000 in federal education funds for purchase of educational and classroom materials plus $1,367 for library improvement.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of district gardener Al Schaefer, who quit to take another job.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to Jan. 12.

The first modern police system was organized in London in 1829.

Drunken Drivers Get Schooling

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Drunk drivers here will go to school instead of jail, starting next month.

Three Kanawha County judges have agreed to a proposal of the Southern West Virginia Auto Club, to compel intoxicated motorists to attend a ten-hour course.

The convicted drunken driver will sit through four sessions that run more than two hours each, and learn at exhaustive length why police consider him to be a menace.

In order that our employees may enjoy the Christmas Holidays there will be a slight change in our collection schedule during the period from December 21, 1970 thru January 1, 1971.

All Friday pickups will be made on Thursday, December 24 and December 31. All other collections will be made either on the regular day or one day earlier.

May we take this opportunity to wish all our customers a very happy holiday season.

Call For Relaxing Stringent Security At The Civic Center

Stringent security measures, the Marin Civic Center have gone too far and should be relaxed, a group of county employees declared yesterday in a memorandum to County Administrator Alan Bruce.

Several county employees, most of them in the county planning department and in the county library, called on Bruce to ask the county supervisors for the following:

1. Body searches at the entrances are by nature offensive, no matter how politely done, and should cease now.

2. The Civic Center should be reopened immediately for night meetings. Lack of meeting places is discouraging citizen participation in public affairs.

3. Identification cards issued to each county employee should not be used to allow special access to the buildings or to reduced search procedure, because the Civic Center should be as open to the public as it is to employees. The ID cards have no apparent purpose and should be dropped.

4. Barrier screening of balconies and fencing at both ends of the building will destroy the unique aspect of a public building open to the outside. No further changes should be made in the appearance of the building.

"These building security measures are at best imperfect," said the memorandum. "They can do no more than reduce the possibility of physical harm. What they have done most decisively is to infringe upon personal liberties and to impair the quality of life in a place designed to be a center of democratic participation in a setting of natural and man-made beauty."

Board Will Study Transfer Of Land

The Marin County Board of Education is to consider transferring jurisdiction over a 10-acre parcel in the Ross School District to the bordering Kentfield School District Monday at 8 p.m.

A report on contracting with firms to perform specific educational tasks is also to be presented during the meeting at Magnolia Park School, 1400 Lucas Valley Road, San Rafael.

McCully Is Offered New 3-Year Pact

The Shoreline Unified School District board has offered Supt. Charles A. McCully, in the second year of his three-year contract, a new three-year contract starting next July.

McCully, who is paid $21,500 a year, said the terms of the next contract, including salary, haven't been set.

McCully was chairman of a screening committee for a district superintendent when the board hired him to head the district when it went into operation July 1, 1969.

The board also appointed McCully and a trustee committee Thursday night to interview architects for a proposed building program at Tomales Elementary School.

There are three permanent classrooms and seven portable classrooms at the school, and trustees hope to build a complete school, possibly using the existing classrooms, McCully said.

The new building would have to be financed by a bond, but there hasn't been any move toward setting a bond election, he reported.

The Shoreline Unified School District board also:

BLOOMFIELD PROPERTY — Rejected a lone bid of $1,717 for purchase of 2.5 acres of land near the old Bloomfield school, and tabled the proposal to sell the parcel.

NEW TEACHER — Authorized an additional teaching post at Tomales Elementary School because of increased enrollment and hired Richard Lussier for the job at a salary of $4,000 for the remainder of the school year.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Theodore Burgon, librarian, West Marin School, and Cary Miller, cafeteria assistant, Tomales High School.

About 12-million muskrats a year are trapped in the U.S.

Height Variance Issued For Sign

The first height variance for a freestanding sign in Corte Madera has been granted by the town's board of adjustments.

The sign will be eight feet above a proposed new Standard service station at 90 Corte Madera Center.

Previously, the town maintained no sign could be higher than the structure it identified. However, new variance procedures in the town provide for granting such variances.

Approval came at the board's meeting Wednesday, according to Elizabeth Long, board secretary.

Be Sure You Have Safe Yule

Christmas: a time for joy, for sharing, for peace, for love, and for safety.

Too many families, however, will not experience the good Christmas brings, for one careless act may induce tragedy. Hence, Christmas for those unfortunate families will be remembered not for what it was but for what it could have been.

IN ORDER THAT you might have a safer Christmas, Underwriters' Laboratories, a not-for-profit organization testing for public safety, offers the following suggestions. Follow each tip, and you will be sure to make a lasting, not last, Christmas.

Don't overload circuits.

Don't work on light strings while plug is still connected.

Don't stretch string lights or extension wiring.

Don't use string lights or extensions outdoors unless the attached label specifies you may do so.

Don't use floodlights on or near flammable material.

Don't place electrical fixtures within a child's accessibility.

Do buy only UL labeled string lights and cords.

Do inspect all wiring insulation for possible deterioration, especially if it has been stored for an indefinite period.

Do use rubber light socket gaskets where provided and replace if needed.

Do make certain lights are not loose in their sockets.

Do use UL-listed artificial trees wherever available.

WHILE NOT SEEKING to minimize the importance of any of the preceding points, perhaps two should be stressed: circuit overloading and physical inspection.

Basically, overloads are created by placing more current on a wire than it can handle but not enough to cause a fuse to blow.

At Christmas this is usually due to placement of too many bulbs on a single extension cord. Result: overheating; melting insulation; exposed wire; shock; electrocution or fire. Hence, always look for the capability of the wiring supplying the lighting.

Examination of the insulation is a minor task but one of major importance. Wiring that has been stored in attics, cellars or closets for a long period of time can become vulnerable to the elements. Consequently, varying temperatures can easily affect the insulation to the point of being incapable of serving its protective purpose.

Be Sure You Have Safe Yule

Christmas: a time for joy, for sharing, for peace, for love, and for safety.

Too many families, however, will not experience the good Christmas brings, for one careless act may induce tragedy. Hence, Christmas for those unfortunate families will be remembered not for what it was but for what it could have been.

IN ORDER THAT you might have a safer Christmas, Underwriters' Laboratories, a not-for-profit organization testing for public safety, offers the following suggestions. Follow each tip, and you will be sure to make a lasting, not last, Christmas.

Don't overload circuits.

Don't work on light strings while plug is still connected.

Don't stretch string lights or extension wiring.

Don't use string lights or extensions outdoors unless the attached label specifies you may do so.

Don't use floodlights on or near flammable material.

Don't place electrical fixtures within a child's accessibility.

Do buy only UL labeled string lights and cords.

Do inspect all wiring insulation for possible deterioration, especially if it has been stored for an indefinite period.

Do use rubber light socket gaskets where provided and replace if needed.

Do make certain lights are not loose in their sockets.

Do use UL-listed artificial trees wherever available.

WHILE NOT SEEKING to minimize the importance of any of the preceding points, perhaps two should be stressed: circuit overloading and physical inspection.

Basically, overloads are created by placing more current on a wire than it can handle but not enough to cause a fuse to blow.

At Christmas this is usually due to placement of too many bulbs on a single extension cord. Result: overheating; melting insulation; exposed wire; shock; electrocution or fire. Hence, always look for the capability of the wiring supplying the lighting.

Examination of the insulation is a minor task but one of major importance. Wiring that has been stored in attics, cellars or closets for a long period of time can become vulnerable to the elements. Consequently, varying temperatures can easily affect the insulation to the point of being incapable of serving its protective purpose.

A Christmas Message To Our Readers

When God Solved The Communication Problem

(Editor's Note: It is the custom of the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine to ask members of the Marin clergy, twice a year, at Christmas time and again at Easter, to prepare a message for our readers. This year's Christmas message is from Rev. Arthur W. Sorensen, pastor of All Saints Lutheran Church in Novato.)

By REV. ARTHUR W. SORENSEN

Does God have any problems?

If He has, I guess they have to do with people, like you and me. And I would further suggest that God's chief problem, like ours many times, is in communication. He has always been the kind of God that makes Himself known. But, so often, He isn't known. He has not left us simply to search for Him, but from the very beginning has been intent on revealing himself to us:

"Ever since God created the world, His invisible qualities, both His eternal power and His divine nature, have been clearly seen. Men can perceive them in the things God has made." (Romans 1:20)

In other words, if we want to, we can know something about God by observing his created world. Men have also been able to know God as they have seen him guiding his history of men.

Still, a communication problem always existed. God wanted us to know that, most important of all, He loved us. Nature didn't necessarily say this. Nor did the history of nations. God still has to break through that sound barrier that existed between heaven and earth, and this is what Christmas is all about.

THE WRITER OF Hebrews says, "In many and various ways God spoke of old to our fathers by the prophets; but in these last days He has spoken to us by a Son." (Hebrews 1:14)

The Gospel of John puts it, "The world became a human being and lived among us. We saw His glory, full of grace and truth." (John 1:14)

To make sure He would get through to us He came to earth in the person of Jesus Christ, a man born among men. The story of His birth is told and and retoldeach Christmas. And down through the years the simple setting has become embelished almost beyong recognition. But faith simply says this is Immanuel, which means God with us.

He lived and walked among us, experienced our trials and temptations, our sorrows and joys. He spoke, as no man ever spoke, the Word of life. And His very life was the embodiment of God's love. His ugly death on the cross spares us from leaving Christmas to a few sentiment al people. It says that God really meant business when He said He loved us:

"For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son," for a sinful world that had turned a deaf ear to God who has always wanted to keep in close touch.

CHRISTMAS STILL casts its magic spell over the entire earth for it brings a message we still need to hear. Since His birth in a small town named Bethlehem the people world has grown much larger. The powers of the earth have surpassed many times the strength of the Roman empire. And men have learned to harness the very stuff of which the Bethlehem star was made.

But nothing in history has made Christmas any less important. Christ was then, and still is, the hope of the world, for He is still about His task of reconciling men to God and to one another. God's message through the angels of "peace on earth" is still possible when men come to know and believe in the "Prince of Peace." And we who would still be lost to all that is truly good and worthwhile, lost to ourselves and to God, are still in need of that Savior who even today knocks at the door of our hearts.

We wish one another a happy birthday when that day of the year comes along. And there is good reason for Christmas to be a happy birthday time as we celebrate the gift of new life born to us all when Christ was born.

The joy to the world we sing of in the Christmas carol is meant to be a joy for every heart that finds satisfaction in God's Christmas gift of His Son. It is a gift that really means knowing and trusting a God who was not afraid to give the best He had to a world that has everything, but really nothing, without Him.

God is still wanting this to be a merry Christmas. The angels are still singing for those who will hear.

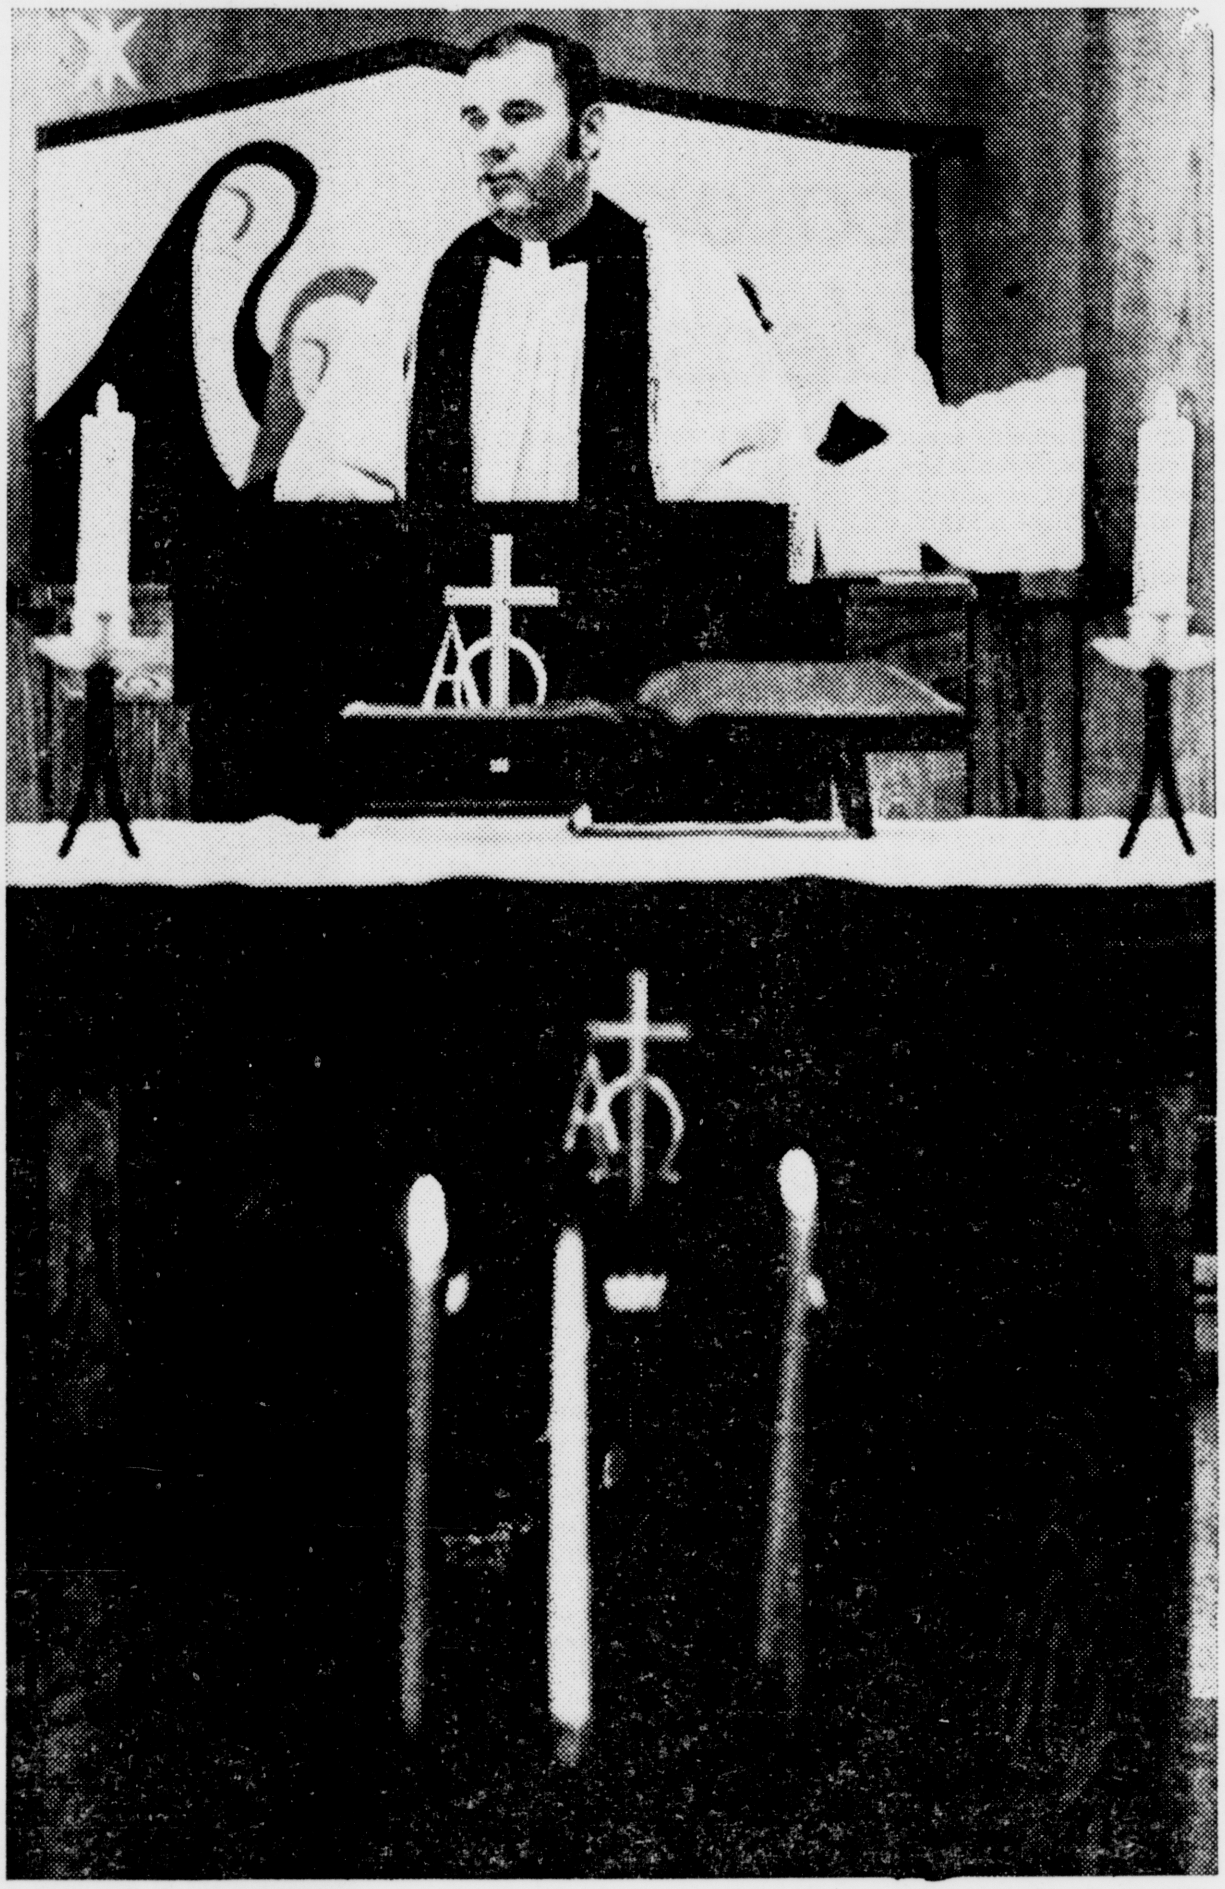
"IN HIM WAS light, and the light was the life of men. The light shines in the darkness and the darkness will not overcome it." (John 1:4)

There is still much darkness in our world. Christ still wants to give His light to brighten dark hearts and show us the way. And this Jesus can be made known to men today only by those who are not afraid to face the darkness because they know the light they have can overcome it.

God's means of communication today is through those who have gotten the word — those who have heard the Christmas message and believe it has something to tell the world, and that it must be told. A man can't be the same once he has gotten the message straight and heard the clear call to believe and live again.

Some good news has come to us, the best news since the world began. It is all wrapped up in that little bundle of a Child, born at Christmas, and now the Lord and King of this world, His kingdom.

We thank God for getting through to us. We thank Him for speaking so clearly, so even a child could understand.



REV. ARTHUR W. SORENSEN is the pastor of All Saints Lutheran Church at 2 San Marin Drive, Novato, and is pictured here in the pulpit where he is conducting services this Christmas season. Reverend Sorensen has been a member of the clergy for 16 years, and pastor of the Novato church since February of 1965.

From The Bible—

In those days a decree went out from Caesar Agustus that all the world should be enrolled. . . . And Joseph went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child. And while they were there, the time came for her to be delivered. And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swaddling cloths, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn. . . .

And lo, the star which the wise men had seen in the East went before them, till it came to rest over the place where the child was. When they saw the star they rejoiced . . . and going into the house they saw the child with Mary his mother, and they fell down and worshiped him. . . .

And in that region there was shepherds out in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And an angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were filled with fear. And the angel said to them, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people for to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. And this will be a sign to you: you will find a babe wrapped in swaddling cloths and lying in a manger." And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of heavenly host praising God and saying:

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!"

James Bunker Is Educator With Ideas

JAMES G. BUNKER has been the superintendent of the Novato Unified School District since 1962, coming to Marin from Coalinga, and says that he entered the field of school administration through an "absolute accident." He's a man with definite and interesting ideas on schools and schooling, and the ability to articulate them clearly.

Profile Of A Marinite

James G. Bunker, superintendent of the Novato Unified School District, entered the field of school administration through an "absolute accident."

After abandoning a boyhood dream of becoming a doctor, taking a few turns on the mound as a semi-pro baseball pitcher and teaching a while, he eventually followed in the path of his father.

Now more than 30 years later, he is the dean of school district superintendents in Marin, having served at his present post since 1962.

Bunker was teaching historical research and working toward a doctorate at the University of California at Berkeley in 1936 when the turning point came.

HE SAID HE got in a "row" with a professor who told him he had to learn the Serbian-Croatian language even though Bunker didn't think it was necessary.

As the result of the clash, Bunker quit the university with hope of getting a job teaching historical research at Rockhurst College in Kansas City, a position that didn't pan out.

If it hadn't been for the clash with the professor, "I wouldn't be doing what I'm doing now," Bunker said. "It was an absolute accident."

SINCE HE HAD given up his college post, he had to find another, and he started with a full load teaching history and English, coaching baseball and counseling students at the Greenville Junior-Senior High School.

Although his father was an elementary school principal, Bunker said he didn't start out to follow in his father's footsteps.

While in high school, "I decided I wanted to be a doctor," Bunker said. But after taking some of the required courses, such as science, "I decided it wasn't my cup of tea."

Bunker, however, is qualified to diagnose the ills of the public school system.

"BASICALLY, I think there are some different things the public schools will have to start to do," he commented.

"We need to offer parents more choices for their children in the kinds of schools," he asserted.

For example, there is a certain percentage of parents who prefer a "rigid structure" with "a basic kind of three-R program," and there are other parents who "would like to see a freer kind of school . . . on the order of ungraded schools with a broader variety of experiences than the traditional elementary school now provides."

BUNKER FEELS that one of the weaknesses of public schools is that basically they all operate in much the same fashion. "I think we need to give this a heck of a good look."

School districts are going to have to ask the public if it wants schools of differing types, and "if there are enough asking for them, we should begin putting them into operation," he said.

Bunker, a native of Sacramento, is a descedent of California pioneers.

"Mother came to California in 1850 and Dad from Canada in 1860," he reported.

THE 58-YEAR-OLD superintendent, a native of Sacramento, recalled his elementary and high school days in Alameda County, where his father was chief deputy county superintendent of schools.

"He gave me a couple of pieces of advice that I think are invaluable," Bunker said. "One was, whatever you try to do in the business of education, the standard should be: What does this go for the children? The other was not to do anything you would regret having on the front page of the next day's paper."

Bunker also recalled being an avid reader in his student days, "a book a day," and said he can still remember certain teachers — "One, an elementary teacher, was a pretty incompetent teacher, and I knew it at the time but I had a very fine history teacher in high school and a top-flight math teacher."

WHILE AT THE University of California at Berkeley, where he received a master's degree in history in 1935, Bunker played baseball. "I played college and semi-pro," he said. "I was a junk pitcher with a big, slow curve over the outside corner."

Now, he concedes, his sport is golf. "I'm a hacker."

After leaving the University of California teaching job, Bunker thought he might return to university teaching, but World War II came along and he drifted "Into the administration side" of education.

REJECTED BY the Army because he had a hernia, Bunker became principal of Greenville Junior-Senior High School in Plumas County in 1942.

At that time he also was a member of the Plumas County Board of Education.

"Years ago it (the county board) was composed of professional people," he explained. "I think the present arrangement is better."

In 1948 he became superintendent of the Red Bluff Union High School District, and worked part-time as an associate professor of education at Chico State College.

IN 1952 BUNKER became superintendent of the Coalinga Union High School District and Junior College in Fresno County. "There are no more districts like that in California," he said referring to the combination high school and junior college district.

He held that post for 10 years until he made the move to Novato in 1962. "I came close to taking a couple of jobs in Southern California, but I was reared around the Bay Area and would rather be here than in the Southlands."

When he arrived in Novato, the district had about 4,200 pupils, and now "it has almost 12,000," he said.

ON EDUCATING he commented: "From the first through the sixth, they get the basic tools . . . After that it depends upon what kind of person you want to produce."

Of reading, he said: "Educators are guilty of not being totally honest" by not conceding that "some kids simply are not going to read."

Prior to 1930 the non-readers dropped out of school, but now the schools have to take care of all the pupils of all problems, he asserted. "It's obvious a certain percentage don't have the mental capacity which would allow them to read beyond a certain level."

BUNKER HAS three children, Michael, with the San Rafael Police Department, Catherine, of Berkeley, and Sarah of Honolulu, from his first marriage.

He was divorced from his first wife, Lorene, in 1965, and married a former teacher, Irene France St. John, in August, 1966.

GUESS WHO GAVE WHOM WHAT

Imagine the joy of a Sylvania Christmas.

Just pick any superb Sylvania home entertainment product and watch the smiles of delight come Christmas morning.

For Dad, there's the great fidelity Sylvania color TV.

And what son wouldn't like a durable Sylvania portable radio?

Or what daughter, the brilliant realism of Sylvania portable stereo?

And Mother will love the careful craftsmanship of a Sylvania console stereo.

This Christmas, keep 'em guessing, but give Sylvania.

The Greek-American Christmas

Traditions Of Two Lands Blended At Holiday Time

By DON KEOWN

Whereas in the old country St. Basil brings gifts to the children on Jan. 1, Greek-Americans almost unanimously honor the practice of their adopted land of hosting a visit from Santa Claus on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day.

Nevertheless, Greek-born or first-generation Greek-Americans have not abandoned the essences of the Christmas observance they or their parents knew in Greece.

This is demonstrated by the still strongly religious overtones of the observance.

And by the continuation of the old custom of the family gathering on Christmas Day.

Thus 200 to 300 Marinites of Greek lineage will gather for a Greek Orthodox Church of Marin County Holy Communion Service at midnight Christmas Eve in Montgomery Chapel on the campus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary campus in San Anselmo.

THEIR NEW parish priest, Fr. James T. Adams, will officiate, with a liturgy that uses both the Greek and English languages and with impressive rites conducted amidst sacred ikons and flaming candles.

For the worshipers, Communion will represent the culmination of a Christmas week of preparation that has included confession and fasting.

Their fast then broken, most of these Greek-Americans will then follow the time-honored custom of the land from whence came they or their ancestors, and gather on Christmas Day in large family groups, usually at the home of the grandparents, the family patriarch and matriarch, for feasting, for visiting and for reflecting upon the significance of the day.

SERVED WILL be many of the traditional Christmas dishes of Greece.

There will be the cookies — the koulourakia, the kourambiethes and the melomakarouna —; the Christmas bread; a cheese pie called tiropeta and a spinach pie called spanakopeta; the feta or goat's milk cheese; a Greek salad, and always a good wine.

The meats most likely will include the Greek favorite — lamb —, although many will join their fellow Americans in dining on turkey or roast beef.

AT EASTER, however, lamb becomes a must.

It is Easter, explains Father Adams, that the Greek Orthodox Church and its members regard as Christianity's most significant holiday, "although Christmas-time represents a most important time for our church and people."

The personable priest came to Marin County and the parish that holds liturgical services each Sunday in Montgomery Chapel only this fall. But he has been an ordained Orthodox priest for 15 years.

HE WAS BORN in Oakland of Greek parents. His father, whose family name in the old country had been Adamis, was a railroad switchman.

Father Adams remembers his own boyhood Christmases in the East Bay that included attendance at midnight services in the small Assumption Greek Orthodox Church on Oakland's Brush Street — "They now have the beautiful Ascension Greek Orthodox Church on Lincoln Avenue." — and a Christmas Day of family visiting and feasting with all the traditional pastries, breads and other foods.

Father Adams studied at both the Holy Cross Theological Seminary in Brookline, Mass., and at the Rizarios Theological Seminary in Athens, Greece.

HE THUS SPENT two Christmases in Greece.

"It was a difficult thing," he remembers, "explaining to the Greeks the differences and the similarities between St. Basil and Santa Claus. They thought Santa more rightfully should be compared with their St. Nicholas, who is the patron saint of the fishermen and whose day, Dec. 6, is celebrated particularly in the seaports and the villages where there are many fishermen with feasts, festivities and religious services."

St. Basil, on the other hand, is the patron saint of children. And thus on his day, Jan. 1, he brings the gifts.

IN GREECE, TOO, the carolers do their singing on Jan. 1, choosing songs that praise St. Basil or wish their listeners a happy New Year.

But the American in Greece does not find all the Christmas customs unfamiliar to him.

Christmas trees are decorated there, just as they are here, although there the decorations are more likely to have a religious motif.

But what impressed Father Adams most was the religious conviction and dedication with which the Greeks marked the holidays.

"THAT," HE SAYS, "is what I feel to be our greatest single heritage for the Christmas season."

It is a feeling that he has carried with him, too, during 15 years of ministering to Greek-American parishes as an Orthodox priest.

His first parish was in McGill, Nev., a community that had once boasted more than 2,000 residents of Greek ancestry, working in the copper mines and for the railroad. At the time of Fathar Adams' arrival, McGill's Greek population was down to some 150 families, and it has since dwindled to 80 or 90.

FATHER ADAMS came to Marin from Las Vegas, Nev. where, he says, his parish was similar in size to the one he has here.

That means," he explains, that from 80 to 100 persons might attend one of the weekly Holy Liturgy services on a Sunday morning, whereas attendance rises to between 200 and 300 for the Christmas Eve Communion.

The worshipers use a liturgy book that is in both English and Greek. The Bible generally in hand is in a Greek that the priest describes as "not classical Greek, but a Greek that has been compared to Shakespearean English."

Ikons And Candles For A Greek Christmas Service

place of worship undergoes a transformation with the ikons and candelabras that create a Byzantine effect.

"The ikons serve to remind us of Christ, of the Saints and of the other most important individuals in Christian history," the priest explains.

The ikons in use by the Greek Orthodox Church of Marin County are prints made from some of the church's greatest ikons.

FATHER ADAMS explains that there will be but one Christmas service for Marin Greek Orthodox Church members because the priests are permitted to officiate at but one liturgical service each day.

In larger parishes, with more than one priest, there are Christmas Day as well as Christmas Eve midnight services.

The worshipers who will enter Montgomery Chapel at midnight Thursday will have observed religious fasting rules that forbid the eating of meat, dairy products and olive oil during Christmas week. Once the fasting period was traditionally 40 days, but with the modernization of the church has come a shortening of the fast. But it is observed religiously by adults and children alike.

DESPITE THE late hour, in attendance will be children who under choirmaster Jerome Caran have been for a week or longer following the American custom of singing the traditional carols of the season, rather than awaiting the first of January, as do the children of Greece. But there remains a flavor of the Old Country in their caroling, for many of the songs are sung in both Greek and English.

The Christmas Eve worshipers assembling on the campus of a Presbyterian seminary, an arrangement in itself appropriate to this day and age of ecumenicalism, will be members of a great religious family that includes millions — Russians, Serbs, Syrians, Armenians, the many people of the Balkans, as well as the Greeks.

Despite language differences, they all observe and practice a rather tightly-knit theology that can be traced directly to the great religious schism of 1054 when The Church split into the Roman Catholic Church, with its center in Rome and the Pope as its leader, and the Eastern Orthodox Church, with its seat in Istanbul and the Patriarch at its head.

PATRIARCH Athenagoras I currently guides the Eastern Orthodox movement from Istanbul.

Although language may present a problem, Father Adams says it is not unusual for Orthodox believers of another national background to attend Greek services. In his Nevada parishes, his worshipers often included people of Russian descent who were without their own church.

In Marin, however, the Russian Orthodox believers do have their own church.

Those assembled in Montgomery Chapel this Christmas Eve will worship solemnly yet celebrate joyously the commemoration of one of the two greatest occasions of Christianity. They are part of a Church noted for centuries for the steadfast devoutness and intense dedication of its membership.

THEN ON Friday, Christmas Day, they will turn their attention to the other aspect of the holiday observance that they have preserved so carefully from their Greek heritage. They will assemble in large family groups to re-establish and to enjoy those filial ties so important to all Greeks.

Father Adams, whose wife Evelyn is also of Greek descent, says that they, like other Greek-Americans, make a special effort to preserve something of the Greek tradition and spirit in the observance of Christmas and Easter in their home, which is now at 59 San Miguel in San Marin, Novato.

The Adams have three children, ages 10, 9 and 4.

THE TWO oldest children attend Our Lady of Loretto in Novato, a Roman Catholic parochial school, in the best ecumenical spirit of contemporary times.

Both parents speak Greek and use it often in the home. The children, their father says, understand but do not speak Greek.

"We try our best to give our children a blending in their lives, during the holidays and at other times, of the best traditions of Greece from whence came their grandparents with the finest customs and traits of America that has served so wonderfully as the new homeland for millions from Greece and other shores," the priest says.

Religion, he regards as a cornerstone of both traditions.

In Greek, or in English, the story of the First Christmas remains 2,000 years after the event the source of hope and inspiration for millions upon millions including the relatively small band of Marinites who will gather Thursday night as the clock nears 12 for a Communion with ritual and trappings that go back hundreds of years and to a land from whence came not only their forefathers but much of mankind's entire western civilization.

"Are Polyethylene Bags Dangerous?"

Anything is dangerous if not used as intended. You recall the suffocation tragedies of a few years ago when poly garment bags were permitted in the hands of children or placed over baby cribs. Today we avoid such hazards.

However, a new warning is being issued in regard to poly bags in connection with the "wet look" fashions. Poly bags should not be used to package vinyl garments that have that "wet look." Contact of a poly bag will cause the vinyl to "bleed" into the bag. While furs, leathers and suedes may be packaged safely in poly bags, the long-term storage of garments in such bags should be avoided. Remember, too, to keep poly bags away from hot radiators and hot irons. They melt.

A Tree Decorated With Seals And Hope

Marin Girls Make Unique Ornaments For TB Ward

Two Marin County Girl Scout troops, two Camp Fire groups and the eighth graders of a parochial school joined forces in a unique Christmas project — the decoration of a Christmas tree for tuberculosis patients at Ross General Hospital, using only decorations home-made from 1970 Christmas Seals.

But if their choice of decorating materials was original, the yule-tide tradition of the ornamented tree that they were honoring was centuries old.

Some legends even have it that the deocration of the Christmas tree dates back to a Medieval miracle and mystery play in which the first couple, Adam and Eve, were the characters.

IN THOSE ANCIENT times when the people could neither read nor write, customs, traditions and morals were handed down from generation to generation through wandering bands of players.

And a favorite of the Advent season — the four weeks preceding Christmas — repertoire was the story of Adam and Eve.

As time went on, the plays, in the views of outraged bishops and other churchmen, became less and less tasteful, producing the medieval version of today's cries of "pornography."

THE PLAYS WERE banned. But legend has it that the memory of firs decorated with apples lived on, and became symbols used by parents as "teaching aids" in putting across moral lessons to their children on the feast days.

In the story, the firs, hung with apples, represented the Garden of Eden. And the fruit was a symbol of sin — Eve's fall from faith and grace.

Later, parents were to add round wafers to the ornaments on the tree as the signs of redemption.

AND STILL LATER those wafers were to be replaced by cookies — the Christmas cookies of today, in the shapes of stars, flowers, angels, etc.

So when Gloria Fink of Girl Scout Troop 4, Linda Hiebel and Monique Couacaud of Girl Scout Troop 1656 and Camp Fire Girl Ellen Weaver set out to fashion decorations from Christmas Seals, it was not surprising that they chose to make angels — a symbol dating back to the Middle Ages.

Other members of the two Girl Scout troops plus the Golden Gate and Ta-Mi-Ca Camp Fire Girls, and the eighth graders of St. Anselm's School joined in the project, and also had participated in the packaging of the Christmas Seals mailed to Marin County residents in November.

RESEARCH BY the young Marinites into the subject of early Christmas trees desclosed that there was more than the one — the Adam and Eve — version of why apples were a prime favorite as early decorations.

The western world, they discovered, is full of legends about the miracle of trees bearing fruit on Christmas Eve — usually apples, but sometimes apricots or cherries.

On Christmas Eve, one legend says, pilgrims traveled to Nuremberg to view apple trees "that bore fruit the size of a thumb on Christmas Eve."

TODAY, CHRISTMAS apples, small yellow apples with bright red patches, also known as crab apples, can befound in markets during the holiday season, harking back to the legend.

Gifts which the wise men and shepherds are said to have brought the Christ Child account for many of the ornaments on Christmas trees, if not for the trees themselves.

Here again it is was the miracle and mystery players of the Middle Ages who told of such gifts — bells, flutes, trumpets, cribs, spoons, gourd flasks, canes, pipes, bunches of cherries, etc. These objects are still to be found on many trees today. And duplicating them for the Christmas tree for the patients of The Terrace, Ross General's tuberculosis ward, were Camp Fire Girl Laura Venezia who made a tiny crib and Girl Scouts Barbara Sunderland and Linda Nicolay who made bells, an early symbol of the Christian church.

ONE STORY TELLS of a poor shepherd who had nothing to bring the Christ child but his wife's stockings. Out of this perhaps grew our Christmas stocking tradition.

The egg has long been symbolic in almost all religious lore and can be traced to early pagan feast days.

However, it has been said that many peasants brought decorated eggs to the Christ Child, expressing the hope that he would grow "whole as an egg." This led to early trees being decorated with blown egg shells which

A Tree Decorated With Seals And Hope

Marin Girls Make Unique Ornaments For TB Ward

Two Marin County Girl Scout troops, two Camp Fire groups and the eighth graders of a parochial school joined forces in a unique Christmas project — the decoration of a Christmas tree for tuberculosis patients at Ross General Hospital, using only decorations home-made from 1970 Christmas Seals.

But if their choice of decorating materials was original, the yule-tide tradition of the ornamented tree that they were honoring was centuries old.

Some legends even have it that the deocration of the Christmas tree dates back to a Medieval miracle and mystery play in which the first couple, Adam and Eve, were the characters.

IN THOSE ANCIENT times when the people could neither read nor write, customs, traditions and morals were handed down from generation to generation through wandering bands of players.

And a favorite of the Advent season — the four weeks preceding Christmas — repertoire was the story of Adam and Eve.

As time went on, the plays, in the views of outraged bishops and other churchmen, became less and less tasteful, producing the medieval version of today's cries of "pornography."

THE PLAYS WERE banned. But legend has it that the memory of firs decorated with apples lived on, and became symbols used by parents as "teaching aids" in putting across moral lessons to their children on the feast days.

In the story, the firs, hung with apples, represented the Garden of Eden. And the fruit was a symbol of sin — Eve's fall from faith and grace.

Later, parents were to add round wafers to the ornaments on the tree as the signs of redemption.

AND STILL LATER those wafers were to be replaced by cookies — the Christmas cookies of today, in the shapes of stars, flowers, angels, etc.

So when Gloria Fink of Girl Scout Troop 4, Linda Hiebel and Monique Couacaud of Girl Scout Troop 1656 and Camp Fire Girl Ellen Weaver set out to fashion decorations from Christmas Seals, it was not surprising that they chose to make angels — a symbol dating back to the Middle Ages.

Other members of the two Girl Scout troops plus the Golden Gate and Ta-Mi-Ca Camp Fire Girls, and the eighth graders of St. Anselm's School joined in the project, and also had participated in the packaging of the Christmas Seals mailed to Marin County residents in November.

RESEARCH BY the young Marinites into the subject of early Christmas trees desclosed that there was more than the one — the Adam and Eve — version of why apples were a prime favorite as early decorations.

The western world, they discovered, is full of legends about the miracle of trees bearing fruit on Christmas Eve — usually apples, but sometimes apricots or cherries.

On Christmas Eve, one legend says, pilgrims traveled to Nuremberg to view apple trees "that bore fruit the size of a thumb on Christmas Eve."

TODAY, CHRISTMAS apples, small yellow apples with bright red patches, also known as crab apples, can befound in markets during the holiday season, harking back to the legend.

Gifts which the wise men and shepherds are said to have brought the Christ Child account for many of the ornaments on Christmas trees, if not for the trees themselves.

Here again it is was the miracle and mystery players of the Middle Ages who told of such gifts — bells, flutes, trumpets, cribs, spoons, gourd flasks, canes, pipes, bunches of cherries, etc. These objects are still to be found on many trees today. And duplicating them for the Christmas tree for the patients of The Terrace, Ross General's tuberculosis ward, were Camp Fire Girl Laura Venezia who made a tiny crib and Girl Scouts Barbara Sunderland and Linda Nicolay who made bells, an early symbol of the Christian church.

ONE STORY TELLS of a poor shepherd who had nothing to bring the Christ child but his wife's stockings. Out of this perhaps grew our Christmas stocking tradition.

The egg has long been symbolic in almost all religious lore and can be traced to early pagan feast days.

However, it has been said that many peasants brought decorated eggs to the Christ Child, expressing the hope that he would grow "whole as an egg." This led to early trees being decorated with blown egg shells which had been beautifully painted and decorated.

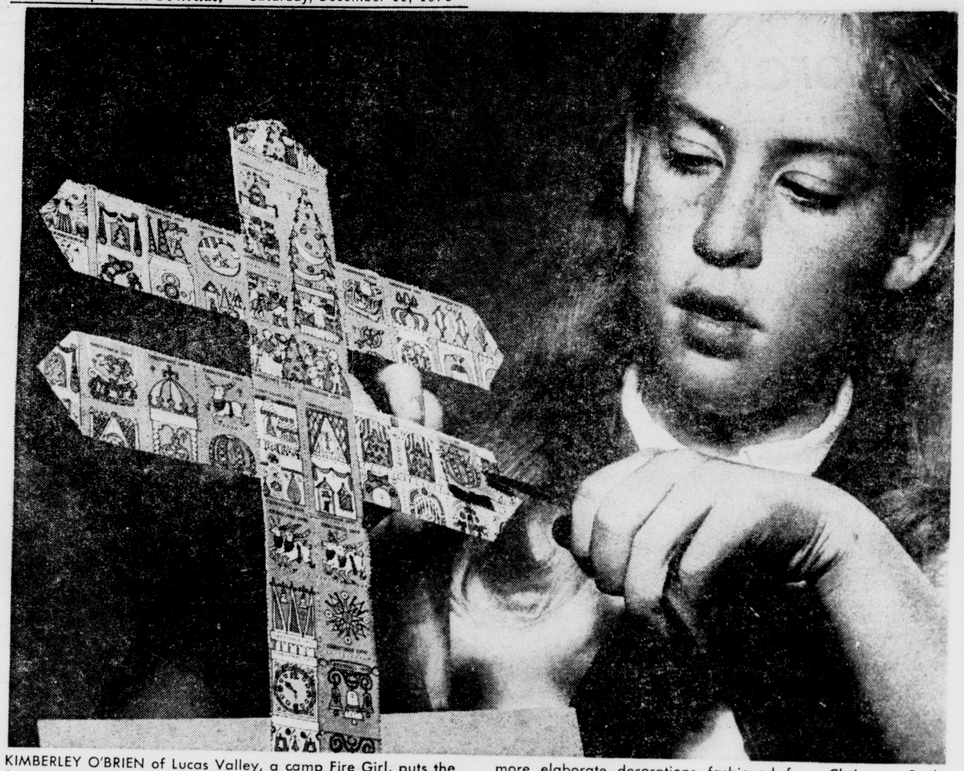
Marin Girls Uphold An Old Tradition



KIMBERLEY O'BRIEN of Lucas Valley, a camp Fire Girl, puts the finishing touches on the Cross of Lorraine which she made from 1970 Christmas Seals provided by the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of Marin. tI was one of the more elaborate decorations fashioned from Christmas Seals by Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts and St. Anselm's School students to embellish the Christmas tree that they presented as their gift to the tuberculosis patients at Ross General Hospital.

CAMP FIRE GIRL Ellen Weaver of Mill Valley, left, created an angel from Christmas Seals for the Ross General Hospital Christmas tree, while Laura Venezia of Marinwood fashioned a tiny crib. Here they put the finishing touches upon their ornaments, while other completed pieces await the time for hanging on the tree before its presentation to the tuberculosis ward patients.

MANY THINK THAT the decorated egg was the forerunner of our modern Christmas tree ball. In fact, the popularity of decorated balls and globes of all sizes led to an early cottage industry of the Thuringian Mountains in Germany where the whole village made a living fashioning spun glass balls and ornaments for trees.

So, when Girl Scout Peggy Steer decorated an egg with Christmas Seals she, too, was participating in an early legend.

Another early and symbolic tree decoration was a rose. One of our earliest records, about actual decorated trees, dates back to 1605. This tree was hung with roses cut from many colored papers, wafers and apples. Here as the queen of flowers, the rose was used to symbolize love and beauty and dedicated to the Virgin Mary.

MOST AUTHORITIES agree that our modern evergreen tree as a symbol of Christ's Day or Christmas came down to us from Germany.

Legends here have a wide range. One tells the story of St. Boniface who came from England to Germany in the 8th Century to convert the heathern Germans. He cut down a sacred oak at Geismar on Christmas Eve and offended those he was trying to convert. To make amends, he planted a young fir in its place as a symbol of the new faith he preached.

Another tale bestows the honor on Martin Luther.

ONE CHRISTMAS Eve, it goes, he was traveling alone over the snow-covered country. The sky with its thousands of glittering stars, made such a deep impression upon the great reformer that when he got home he tried to tell his family about it, but could find no words. Suddenly the idea came to him. He went into the garden, cut off a little fir tree, dragged it into the nursery, put some candles on its branches and lighted them.

ONE THING WE know for sure is that in 1605 Christmas trees were used to celebrate Christmas in Strasbourg and that folks were setting them up in their parlors and decorating them with apples and sweets.

Interestingly enough, the Christmas tree reached America before it did England. Hessian soldiers are reported to have set up the first one during the American Revolution, to remind them of home.

It wasn't until 1841 that the royal seal of approval was granted such trees in England. In that year the German-born Prince Albert and his spouse, Queen Victoria, had their first tree at Windsor Castle. Prior to that, the English were reluctant to embrace what author Charles Dickens referred to as that "new German toy."

However, within 20 years, the tree was firmly established and had replaced the older native kissing bough.

THE CHRISTMAS Seal tradition, while not as ancient as the tree decorations or the religious principle of giving and receiving, still has a long history that, in this country, dates back to 1907.

That year, a young Red Cross worker, Emily Bissel, wanted to raise funds to keep a small tuberculosis hospital from having to close its doors. She had read about the Christmas Seal idea in an article written by Jacob Riis for a magazine. The story concerned a Danish postal worker, Einer Holboell, who originated the idea to raise sufficient funds to build a children's TB hospital in Denmark.

Miss Bissell hoped to duplicate his efforts in the U.S., but the struggle was discouraging. She was about to give up when a Philadelphia newspaper became interested in the story and took it on as a civic project. With the help of the press, Miss Bissell raised $3,000 insuring the future of the hospital.

FROM THAT START, Christmas Seals have spread around the world. Almost every country has some of them.

In October, 1902, the International Union Against Tuberculosis adopted the double-barred cross as its symbol of the fight against TB. That was nine centuries after the Duke of Lorraine, Godefrey de Bouillon, planted it originally in the Holy Land as the mark of those hardy travelers who made the first Crusade.

In making a Cross of Lorraine from 1970 Christmas Seals for the Ross General Hospital TB ward, Camp Fire Girl Kimberley O'Brien is telling us that today, as it was centuries ago, the Cross of Lorraine remains a symbol of dedication. Today the crusade is against tuberculosis, emphysema, other respiratory diseases and air pollution. And the crusaders are sometimes very young, such as these girls who decorated a tree and presented it ot the ailing as a symbol of hope and cheer.

ROBIN MUZATKO of Marinwood, left, a Camp Fire Girl, and Barbara Sunderland of Terra Linda, a Girl Scout, are enjoying themselves immensely as they put onto the Christmas tree some of the ornaments they and other girls had fashioned from Christmas Seals. Most of the decorations — the angels, canes, bells, eggs, etc. — have yule histories that go back into medieval times.

THE COMPLETED decorated tree is presented to the Ross General Hospital and the patients of its Terrace tuberculosis ward by a delegation of Girl Scouts from Novato. In foreground is Monique Couacaud. Standing, left to right, are Linda Hiebel, Peggy Steer, Linda Nicolay and Gloria Fink. And accepting the tree for the hispital in the corridor outside the ward is Charles E. Womer, Ross General administrator.

The Rock Is Now A Tourist Resort—

Hotels Replace The Garrison

The changing face of Gibraltar is evident everywhere on that historic British fortress and monitor of the Mediterranean Sea.

The garrison town has almost disappeared, replaced by modern hotels and luxury apartments. Tiny but intriguing Gibraltar has become a pleasant Mediterranean tourist resort in its own right, and a popular stopping-off point for those enroute to North Africa or Spain.

Located in the sunshine zone, Gibraltar has a superb year-round climate and fine beaches which made it a perfect holiday spot for sunbathers and sportsmen wishing to sail, swim, fish, water-ski or scuba dive — all in the warm Mediterranean.

BUT ASIDE FROM its aquatic attractions, the big surprise is how much scenery, history, entertainment and bargain-priced shopping are packed into Gibraltar's small area.

The most renowned landmark is, of course, the Rock, which rises 1,396 feet above sea level. A cable car ride to the top of this "Pillar of Hercules" ends in a magnificent panoramic view across the straits to North Africa and Andalusia.

The car stops on the way at the den of the famous Barbary apes, who (usually) extend a friendly welcome to all visitors.

VACATIONERS CAN also visit St. Michael's Cave, a huge stalactite-draped cavern that the ingenious Gibraltarians have transformed into a concert theatre. More adventurous types can explore the many tunnels which wind through the Rock to Ince's Gallery, hewn out by British soldiers in the 18th Century.

For history buffs, there's the battle-scarred Moorish Castle, built in 1333 by the Arabs who captured Gibraltar from Spain, and St. George's Hall, which was gouged out of solid rock during the Great Siege of 1779-1783 when the courageous British fortress outlasted the French and Spanish armies.

AFTER DARK, PLENTY of activity can be found in Gibraltar's nightclubs and the new casino which has the latest in gaming facilities.

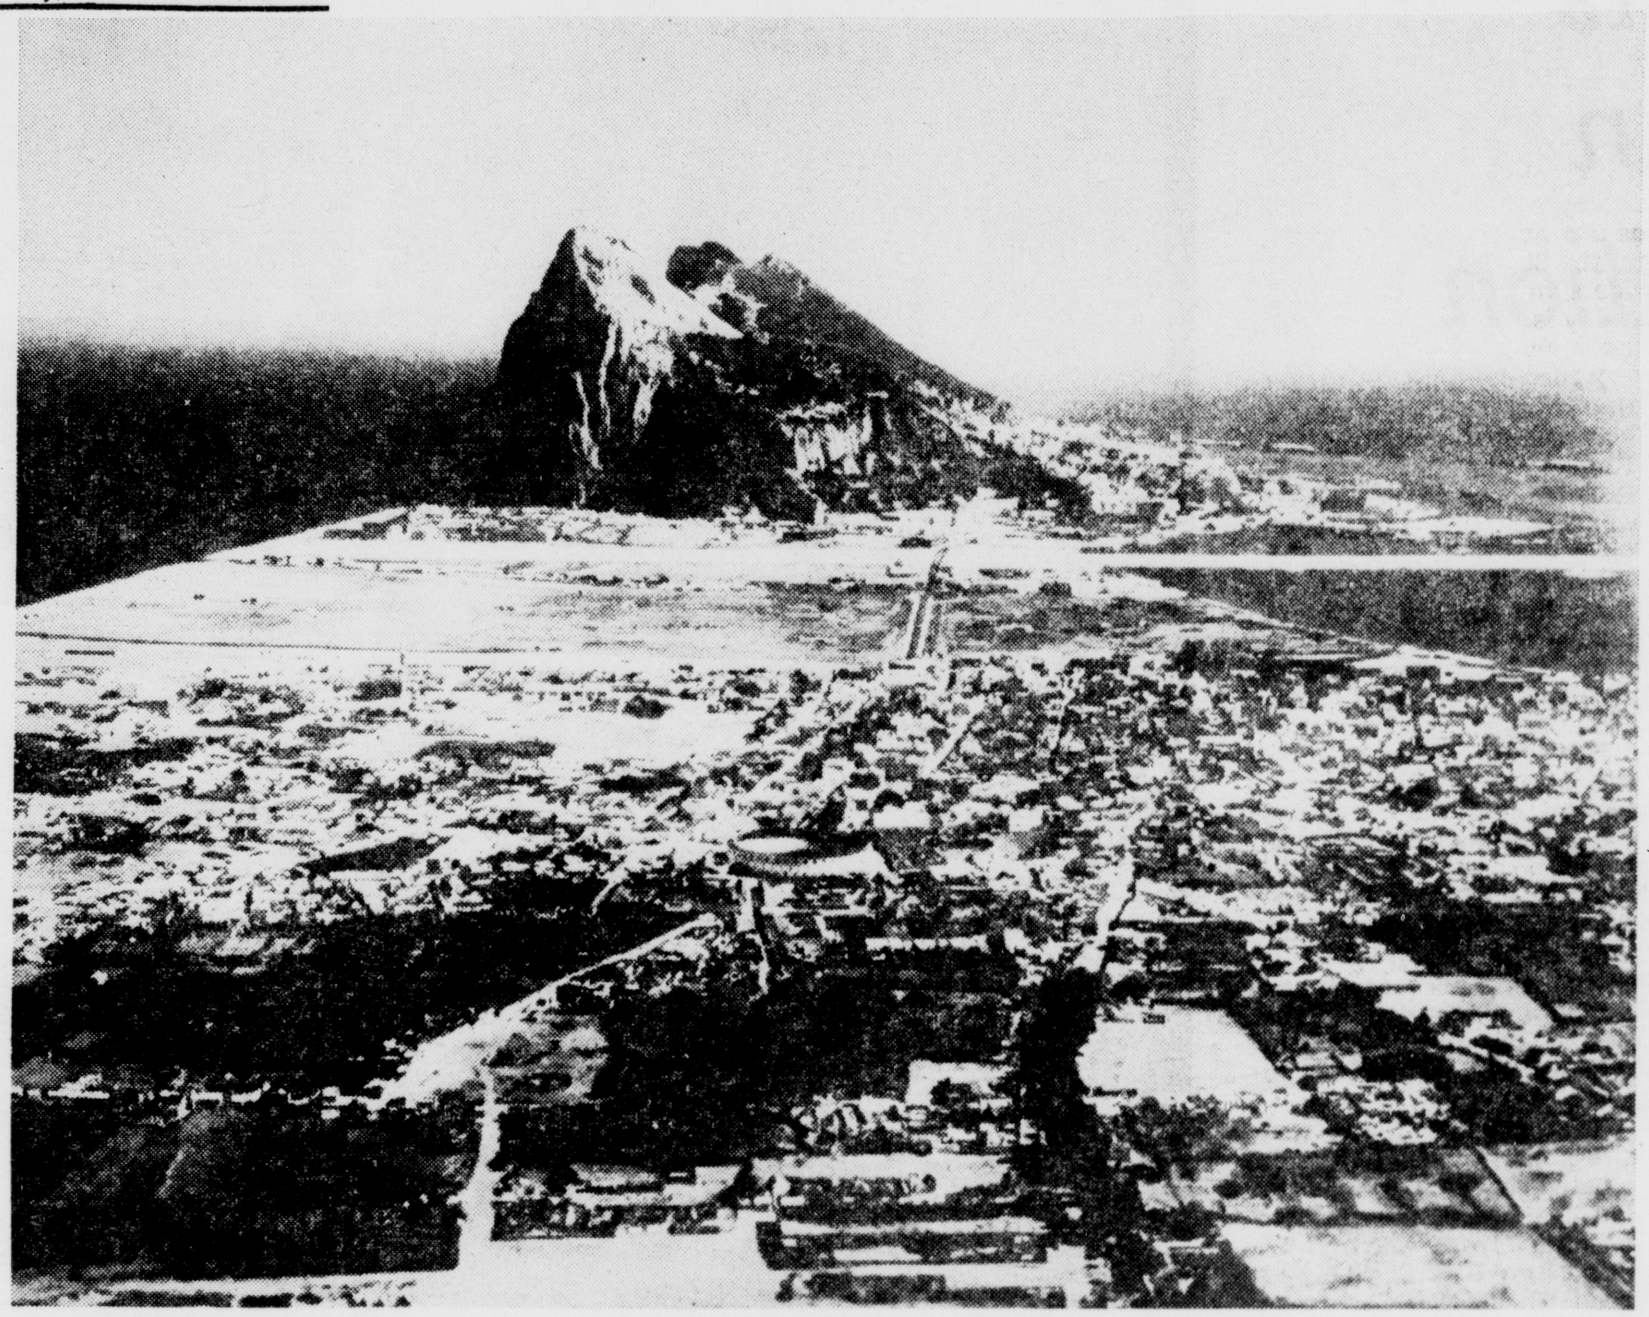
Gibraltar has many fine hotels, including the Rock, Caleta Palace, Bristol, Mediterranean and the Queens, which recently added a discotheque taverna. Individual chalets, built in tiers from the beach, are also available for as little as $5 a day per person.

Since Gibraltar has no taxes, shopping is cheaper than in most European cities.

ON MAIN STREET there are luxury shops and Indian bazaars where a huge selection of duty-free articles can be bought. Almost everything is a "buy," but especially watches, shawls, sandalwood boxes, spices, perfumes, embroideries and fans.

British European Airways has six flights weekly from London to Gibraltar including a new Saturday flight which continues on to Marrakech.

Vacationers interested in a brief glimpse of North Africa can take advantage of the Mons Calpe, a car and passenger ferry which plies daily between Gibraltar and Tangier. This popular service enables tourists to set foot on African soil and spend a day wandering about the famous Casbah of Tangier.



GIBRALTAR ENTERTAINS its visitors with an intriguing blend of the historic and the contemporary in its sights and entertainment, and with a mixture of the continental and British ways of life. "Must" sights include Catalan Bay, the Rock and its Barbary apes, Alameda Gardens and St. Michaels Cave. But there are also nightclubs and a new casino for after-dark revelry.

Americans Hit The Jackpot In '71 In Holiday Weekends

By MURRAY J. BROWN

Thanks mainly to the perseverance of the U.S. travel industry, millions of Americans can look forward to more three-day holiday weekends beginning in 1971. The federal Monday holiday law, creating four new holiday weekends annually in addition to Labor Day for residents of the District of Columbia, members of the armed forces and all government employees, goes into effect on Jan. 1.

There are no "national" holidays in the United States, but 45 of the 50 states already have passed similar legislation.

The five others — Louisiana, Oklahoma, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wisconsin — have legislative sessions scheduled early in the year and are expected to fall in line, too.

THE FEDERAL law, signed by then President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968, shifted four of the most widely observed holidays from traditional dates to specific Mondays.

Henceforth, under that law, Washington's Birthday will be celebrated on the third Monday in February instead of Feb. 22. (Feb. 15 in 1971); Memorial Day on the last Monday in May (next year May 31) instead of May 30; Columbus Day on the second Monday in October (next Oct. 11) instead of Oct. 12; and Veterans Day on the last Monday of October (next Oct. 25) instead of Nov. 11.

Labor Day will continue to be observed on the first Monday in September (next Sept. 6.).

Several states, however, failed to approve the shifts in Memorial Day or Columbus Day observances.

NOT AFFECTED by the federal or state laws are Independence Day on July 4 which falls on Sunday next year and generally will be observed on the following Monday, thus adding another weekend holiday, and Thanksgiving Day on the fourth Thursday in November for some, a four-day holiday.

Also unchanged are various holidays observed by individual states, such as New Year's Day and Lincoln's Birthday. Both, incidentally, fall on Fridays in 1971 which could mean two more long weekends for many Americans.

The campaign for more three-day holiday weekends was launched back in the early 1950s by the National Association of Travel Organizations which since has changed its name to Discover America Travel Organizations.

The year-long campaign finally culminated in 1968 when Congress approved the bill sponsored by Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill.

Christmas Customs Around The World

Christmas began nearly two thousand years ago when Christ was born in a stable in a small Jewish town. It was a happening so inconspicuous that hardly anyone knew it.

Today, the Star of Bethlehem is a worldwide symbol of Christmas. On no other day is the family of man so close, one to another.

In every corner of the earth where Christmas is celebrated, it has come to be the most universal and joyous of all Christian festivals.

Actually, many of the cherished traditions of Christmas time, religious and otherwise, are buried in the pagan past.

WHEN CHRISTMAS was first officially established, in fact, the date coincided with the ancient celebration of the sun's rebirth at the winter soltice. The church saw no reason to destroy old customs and so they were adapted to fit the celebration of the birth of Christ. Then each country added its own lore to the melting pot of Christmas tradition.

Travelers around the world can now see many different symbols and customs used to celebrate Christmas. The travel experts of Trans World Airlines, which serves 27 cents around the world, as well as 40 U.S. cities, have collected information on some of the many ways nations and people in places on their routes make this day of joy and peace.

In America's Southwest, particularly in New Mexican villages, people whose ancestors came from Spain light fires called "luminarias" before the front steps of their homes. The tradition is that the fire will guide the Christ Child to their thresholds.

THEY ALSO PLACE candles in their windows lest He miss His footing in the dark.

California's own Yosemite National Park is the scene of a strange procession each Christmas Eve, as bands of men dressed in white capped and cowled costumes to represent the ancient druids march ceremoniously to one of the large hotels, the Ahwahnee, dragging a Yule log entwined with mistletoe.

And did you know that here in California there is a National Christmas tree? It's the famous General Grant giant Sequoia, located in the General Grant National Park, not too far from Yosemite. It was designated the nation's official Christmas tree by the government in 1925.

Throughout California, communities of Mexican-Americans carry on the old tradition of Las Posadas.

ON CHRISTMAS EVE a procession representing Mary and Joseph seeking room at the inn goes from home to home. They are turned away from every house until the home that has been designated for the climax of the Posadas is reached. Here they are admitted with great rejoicing.

A party is held, and gifts are showered on the children.

On Christmas Eve, in the tiny German town of Oberammergau, the mountains are ablaze with light and echo with carols as the town's famed woodcarvers ski down the slopes, carrying flaming torches and singing as they go.

In Italy, the boom of cannons at sunset on Christmas Eve signals the end of a day of fasting. It is here, too, that La Befana makes her rounds on Jan. 6, feast of the Epiphany.

ACCORDING TO legend, she is an old woman who refused to help the Wise Men find their way to Bethlehem. She quickly repented and set out after them. Failing to find them, she still wanders, bringing gifts to good children, ashes to bad ones.

On Christmas Eve, the churches in Spain resound with tambourines and guitars. Every village has its crib, or creche, a reproduction of the manger scene.

In Spain, too, it is the Wise Men who, in exchange for straw left out by children for their horses, leave gifts as they journey to Bethlehem on Epiphany Eve.

For holiday feasting in celebration of Christmas, Greek housewives bake the Christopsome, an elaborately decorated cake.

In France, a cake baked in a log shape has now replaced the traditional Yule log once burned in the family fireplace. Almond candy is a Christmas favorite in Spain.

The Church Ripley Made Famous Becomes A Museum

A unique church in Santa Rosa, once made famous in a Ripley "Believe It or Not" cartoon because it was made of the lumber from a single redwood tree, will open to the public in April of 1971 as the Robert L. Ripley Memorial Museum.

An historic landmark built in the 1870s, the "Church of One Tree" will house the personal papers and memorabilia of the world famous cartoonist and world traveler who was born on Christmas Day, 1893, in the same town of Santa Rosa.

A world-wide search is now being launched by The Friends of Robert L. Ripley, an organization of Santa Rosa citizens who initiated the museum, for letters and inscribed gifts from Ripley along with personal articles that once belonged to him.

THE CHURCH OF ONE TREE, an historical landmark in Santa Rosa, where famed cartoonist Robert L. Ripley was born, will be the home for a Ripley Memorial Museum which will be officially dedicated Monday. Ironically, the site for the memorial museum was made famous in a Ripley "Believe It or Not" cartoon. Built in Gothic style by a Baptist congregation around 1870, the church was constructed from the lumber of one large redwood tree that yielded 78,000 board feet. Finished with massive buttresses on the outside and heavy beams on the inside, the main auditorium is 60 by 37 feet and seats 500. The parlor is 30 by 20 feet and the pastor's study is 20 by 16 feet. The tower rises 70 feet high.

For history buffs, there's the battle-scarred Moorish Castle, built in 1333 by the Arabs who captured Gibraltar from Spain, and St. George's Hall, which was gouged out of solid rock during the Great Siege of 1779-1783 when the courageous British fortress outlasted the French and Spanish armies.

AFTER DARK, PLENTY of activity can be found in Gibraltar's nightclubs and the new casino which has the latest in gaming facilities.

Gibraltar has many fine hotels, including the Rock, Caleta Palace, Bristol, Mediterranean and the Queens, which recently added a discotheque taverna. Individual chalets, built in tiers from the beach, are also available for as little as $5 a day per person.

Since Gibraltar has no taxes, shopping is cheaper than in most European cities.

ON MAIN STREET there are luxury shops and Indian bazaars where a huge selection of duty-free articles can be bought. Almost everything is a "buy," but especially watches, shawls, sandalwood boxes, spices, perfumes, embroideries and fans.

British European Airways has six flights weekly from London to Gibraltar including a new Saturday flight which continues on to Marrakech.

Vacationers interested in a brief glimpse of North Africa can take advantage of the Mons Calpe, a car and passenger ferry which plies daily between Gibraltar and Tangier. This popular service enables tourists to set foot on African soil and spend a day wandering about the famous Casbah of Tangier.

Americans Hit The Jackpot In '71 In Holiday Weekends

By MURRAY J. BROWN

Thanks mainly to the perseverance of the U.S. travel industry, millions of Americans can look forward to more three-day holiday weekends beginning in 1971. The federal Monday holiday law, creating four new holiday weekends annually in addition to Labor Day for residents of the District of Columbia, members of the armed forces and all government employees, goes into effect on Jan. 1.

There are no "national" holidays in the United States, but 45 of the 50 states already have passed similar legislation.

The five others — Louisiana, Oklahoma, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wisconsin — have legislative sessions scheduled early in the year and are expected to fall in line, too.

THE FEDERAL law, signed by then President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968, shifted four of the most widely observed holidays from traditional dates to specific Mondays.

Henceforth, under that law, Washington's Birthday will be celebrated on the third Monday in February instead of Feb. 22. (Feb. 15 in 1971); Memorial Day on the last Monday in May (next year May 31) instead of May 30; Columbus Day on the second Monday in October (next Oct. 11) instead of Oct. 12; and Veterans Day on the last Monday of October (next Oct. 25) instead of Nov. 11.

Labor Day will continue to be observed on the first Monday in September (next Sept. 6.).

Several states, however, failed to approve the shifts in Memorial Day or Columbus Day observances.

NOT AFFECTED by the federal or state laws are Independence Day on July 4 which falls on Sunday next year and generally will be observed on the following Monday, thus adding another weekend holiday, and Thanksgiving Day on the fourth Thursday in November for some, a four-day holiday.

Also unchanged are various holidays observed by individual states, such as New Year's Day and Lincoln's Birthday. Both, incidentally, fall on Fridays in 1971 which could mean two more long weekends for many Americans.

The campaign for more three-day holiday weekends was launched back in the early 1950s by the National Association of Travel Organizations which since has changed its name to Discover America Travel Organizations.

The year-long campaign finally culminated in 1968 when Congress approved the bill sponsored by Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill.

Reviews Of New Reading

THE WORLD OF DUKE ELLINGTON by Stanley Dance; Scribner's, 310 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

Dance, a long-time friend of Duke Ellington, achieves what the title implies, the transporting of the reader into the world of Duke Ellington and his band.

There are episodes of the band on the road, in concert, in rehearsal and off duty, with the emphasis always on the Duke's music and the men who play it.

Ellington, a top American composer since the late 1920s, and his featured instrumentalists through the years, Harry Carney, Johnny Hodges, Cootie Williams, Ben Webster, Lawrence Brown, Juan Tizol, Ray Nance, Cat Anderson — the list is long — are interviewed.

Taken all together their reminiscences form a fuller picture of the Ellington years, than if Dance had focused on the leader exclusively.

Dance carries out his stated intent to present different views of Ellington's world "as seen by the inhabitants" and in doing so provides insight into the Duke's works.

Ellington's own comments on music are enlightening: "Music is music and that's it. If it sounds good, it's good music, and it depends on who's listening how good it sounds."

Ellington opposes the categorizing of music, and Dance's series of interviews show that his band, through four decades, has reflected all facets of jazz from early New Orleans through bop.

For special events in Ellington's long career, Chance writes of the premiere performance of "Suite Thursday" at the Monterey Jazz Festival, the band's sacred concert in San Francisco's Grace Cathedral in San Francisco in 1965, and a tour of Latin America in 1968.

There are more than 50 photographs of the band through the years and a selective discography of Ellington recordings, to round out the rewarding book.

The Daredevils In Planes And Gliders

AIR ASSAULT by John R. Galvin; Hawthorn, 365 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Col. Charles T. Stoffer.

This book traces the history of airborne operations, beginning with World War Heinkel and flown to Hit-Vietnam.

Author Galvin carefully details the ever-changing pattern that has led to the air-mobile warfare carried out today. The earlier use of gliders has advanced to the present concept of massive use of the helicopter that has been so effective in Vietnam.

Most exciting for lay readers, however, are the narratives, some based on heretofore unused German, Russian and Japanese documents, that are incorporated into the book.

One of these concerns Otto Skorzeny, the most famous daredevil of World War II.

Skorzeny was personally selected by Adolf Hitler to rescue Benito Mussolini, being held by turncoat Marshal Pietro Badoglio in a lodge on top of 5,900-foot Monte Corno. There were no roads to the heavily guarded, forested area, and the only link to the top from the valley below was a funicular. Intelligence from air photos showed a small clearing alongside the lodge that offered scant hope for a landing attempt.

Four two gliders were released and three crashlanded on the mountain top. The fourth overshot and struck the rocky cliffs with fatal results.

Skorzeny personally overpowered the astonished Italian guards and had Mussolini free in a matter of minutes, without resorting to bloodshed.

His job, however, had barely begun.

Skorzeny put Mussolini, his former guards and his own 12 commandos to work clearing the mountain top of boulders and wrecked gliders. On signal from Skorzeny, German ace captain Gerlach flying a Storch plane took the risk and miraculously made a safe landing. Skorzeny then persuaded Gerlach to permit the heavyweight Benito and himself to crowd into the two-place light plane behind the pilot for a near 6,000-foot elevation takeoff.

Gerlach applied full power, then signaled the commandos and prisoners holding back the plane to let go. He headed toward the edge of the chasm and managed to go into a dive as half his landing gear was separated from the plane by a boulder.

After losing several thousand feet of altitude and barely missing rocky ledges, Gerlach pushed his limping, overloaded plane on to Rome where he skidded to a one-wheel landing.

Mussolini and Skorzeny were hustled to a waiting Heinkel and flown to Hiler's headquarters to celebrate what must have been the most fantastic and daring air assault ever attempted.

There are several other hair-raising operations related, with a minimum of gory details, that make Galvin's book thrilling reading to the non-military-oriented reader as well as to the military-minded.

Old Flash Is Back In New Heroics

ROYAL FLASH by George MacDonald Fraser; Alfred A. Knopf Inc., 257 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Gordon Parr.

If you ever wondered what became of the good old adventure novel with sword fights and dungeons, and dusky damsels in dark carriages, wonder no more — Flashman is here!

This second installment of the "Flashman Papers" is set in the 1880s when the English Empire was intact and her interests and armies farflung. Our hero Flashman was there to cover himself with inadvertent glory and later to participate in a fantastic hoax wherein he impersonates a prince and even marries the prince's intended bride as part of the scheme.

The lady, of course, falls madly in love with old Flash, complicating matters somewhat.

There are kidnappings, flights on horseback, near drownings in castle moats — and through it all runs an historical thread which is almost convincing.

All in all a fine entertainment for a rainy evening with a brandy.

A Marinite Recalls Past Era

THE WAY IT WAS; THE WAY THINGS USED TO BE by Fred C. Shumaker; Vantage Press, 64 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Fred C. Shumaker is known to lots of Tiburon residents and other Marinites, especially former railroaders. None of them, probably, expected him to turn writer. But he did.

"The Way It Was; the Way Things Used To Be" is more-or-less an autobiography, with some of the biographies of Shumaker's two brothers thrown in.

Fred Shumaker will never rank with the literary greats, but there is charm in his account of the three brothers who all became successful, without — as he takes pains to point out — any help from the government. Bits of a more confident, more trusting, and altogether more satisfactory America come to life in "The Way It Was; the Way Things Used To Be."

The Hottest Vogue In Collecting

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF COLLECTING ART NOUVEAU by John Mebane; Coward-McCann, 256 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Art nouveau was one of the shortest-lived art movements of modern times, flourishing briefly in the first part of this century. Its pieces have since languished in attics and the back rooms of antique and curio shops. Now, quite suddenly, it is perhaps the hottest collecting vogue around.

To cater to these collectors, or those who might be induced into the ranks, John Mebane, editor of Antiques Journal and author of a number of books on collecting, has written this comprehensive, well arranged and nicely illustrated (though lacking in color) guide.

It is an interesting introduction to the world of Tiffany and Lalique, and it is a helpful guide to those who plan to explore its now highly competitive byways.

It is still possible to find "sleepers," Mebane promises, even though prices have soared among the better-known name pieces.

An Anthology For The Bikers

THE BEST OF BICYCLING! edited by Harley H. Leete; Trident Press, 415 pages, $995. Reviewed by Gordon Parr.

Here from the pages of San Francisco's Bicycling! magazine is an anthology of the best articles to appear over the years as selected byLeete.

The magazine, begun as a bi-monthly eight years ago to chronicle bicycle racing, evolved into a general interest magazine that is now published monthly.

As might be expected, there is great variety in the topics covered as well as in the skill of the writers. Some of the articles on touring sound like letters from my Aunt Mable, but the short pieces on competition by E. Peter Hoffman are something else — effectively capturing the tactics of racing, the grueling pain, the elation of winning.

If approached as a book, this effort will not be as satisfying as another recent book on cycling, "The Complete Book of Bicycling" by Eugene A. Sloane. Short magazine articles simply do not allow the time or space for development of a theme. But they do permit an editor — and a reader — to select many different topics of interest.

I would suspect this anthology may bring in a few subscriptions for the magazine.

Christmas Customs Around The World

Christmas began nearly two thousand years ago when Christ was born in a stable in a small Jewish town. It was a happening so inconspicuous that hardly anyone knew it.

Today, the Star of Bethlehem is a worldwide symbol of Christmas. On no other day is the family of man so close, one to another.

In every corner of the earth where Christmas is celebrated, it has come to be the most universal and joyous of all Christian festivals.

Actually, many of the cherished traditions of Christmas time, religious and otherwise, are buried in the pagan past.

WHEN CHRISTMAS was first officially established, in fact, the date coincided with the ancient celebration of the sun's rebirth at the winter soltice. The church saw no reason to destroy old customs and so they were adapted to fit the celebration of the birth of Christ. Then each country added its own lore to the melting pot of Christmas tradition.

Travelers around the world can now see many different symbols and customs used to celebrate Christmas. The travel experts of Trans World Airlines, which serves 27 cents around the world, as well as 40 U.S. cities, have collected information on some of the many ways nations and people in places on their routes make this day of joy and peace.

In America's Southwest, particularly in New Mexican villages, people whose ancestors came from Spain light fires called "luminarias" before the front steps of their homes. The tradition is that the fire will guide the Christ Child to their thresholds.

THEY ALSO PLACE candles in their windows lest He miss His footing in the dark.

California's own Yosemite National Park is the scene of a strange procession each Christmas Eve, as bands of men dressed in white capped and cowled costumes to represent the ancient druids march ceremoniously to one of the large hotels, the Ahwahnee, dragging a Yule log entwined with mistletoe.

And did you know that here in California there is a National Christmas tree? It's the famous General Grant giant Sequoia, located in the General Grant National Park, not too far from Yosemite. It was designated the nation's official Christmas tree by the government in 1925.

Throughout California, communities of Mexican-Americans carry on the old tradition of Las Posadas.

ON CHRISTMAS EVE a procession representing Mary and Joseph seeking room at the inn goes from home to home. They are turned away from every house until the home that has been designated for the climax of the Posadas is reached. Here they are admitted with great rejoicing.

A party is held, and gifts are showered on the children.

On Christmas Eve, in the tiny German town of Oberammergau, the mountains are ablaze with light and echo with carols as the town's famed woodcarvers ski down the slopes, carrying flaming torches and singing as they go.

In Italy, the boom of cannons at sunset on Christmas Eve signals the end of a day of fasting. It is here, too, that La Befana makes her rounds on Jan. 6, feast of the Epiphany.

ACCORDING TO legend, she is an old woman who refused to help the Wise Men find their way to Bethlehem. She quickly repented and set out after them. Failing to find them, she still wanders, bringing gifts to good children, ashes to bad ones.

On Christmas Eve, the churches in Spain resound with tambourines and guitars. Every village has its crib, or creche, a reproduction of the manger scene.

In Spain, too, it is the Wise Men who, in exchange for straw left out by children for their horses, leave gifts as they journey to Bethlehem on Epiphany Eve.

For holiday feasting in celebration of Christmas, Greek housewives bake the Christopsome, an elaborately decorated cake.

In France, a cake baked in a log shape has now replaced the traditional Yule log once burned in the family fireplace. Almond candy is a Christmas favorite in Spain.

The Church Ripley Made Famous Becomes A Museum

A unique church in Santa Rosa, once made famous in a Ripley "Believe It or Not" cartoon because it was made of the lumber from a single redwood tree, will open to the public in April of 1971 as the Robert L. Ripley Memorial Museum.

An historic landmark built in the 1870s, the "Church of One Tree" will house the personal papers and memorabilia of the world famous cartoonist and world traveler who was born on Christmas Day, 1893, in the same town of Santa Rosa.

A world-wide search is, now being launched by The Friends of Robert L. Ripley, an organization of Santa Rosa citizens who initiated the museum, for letters and inscribed gifts from Ripley along with personal articles that once belonged to him.

THE CHURCH OF ONE TREE, an historical landmark in Santa Rosa, where famed cartoonist Robert L. Ripley was born, will be the home for a Ripley Memorial Museum which will be officially dedicated Monday. Ironically, the site for the memorial museum was made famous in a Ripley "Believe It or Not" cartoon. Built in Gothic style by a Baptist congregation around 1870, the church was constructed from the lumber of one large redwood tree that yielded 78,000 board feet. Finished with massive buttresses on the outside and heavy beams on the inside, the main auditorium is 60 by 37 feet and seats 500. The parlor is 30 by 20 feet and the pastor's study is 20 by 16 feet. The tower rises 70 feet high.

Man At A Moment In History When Mutation Is Inevitable

BODIES IN REVOLT by Thomas Hanna; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 308 pages, $6.95.

By DON KEOWN

What we often describe as the revolutionary movement today is more accurately an evolutionary process, argues, Thomas Hanna, chairman of the department of philosophy at the University of Florida, in his "Bodies in Revolt."

Man, he says, has developed a culture the primary objective of which has been the control and subjugation of an unfriendly environment.

Now, says the philosopher, man has won that war. He has, with rational analysis and conscious thought as his chief weapons, created a benign world in the form of an advanced technological society.

Thus, the old traditional culture is outdated and no longer appropriate to man's needs. A new culture, based upon the shaping of man to fit the less menacing world he has created, rather than vice versa, must be developed.

Indeed, argues Hanna, this development is inevitable. For this new technological environment, so radically different from the old, is certain to have a mutating influence upon the person or the soma.

Man, like everything else, writes Hanna, has always been subject to mutation or change. But now "we have reached a moment in our history when the achievement of a radically new environment compels us into radically accelerated mutation."

Already, says Hanna, we are seeing the forerunners of these mutants — proto-mutants, he calls them — especially among our youth.

Because they are without precedents or patterns to guide them in behavior, they often appear as "unbalanced improvisers" and sometimes even as "vicious aggressors." Trial and error is their method, out of necessity.

But, claims Hanna, they represent the advance guard of what will become the majority viewpoint, perhaps as early as in a little more than one generation.

The turmoil we are witnessing now is most often strife between traditionalists, defending the old culture — futilely, according to Hanna —, and the restless proto-mutants representing inevitable wave of the future.

As the changed society produces more and more proto-mutants, and then finally true mutants, the old middle class that has been the bulwark of our traditional culture will be muted out, in the view of Hanna and other so-called somatic scientists and philosophers.

What will mark these mutants as so sharply different form their ancestors?

Man will begin to think somatically, Hanna says. He will be liberated from the repressions he has imposed upon himself, and will restore priority to the original sensual self that he has subordinated. He will become more the individual and less the communal animal. He will turn away from labor, once sanctified no matter how meaningless.

The "age of anxiety" will give way to the "age of adaptation." The human order shall have to adapt to the natural order.

While Hanna understands why traditionalists are alarmed by the prospect of such a future, and by its earliest long-haired harbingers, he himself regards the development optimistically.

He exalts: "The new light that now shines back at us from our environment permits us to see ourselves in a new way and also gives us the answer: We need no l o n g e r be sick; we shall now be whole and balanced, and we shall walk the earth at last like the full men we have earned the right to become." Self denial, it seems, will be no longer necessary, or even a virtue. We can be fully happy, fully human, uninhibited and unrepressed; "Translucent egoism ... is honesty in its purest expression."

Hanna's theorizing makes for provocative speculation. Undoubtedly, there are more than a few grains of truth in his broad premises.

As he suggests, Americans most certainly did start to turn a corner with the elections of 1968, even though the tradidionalists or Establishment won that initial skirmish with the so-called revolutionary forces that Hanna designates as proto-mutants. Unquestionably, too, this country, and the globe, will, another 50 years from now, resemble much more closely the thinking of today's young rebels than that of today's fundamentalists.

But as is often the case when concepts deal with such vast and sweeping subjects as an entire civilization, "Bodies in Revolt" probably over-generalizes and over-simplifies.

Has man truly created a benign environment with his technology? Or has he produced a brutalized and vengeful environment? Or is it a little of both?

The atom is harnessed and today our servant. But how long will it remain submissive?

And can man discard his communal obligations in favor of individual freedom in a society that, through runaway population, is forcing him to live in closer and closer proximity to greater and greater numbers of his fellow man?

One suspects that Hanna is basically correct when he terms traditional culture irrelevant and even ludicrous under the new conditions man kind has so laboriously created. But one suspects, too, that Hanna has over-reached himself in predicting with such total confidence an unalteragle future course for humanity.

Mankind has proven himself a most unpredictable creature. And it is in the nature of a mutant to sometimes confound the surest laws of science and philosophy.

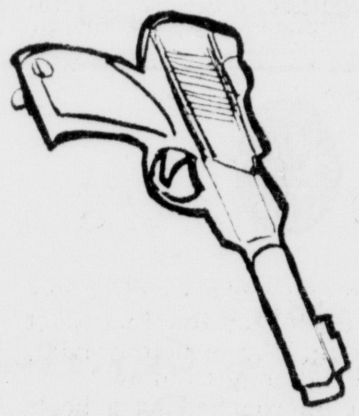
Sleuths & Suspense

FOR D Y I N G YOU ALWAYS HAVE TIME by Sally M. Singer; Putnam's. 192 pages; $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.



Sally Singer has written earlier fiction for paperback publishers, but this is her first hardcover book, and as such a most creditable effort.

It's a spy adventure yarn, set in Israel in 1966, and revolves around Sydelle Evelyn Gold, school teacher and tourist from America, who succumbs to the masculinity of virile young Rudi Kritz, and thus finds herself plopped into the middle of a boiling whirpool of intrigue and danger.

Miss Singer gives you lots of action, some interesting if exaggerated characters, good geography and believable links with contemporary h i s t o r y of the Holy Land.

A weakness? Well, she does seem to be too much influenced by the LeCarre-Deighton syndrome that prefers the cryptic or enigmatic to the simple or distinct. The result is some annoying voids and gaps in her narration, for Miss Singer is not yet a LeCarre or Deighton capable of handling this difficult technique.

Still, one forgives her these lapses in the enjoyment of a genuinely entertaining story.

BOTTLE collecting, we have been told, is one of the fastest-growing hobbies in the world.

We can believe that, and understand something of its fascination, after reading and studying Cecil Munsey's "The Illustrated Guide to Collecting Bottles" (Hawthorn, $9.95)

This is a big, attractive and splendidly illustrated (except for the notable absence of color) handbook by the bottle editor of Western Collector magazine.

Until he delves into this book, the novice has no idea just how wide ranging a field bottle collecting has become.

Along with a literate and apparently authoritative text, Munsey has collected more than 1,000 illustrations of bottles. The range is from ancient art treasures to contemporary Avon and Jim Beam containers, and includes beer bottles, whiskey flasks, Mason fruit jars, perfume bottles, nursing bottles, Luxardo bottles, snuff bottles, wine bottles, medicine bottles and dozens of other kinds of bottles, old and new.

The expert Mr. Munsey also informs you about obtaining, cleaning, restoring, cataloging and displaying bottles, about bottle clubs, and about advertisements, posters, insulators, etc., as related to bottles.

"Bottle bums," as the hobbyists some times refer to themselves, will be beguiled by this big and comprehensive book.

And those not now addicted will find themselves, after being exposed to the persuasive Mr. Munsey, viewing bottles with a new appreciation — as something more than just another potential discard and addition to the planet's growing refuse problem.

A Marinite Recalls Past Era

THE WAY IT WAS; THE WAY THINGS USED TO BE by Fred C. Shumaker; Vantage Press, 64 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Fred C. Shumaker is known to lots of Tiburon residents and other Marinites, especially former railroaders. None of them, probably, expected him to turn writer. But he did.

"The Way It Was; the Way Things Used To Be" is more-or-less an autobiography, with some of the biographies of Shumaker's two brothers thrown in.

Fred Shumaker will never rank with the literary greats, but there is charm in his account of the three brothers who all became successful, without — as he takes pains to point out — any help from the government. Bits of a more confident, more trusting, and altogether more satisfactory America come to life in "The Way It Was; the Way Things Used To Be."

The Hottest Vogue In Collecting

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF COLLECTING ART NOUVEAU by John Mebane; Coward-McCann, 256 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Art nouveau was one of the shortest-lived art movements of modern times, flourishing briefly in the first part of this century. Its pieces have since languished in attics and the back rooms of antique and curio shops. Now, quite suddenly, it is perhaps the hottest collecting vogue around.

To cater to these collectors, or those who might be induced into the ranks, John Mebane, editor of Antiques Journal and author of a number of books on collecting, has written this comprehensive, well arranged and nicely illustrated (though lacking in color) guide.

It is an interesting introduction to the world of Tiffany and Lalique, and it is a helpful guide to those who plan to explore its now highly competitive byways.

It is still possible to find "sleepers," Mebane promises, even though prices have soared among the better-known name pieces.

An Anthology For The Bikers

THE BEST OF BICYCLING! edited by Harley H. Leete; Trident Press, 415 pages, $995. Reviewed by Gordon Parr.

Here from the pages of San Francisco's Bicycling! magazine is an anthology of the best articles to appear over the years as selected byLeete.

The magazine, begun as a bi-monthly eight years ago to chronicle bicycle racing, evolved into a general interest magazine that is now published monthly.

As might be expected, there is great variety in the topics covered as well as in the skill of the writers. Some of the articles on touring sound like letters from my Aunt Mable, but the short pieces on competition by E. Peter Hoffman are something else — effectively capturing the tactics of racing, the grueling pain, the elation of winning.

If approached as a book, this effort will not be as satisfying as another recent book on cycling, "The Complete Book of Bicycling" by Eugene A. Sloane. Short magazine articles simply do not allow the time or space for development of a theme. But they do permit an editor — and a reader — to select many different topics of interest.

I would suspect this anthology may bring in a few subscriptions for the magazine.

SOME NEW BOOKS FOR THE JUNIORS

What more appropriate title for the Christmas season of goodwill could one ask for than Jan Wahl's "The Animals' Peace Day" (Crown, $3.70)?

It's a small fable for small children, all about how the dwellers of the fields and forests come together for a feast to celebrate peace.

All goes well, until. . . . It all winds up in a donnybrook. But from the debacle, the animals learn a lesson. So might little readers.

Much of the charm of the book lies in the appealing illustrations, done by Victoria Chess. There's an old-fashioned quality to the animals — the kind of illustrations one used to cherish in his favorite books about Peter Rabbit and Br'er Fox.

Some other new books for juniors:

Chipmunks are among the most attractive of nature's small creatures and John Hamberger depicts them marvelously in his illustrations for Bernice Kohn's "Chipmunks" (Prentice-Hall, $4.50). Science writer Mrs. Kohn provides some interesting lessons on how these amiable and cute little critters exist. And the total result is a real charmer.

"Albert" (Prentice-Hall) is all about a friendly, adventure-prone bear who lives in London. Alison Jezard chronicles his experiences which include a parade, a football game, a boat ride, an invitation to tea, and a visit from a Scottish cousin. Lots of fun, with drawings by Ted Schroeder.

Goldfish are among the most popular of pets. Seymour Simon has written "Discovering What Goldfish Do" (McGraw-Hill, $3.95) an enlightening and accurate description of the habits and needs of these little dwellers of bowls and ponds. Jean Zallinger has contributed small but pleasing illustrations. Unfortunately, the book binding seems less than durable.

Bells have been a part of mankind's culture for centuries. Elizabeth Starr Hill tells their history in "Bells" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $3.50), a part of the "A Book to Begin On" series. It commences with the Bronze Age and carries to the present, according proper recognition to one of the pleasantest of sounds in a world where unpleasant noise is far more prevalent.

Listening To Some New Albums Recorded For The Christmas Season

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

Ten years ago a major tire manufacturing company produced a Christmas album for its customers and anyone who visited one of its stores.

The album featured established recording artists and the familiar carols and seasonal tunes. It was offered at a low price.

This promotion campaign met with such success that the company, Goodyear, made the issuance of a Christmas album an annual event.

The current album, "Best of the Great Songs of Christmas by Great Artists of Our Times," is a selection of 14 pieces from the nine preceding LPs.

MOST OF THE artists record for Columbia Records, which pressed these special albums for Goodyear. Among them are Andy Williams "Do You Hear What I Hear?", Barbra Streisand "Silent Night", Steve Lawrence "The Night Before Christmas", Percy Faith "The Little Drummer Boy", Doris Day, "Toyland", Mahalia Jackson "Away In a Manger" and Ray Conniff "We Wish You a Merry Christmas".

Petula Clark, who records for Warner Bros. Seven Arts, sings "Happiest Christmas." And Tony Bennett sings "The Christmas Song."

Anna Moffo of the Metropolitan Opera is a student on "Joy to the World" and Isaac Stern's violin is the instrument for "Ave Maria." Another Met star, Richard Tucker, sings "The Lord's Prayer." Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic fill the room with great sound on "Carol of the Bells."

One of the favored carols is the album opener "First Noel," sung by John Davidson.

LIKE THE OTHERS, this album may be purchased from any of the tire company's retail stores at the suggested price of $1.

Andy Williams and his brothers may be heard on another fine LP, "Christmas Album" (Barnaby Z 30095). Most of the songs are seasonal, such as "White Christmas," but there is an excellent medley of carols.

Other recommended albums are "Christmas with Tammy" by Tammy Wynette (Epic E 30343) and "Santa Claus is Comin' to Town," an hour-long program starring Fred Astaire, Mickey Rooney and Keenan Wynn.

"Christmas with Ogden Nash" (Caedmon TC 1323) probably will appeal more to adults, although children will find his verses enchanting. Nash's humor is somewhat biting in the long poem, "The Christmas that Almost Wasn't," which occupies the entire first side of the record. Yet the 24-minute recitation glows with inner warmth as Nash tears away at the commercialism that surrounds Christmas.

The second side is devoted to short poems and Nash's own poetic version of The Nutcracker Suite.

Man At A Moment In History When Mutation Is Inevitable

By DON KEOWN

BODIES IN REVOLT by Thomas Hanna; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 308 pages, $6,95.

What we often describe as the revolutionary movement today is more accurately an evolutionary process, argues, Thomas Hanna, chairman of the department of philosophy at the University of Florida, in his "Bodies in Revolt."

Man, he says, has developed a culture the primary objective of which has been the control and subjugation of an unfriendly environment.

Now, says the philosopher, man has won that war. He has, with rational analysis and conscious thought as his chief weapons, created a benign world in the form of an advanced technological society.

Thus, the old traditional culture is outdated and no longer appropriate to man's needs. A new culture, based upon the shaping of man to fit the less menacing world he has created, rather than vice versa, must be developed.

Indeed, argues Hanna, this development is inevitable. For this new technological environment, so radically different from the old, is certain to have a mutating influence upon the person or the soma.

Man, like everything else, writes Hanna, has always been subject to mutation or change. But now "we have reached a moment in our history when the achievement of a radically new environment compels us into radically accelerated mutation."

Already, says Hanna, we are seeing the forerunners of these mutants — proto-mutants, he calls them — especially among our youth.

Because they are without precedents or patterns to guide them in behavior, they often appear as "unbalanced improvisers" and sometimes even as "vicious aggressors." Trial and error is their method, out of necessity.

But, claims Hanna, they represent the advance guard of what will become the majority viewpoint, perhaps as early as in a little more than one generation.

The turmoil we are witnessing now is most often strife between traditionalists, defending the old culture — futilely, according to Hanna —, and the restless proto-mutants representing inevitable wave of the future.

As the changed society produces more and more proto-mutants, and then finally true mutants, the old middle class that has been the bulwark of our traditional culture will be muted out, in the view of Hanna and other so-called somatic scientists and philosophers.

What will mark these mutants as so sharply different form their ancestors?

Man will begin to think somatically, Hanna says. He will be liberated from the repressions he has imposed upon himself, and will restore priority to the original sensual self that he has subordinated. He will become more the individual and less the communal animal. He will turn away from labor, once sanctified no matter how meaningless.

The "age of anxiety" will give way to the "age of adaptation." The human order shall have to adapt to the natural order.

While Hanna understands why traditionalists are alarmed by the prospect of such a future, and by its earliest long-haired harbingers, he himself regards the development optimistically.

He exalts: "The new light that now shines back at us from our environment permits us to see ourselves in a new way and also gives us the answer: We need no l o n g e r be sick; we shall now be whole and balanced, and we shall walk the earth at last like the full men we have earned the right to become." Self denial, it seems, will be no longer necessary, or even a virtue. We can be fully happy, fully human, uninhibited and unrepressed: "Translucent egoism ... is honesty in its purest expression."

Hanna's theorizing makes for provocative speculation. Undoubtedly, there are more than a few grains of truth in his broad premises.

As he suggests, Americans most certainly did start to turn a corner with the elections of 1968, even though the tradidionalists or Establishment won that initial skirmish with the so-called revolutionary forces that Hanna designates as proto-mutants. Unquestionably, too, this country, and the globe, will, another 50 years from now, resemble much more closely the thinking of today's young rebels than that of today's fundamentalists.

But as is often the case when concepts deal with such vast and sweeping subjects as an entire civilization, "Bodies in Revolt" probably over-generalizes and over-simplifies.

Has man truly created a benign environment with his technology? Or has he produced a brutalized and vengeful environment? Or is it a little of both?

The atom is harnessed and today our servant. But how long will it remain submissive?

And can man discard his communal obligations in favor of individual freedom in a society that, through runaway population, is forcing him to live in closer and closer proximity to greater and greater numbers of his fellow man?

One suspects that Hanna is basically correct when he terms traditional culture irrelevant and even ludicrous under the new conditions man kind has so laboriously created. But one suspects, too, that Hanna has over-reached himself in predicting with such total confidence an unalteragle future course for humanity.

Mankind has proven himself a most unpredictable creature. And it is in the nature of a mutant to sometimes confound the surest laws of science and philosophy.

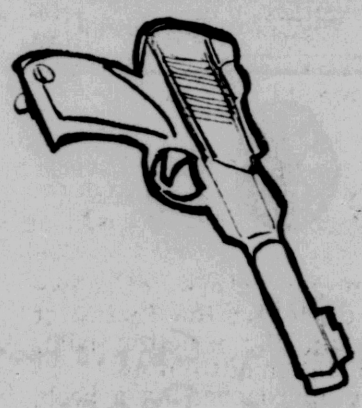
FOR DYING YOU ALWAYS HAVE TIME by Sally M. Singer; Putnam's. 192 pages; $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.



Sally Singer has written earlier fiction for paperback publishers, but this is her first hardcover book, and as such a most creditable effort.

It's a spy adventure yarn, set in Israel in 1966, and revolves around Sydelle Evelyn Gold, school teacher and tourist from America, who succumbs to the masculinity of virile young Rudi Kritz, and thus finds herself plopped into the middle of a boiling whirpool of intrigue and danger.

Miss Singer gives you lots of action, some interesting if exaggerated characters, good geography and believable links with contemporary h i s t o r y of the Holy Land.

A weakness? Well, she does seem to be too much influenced by the LeCarre-Deighton syndrome that prefers the cryptic or enigmatic to the simple or distinct. The result is some annoying voids and gaps in her narration, for Miss Singer is not yet a LeCarre or Deighton capable of handling this difficult technique.

Still, one forgives her these lapses in the enjoyment of a genuinely entertaining story.

BOTTLE collecting, we have been told, is one of the fastest-growing hobbies in the world.

We can believe that, and understand something of its fascination, after reading and studying Cecil Munsey's "The Illustrated Guide to Collecting Bottles" (Hawthorn, $9.95)

This is a big, attractive and splendidly illustrated (except for the notable absence of color) handbook by the bottle editor of Western Collector magazine.

Until he delves into this book, the novice has no idea just how wide ranging a field bottle collecting has become.

Along with a literate and apparently authoritative text, Munsey has collected more than 1,000 illustrations of bottles. The range is from ancient art treasures to contemporary Avon and Jim Beam containers, and includes beer bottles, whiskey flasks, Mason fruit jars, perfume bottles, nursing bottles, Luxardo bottles, snuff bottles, wine bottles, medicine bottles and dozens of other kinds of bottles, old and new.

The expert Mr. Munsey also informs you about obtaining, cleaning, restoring, cataloging and displaying bottles, about bottle clubs, and about advertisements, posters, insulators, etc., as related to bottles.

"Bottle bums," as the hobbyists some times refer to themselves, will be beguiled by this big and comprehensive book.

And those not now addicted will find themselves, after being exposed to the persuasive Mr. Munsey, viewing bottles with a new appreciation — as something more than just another potential discard and addition to the planet's growing refuse problem.

"FURNITURE Upholstery and Repair" is a new book by James B. There's a glossary of upholstery terms. The price: $1.95.

STERLING Publishing Co. has reprinted in a $4.50 edition Helen Morgenthau Fox's "Gardening With Herbs for F l a v o r and Fragrance," written 37 y e a r s ago, and still very much the standard text in its field. It's Time To Get Out Pruning Shears And Go To Work

Most Trees And Shrubs Are Best Shaped While In A Dormant State

Right now, when many plants are dormant, is the time to do the pruning jobs that will not only improve the looks and health of your garden, but also insure the best 1971 crop of flowers and fruit.

There are certain rules about winter pruning that should be kept in mind.

There is nothing mysterious about cutting back plants to maintain plant health, to control and shape their growth, and to encourage a good yield. But, proper timing and proper procedure should be observed.

FIRST, PRUNING tools should be checked for sharpness and efficiency. If they are dull, or unsuited for the job, replace them before you cut the smallest twig. Remember that the welfare of your plants depends on whether you use tools that make sharp, clean cuts with a minimum of bruising.

Don't prune frost-tender material such as Hibiscus, Lantana, Bougainvillea or Eugenia at this time. This would encourage premature growth that could be damaged by frost.

When frost damage does occur, wait until spring growth begins to prune.

FRUIT TREES should be pruned now. Cherries, apples, pears and plums usually need only a light trimming — removal of interfering branches and sucker growth.

Apricots, peaches and nectarines need heavier cutting back. But you can prune away future crops on these, and if in doubt, there are excellent manuals available to guide you.

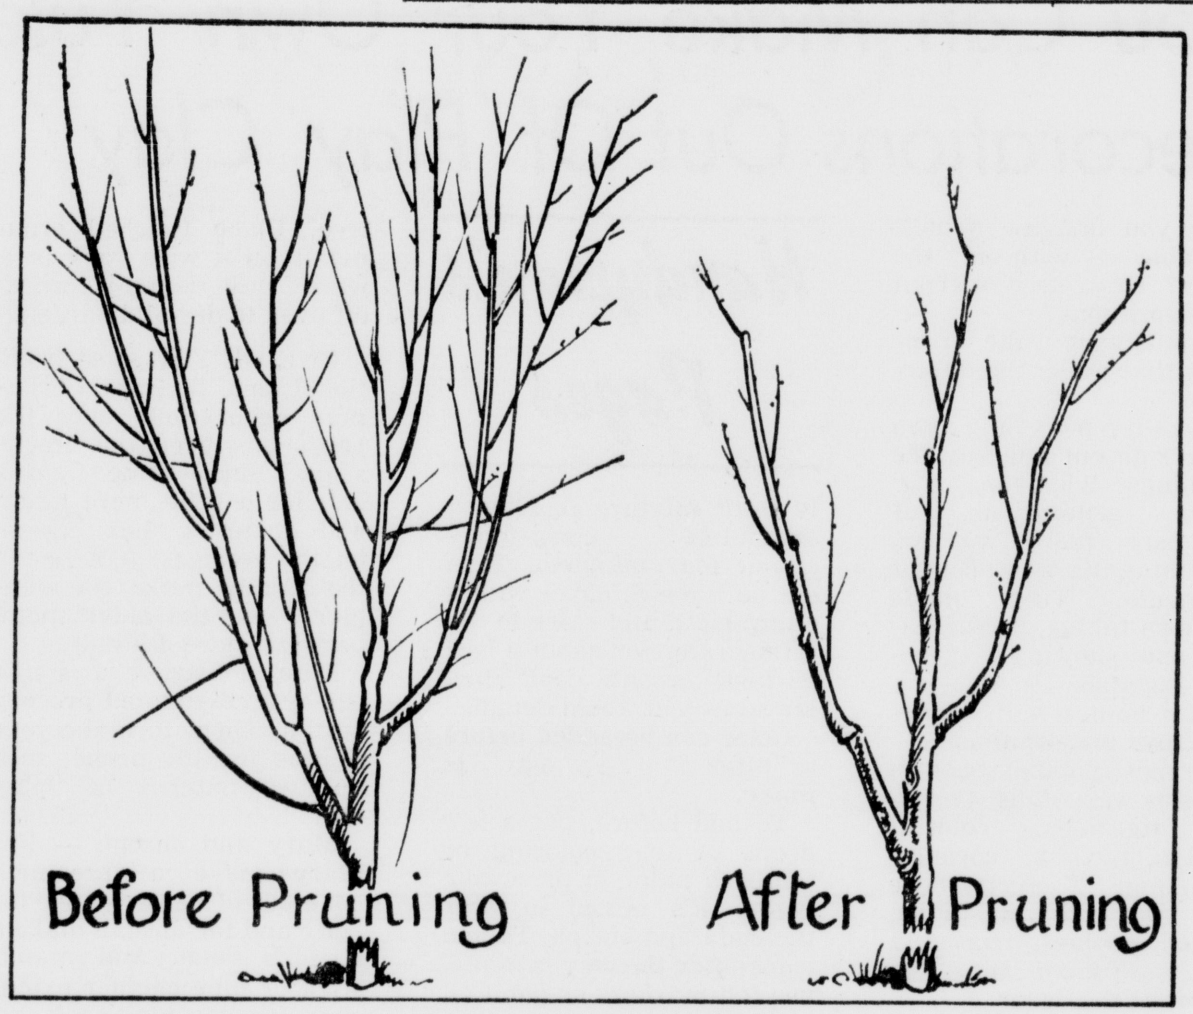
For spring-blooming flowering trees and shrubs, prune them after they bloom. One of the best ways of pruning them is to combine the job with cutting flowering branches for indoor decoration.

DECIDUOUS trees — those which lose their leaves in winter — should be shaped-up now.

Remove any dead or injured wood, suckers, or crossed branches. Seal larger cuts with a pruning compound.

Hardy evergreen trees, shrubs and vines can be given a light shaping now.

Roses? Wait until mid-January.



UNTIL THE TREES begin to bear fruit, the principal purpose of early pruning of fruit trees is to establish a suitable growth pattern. Most fruit trees do best with one main central stem and two branching main scaffolds as shown in the illustration. This is true of apples, apricots, pears, persimmons, almonds, cherries and European plums. Once the main growing pattern has been established, annual pruning becomes a matter of course, intended to produce the best possible fruit crop. Keep nut trees pyramidal, with one main stem and several secondaries. Figs, nectarines, peaches and Japanese plums usually have several branches of equal importance that reach out from a common trunk. Not all trees require heavy annual pruning, and gardeners would do well to consult a nurseryman or a pruning guide when in doubt.

Take Care Of Christmas Plants

Garden Page

Proper care of plants received at Christmas time is one of the best ways to say "thank you" — not only to the person that presented the gift, but to the plants that will provide continuous beauty, as well.

The California Association of Nurserymen offers some advice for caring for gift plants. Simple to follow, the instructions will lead to enjoyable success.

AZALEAS WANT moisture, light and air while inside the house. Keep the plant watered and situated in a light, airy room — as opposed to a darkened area where there is no circulation of air. After the bloom fades, Azaleas may be planted in the shade garden.

Your nurseryman can recommend a planting mixture to use when setting-out the plant. This assures good drainage, which is all-important to Azaleas.

Cyclamen should be watered thoroughly as needed, but permitted to get on the dry side between waterings.

PLANTED IN A shaded spot outdoors, Cyclamen will give continued bloom for months — year after year. From June to fall, keep the plants slightly on the dry side. But, during the rest of the year they need water and feed for the prettiest blooms.

Your nurseryman can recommend a plant food — and how much to use.

Those delightful charmers, African Violets, want to be located near a north or east window, where ample diffused light is provided. Keep moist, but not standing in water. Don't water on a schedule as the plant's moisture needs vary throughout the year. It's easy to overwater and each household varies as to heat, humidity, etc.

THEY ARE comfortable in conditions that humans enjoy.

For best bloom results, have your nurseryman recommend a plant food and follow the prescribed feeding schedule.

Camellias received in bloom at Christmas time may be kept indoors for a short time and may be kept in the original container for an even longer time.

In the container, care should be taken to keep the plant moist. This is true, too, in the shade garden where Camellias are splendid landscape specimens. They must have good drainage, and your nurseryman can outline simple planting instructions to assure this.

BLOOMING Chrysanthemums are available 12 months of the year, and add a cheery note to the yule season.

Enjoy the bright colors of the mums indoors, then after the flowers are gone cut the plants back to about six inches in height. There are five individual plants in the pot and these can be separated and transplanted into sunny garden spots.

Starting next spring when the mums show growth, keep the plants pinched-back to less than a foot tall. After mid-July, let them grow, then dis-bud. Settle for less blooms, rather than the potential hundreds that will appear. Your reward will be bigger flowers next fall when outdoor mums show their beauty again.

INDOOR FOLIAGE plants want to be located in the lightest area possible. A room with drawn drapes isn't conducive to good culture.

The temptation is to provide plenty of moisture, though it should be resisted. Stick your finger into the soil — about an inch deep. If moisture is evident, check a few days later. If dry to the touch at this depth, water the plant.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Snails and slugs are active in cool weather. Stop them with specially-formulated baits which are available in nurseries.
- Traditional Christmas color can be added to your home with blooming plants of Poinsettias. White and pink varieties are also to be found — and add much to your holiday decor.
- Make your first planting of Gladiolus as soon as the bulbs show up in nurseries. Set out bulbs at three-week intervals to assure a succession of color next year.
- Keep your living Christmas tree well watered and protected from the direct blasts of the heater while it is indoors.
- The new roses are showing up in nurseries in bareroot form. Shop early.

You Can Make Your Own Yule Decorations Out Of Play Clay

Handyman's Pages

Can you imagine a holiday table set with only the turkey? Or a tree without any decorations?

Obviously it's the trimmings that make the difference.

But supposing you couldn't go out and buy the trimmings? What then? For earlier generations of Americans there was no such thing as store-bought ornaments. They made their own taking great pleasure and showing tremendous ingenuity in decking their homes with homemade toys and ornaments.

The most popular back in the 1890s were dolls, Christmas figurines, colorful balls, bells, cornucopias. . .and everywhere there was holly, mistletoe, candies, cookies, fruit and nuts worked into the scheme of the decor.

Since everyone from the youngest to oldest was delegated with some decorative duties, a sense of pride and accomplishment was shared by the whole family when they viewed the final results of their labor.

THIS YEAR, why not revive tradition and use family-made trimmings? It will make you feel more Christmasy than ever before.

Many of your decorations can be fashioned out of a modeling clay concocted right in the kitchen. Baking soda, corn starch and water cooks up into an inexpensive and easy to work medium called "play clay" with which all can create to their heart's content.

It has many advantages: it's pleasant to work with and gentle to hands since both baking soda and corn starch are recommended bath additives to soothe skin. Both ingredients are food products which make "play clay" ideally safe for children. Decorations are fireproof (especially important for tree ornaments), and they will not splinter dangerously if they fall and break.

HERE'S HOW to make "play clay":

Combine two cups baking soda (one-pound package) and one cup of corn starch in a saucepan; mix thoroughly. Add one and a quarter cups of water; mix. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture reaches a dough-like consistency (about four minutes). Turn out on a plate; cover with a damp cloth and store in the refrigerator for about a half an hour, or until cool. Then knead as you would dough.

Color can be added before or after "play clay" is made.

To add before, put a few drops of food coloring or tempera paint in the water before it's mixed in with the soda and starch. To add color after the clay is made, use felt-markers or paint on modeled objects when they have dried and hardened.

With mixture kneaded, you're ready to create.

Ideally suited to the talents of the younger members of the family are ornaments for the Christmas tree. Clay can be rolled into little balls, tear drops, angels, snowmen or any other shapes that come to mind. Glitter or colored cord pressed on in pretty patterns add decorative touches. Moistening the clay with water helps trim stick.

A pipe cleaner or a loop of colored cord inserted well into one end of each ornament provides the wherewithal for hanging on the tree. Place finished ornaments on a wire rack in a warm (350 degree) turned-off oven to dry and harden.

ONE OF THE most traditional and favorite Christmas decorations over the years has been the creche scene. Since some figures call for a little more talent and dexterity than others, let the youngest member of the family make the simpler ones, the older members the more difficult.

First construct a stable out of a corrugated grocery carton. Then, to make your figures for the scene, mix up two batches of "play clay."

Mary and Joseph — For Mary make a three-inch cone out of heavy paper for body and for Joseph make a six-inch cone. Add match stick or pipe cleaner extensions for attaching neck and head. Cover cones with clay. Add head, neck and arms. Roll out clay for capes and smooth onto bodies. Set figures on clay platform. When dry, paint and add gold paper halos.

Infant — Shape clay into an inch and a half swaddled figure. Mark wrappings with hairpin. Add head, etching clay to form hair. Dry, paint and add gold paper halo.

Manger — Roll clay and scoop out center to form a three-and-a-half by two-inch trough. Smooth sides. When dry and painted line with cut crepe paper or straw and add infant.

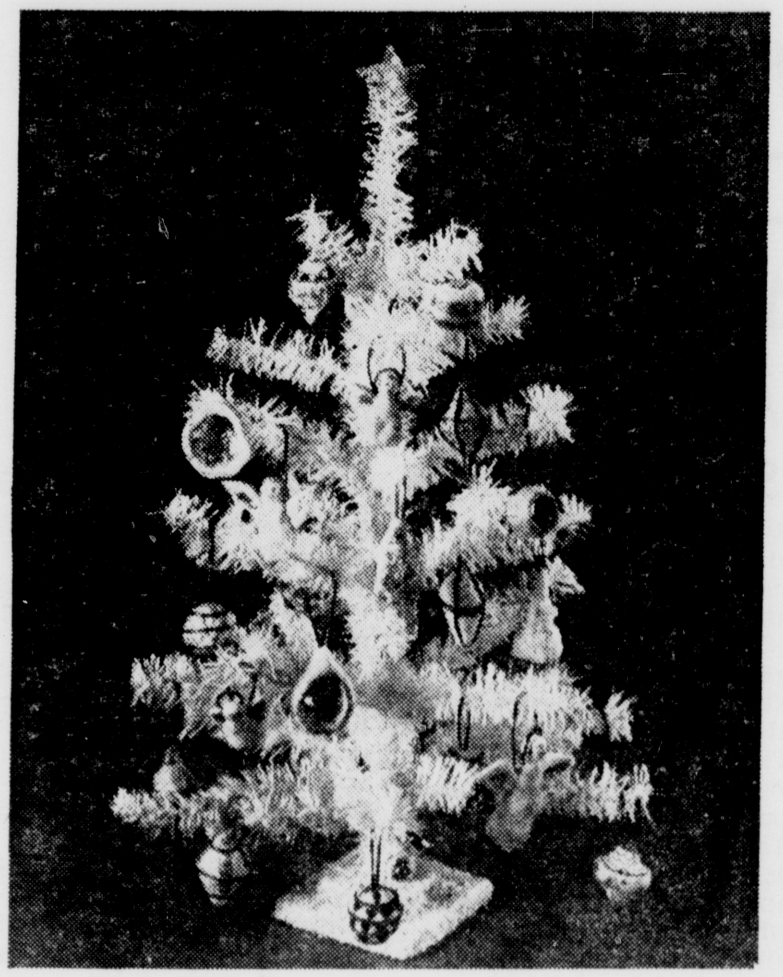
Angels — Form inch-and-a-half by one-inch body out of clay. Add head, neck, wings and arms, folded as if in prayer. For suspended angel, insert a small loop of wire (a hairpin will do) into clay. Dry and gild.

Then fill the creche scene with animals, making several of each:

Cow and Donkey — For a cow, roll heavy paper into a three by one-and-a-half-inch cylinder for body, and for a donkey, roll heavy paper into a two-and-a-half by one-inch cylinder. Add matchstick or pipe-cleaner extensions for head. Cover with clay. Add head, neck and ears, and string for tail. Use four broken-off matchsticks for legs; cover with clay. Set figures on platforms, firming feet with additional clay as needed. Dry and paint.

Reclining Lambs — Shape clay into mound to form body. Add head, neck, ears and tail, using a hairpin to etch curls in surface of clay. When dry, paint muzzle.

AS WITH THE tree ornaments, creche figures should be placed on a wire rack in a warm (350 degree) turned-off oven to dry and harden.



THIS TREE has been trimmed with ornaments fashioned from "play clay" which can be "manufactured" in the kitchen from baking soda, cornstarch and water. It's a holiday fun project for the entire family that brings back the warmth and spirit of Christmas of an earlier era.

THE NATIVITY SCENE is one of the most popular and most meaningful of Christmas decorations. All figurines, the Holy Family and the animals, as well as the manger, were fashioned from "play clay." Under the trees or placed on a table, the creche scene will add an appropriate note to your Christmas season decor.

It's Time To Get Out Pruning Shears And Go To Work

Most Trees And Shrubs Are Best Shaped While In A Dormant State

Right now, when many plants are dormant, is the time to do the pruning jobs that will not only improve the looks and health of your garden, but also insure the best 1971 crop of flowers and fruit.

There are certain rules about winter pruning that should be kept in mind.

There is nothing mysterious about cutting back plants to maintain plant health, to control and shape their growth, and to encourage a good yield. But, proper timing and proper procedure should be observed.

FIRST, PRUNING tools should be checked for sharpness and efficiency. If they are dull, or unsuited for the job, replace them before you cut the smallest twig. Remember that the welfare of your plants depends on whether you use tools that make sharp, clean cuts with a minimum of bruising.

Don't prune frost-tender material such as Hibiscus, Lantana, Bougainvillea or Eugenia at this time. This would encourage premature growth that could be damaged by frost.

When frost damage does occur, wait until spring growth begins to prune.

FRUIT TREES should be pruned now. Cherries, apples, pears and plums usually need only a light trimming — removal of interfering branches and sucker growth.

Apricots, peaches and nectarines need heavier cutting back. But you can prune away future crops on these, and if in doubt, there are excellent manuals available to guide you.

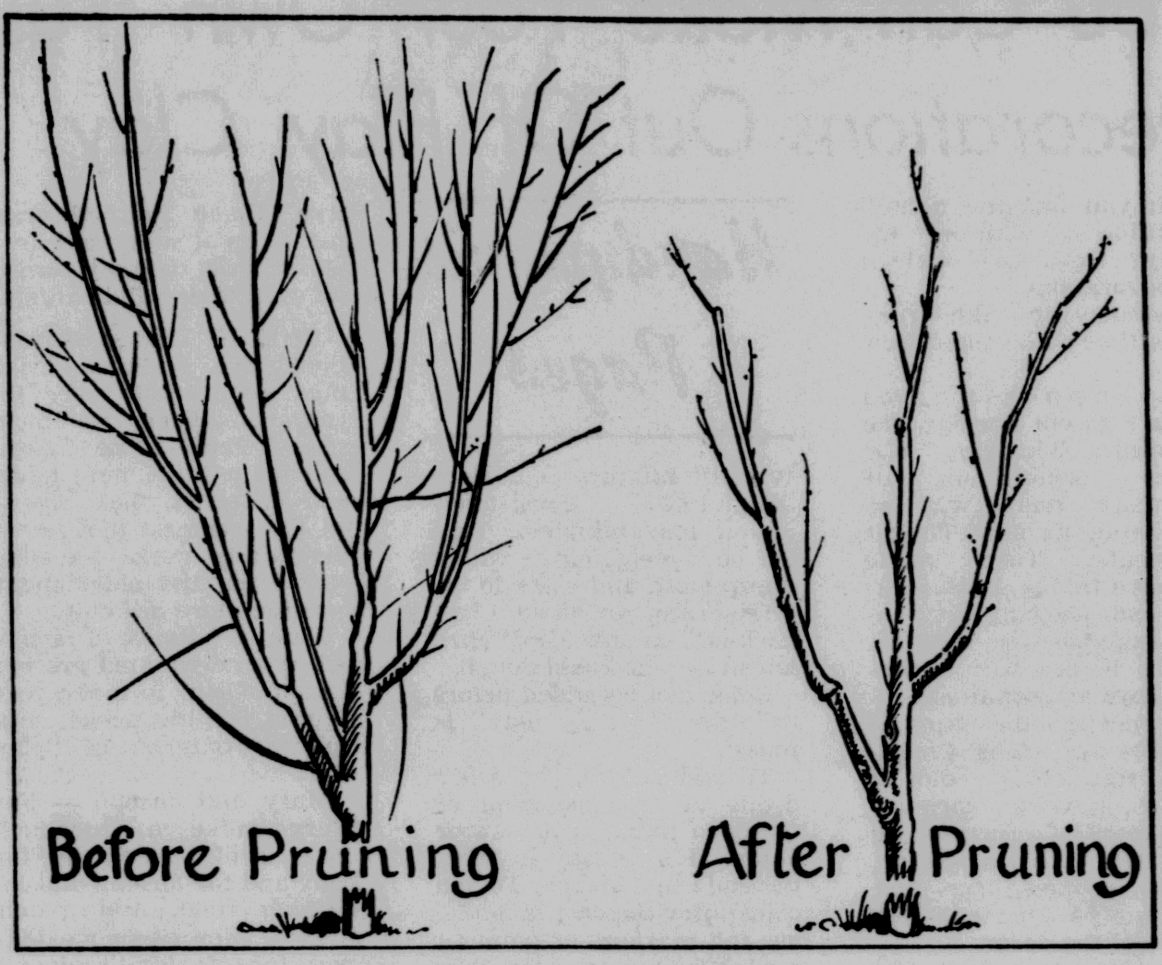
For spring-blooming flowering trees and shrubs, prune them after they bloom. One of the best ways of pruning them is to combine the job with cutting flowering branches for indoor decoration.

DECIDUOUS trees — those which lose their leaves in winter — should be shaped-up now.

Remove any dead or injured wood, suckers, or crossed branches. Seal larger cuts with a pruning compound.

Hardy evergreen trees, shrubs and vines can be given a light shaping now.

Roses? Wait until mid-January.



UNTIL THE TREES begin to bear fruit, the principal purpose of early pruning of fruit trees is to establish a suitable growth pattern. Most fruit trees do best with one main central stem and two branching main scaffolds as shown in the illustration. This is true of apples, apricots, pears, persimmons, almonds, cherries and European plums. Once the main growing pattern has been established, annual pruning becomes a matter of course, intended to produce the best possible fruit crop. Keep nut trees pyramidal, with one main stem and several secondaries. Figs, nectarines, peaches and Japanese plums usually have several branches of equal importance that reach out from a common trunk. Not all trees require heavy annual pruning, and gardeners would do well to consult a nurseryman or a pruning guide when in doubt.

Take Care Of Christmas Plants

Garden Page

Proper care of plants received at Christmas time is one of the best ways to say "thank you" — not only to the person that presented the gift, but to the plants that will provide continuous beauty, as well.

The California Association of Nurserymen offers some advice for caring for gift plants. Simple to follow, the instructions will lead to enjoyable success.

AZALEAS WANT moisture, light and air while inside the house. Keep the plant watered and situated in a light, airy room — as opposed to a darkened area where there is no circulation of air. After the bloom fades, Azaleas may be planted in the shade garden.

Your nurseryman can recommend a planting mixture to use when setting-out the plant. This assures good drainage, which is all-important to Azaleas.

Cyclamen should be watered thoroughly as needed, but permitted to get on the dry side between waterings.

PLANTED IN A shaded spot outdoors, Cyclamen will give continued bloom for months — year after year. From June to fall, keep the plants slightly on the dry side. But, during the rest of the year they need water and feed for the prettiest blooms.

Your nurseryman can recommend a plant food — and how much to use.

Those delightful charmers, African Violets, want to be located near a north or east window, where ample diffused light is provided. Keep moist, but not standing in water. Don't water on a schedule as the plant's moisture needs vary throughout the year. It's easy to overwater and each household varies as to heat, humidity, etc.

THEY ARE comfortable in conditions that humans enjoy.

For best bloom results, have your nurseryman recommend a plant food and follow the prescribed feeding schedule.

Camellias received in bloom at Christmas time may be kept indoors for a short time and may be kept in the original container for an even longer time.

In the container, care should be taken to keep the plant moist. This is true, too, in the shade garden where Camellias are splendid landscape specimens. They must have good drainage, and your nurseryman can outline simple planting instructions to assure this.

BLOOMING Chrysanthemums are available 12 months of the year, and add a cheery note to the yule season.

Enjoy the bright colors of the mums indoors, then after the flowers are gone cut the plants back to about six inches in height. There are five individual plants in the pot and these can be separated and transplanted into sunny garden spots.

Starting next spring when the mums show growth, keep the plants pinched-back to less than a foot tall. After mid-July, let them grow, then dis-bud. Settle for less blooms, rather than the potential hundreds that will appear. Your reward will be bigger flowers next fall when outdoor mums show their beauty again.

INDOOR FOLIAGE plants want to be located in the lightest area possible. A room with drawn drapes isn't conducive to good culture.

The temptation is to provide plenty of moisture, though it should be resisted. Stick your finger into the soil — about an inch deep. If moisture is evident, check a few days later. If dry to the touch at this depth, water the plant.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔ Snails and slugs are active in cool weather. Stop them with specially-formulated baits which are available in nurseries.

✔ Traditional Christmas color can be added to your home with blooming plants of Poinsettias. White and pink varieties are also to be found — and add much to your holiday decor.

✔ Make your first planting of Gladiolus as soon as the bulbs show up in nurseries. Set out bulbs at three-week intervals to assure a succession of color next year.

✔ Keep your living Christmas tree well watered and protected from the direct blasts of the heater while it is indoors.

✔ The new roses are showing up in nurseries in bareroot form. Shop early.

A Divider Wall Will Do Double Duty

It Can Be Practical, And Still Lend Flair

The divider wall remains a practical way to split a room's personality.

Used with taste, it can solve many decorating problems while accomplishing its primary role — that is, dividing a room into separate but related living areas.

Functionally, a divider wall is not unlike a folding screen in terms of the decorating role it is asked to play. Only it provides a much more permanent solution to space handling, says Norma Brown, home design consultant for Masonite Corp.

DIVIDER WALLS come in all sizes, from floor-to-ceiling to low-silhouette walls that are used to break up an entryway, or define a stairwell. Installation is well within the skills of an amateur craftsman.

If full height is used, the divider wall goes up over two-by-fours anchored to floor and ceiling. Over this simple framework, Miss Brown recommends installation of hardboard wall paneling because these panels lend themselves to modular construction techniques that are simple for the amateur to master, and because they offer easy care maintenance that every housewife can appreciate.

Hardboard panels wipe clean with a damp cloth.

BUILDING MATERIAL dealers offer the home owner a wide selection of panels to choose from. For example, Masonite brand hardboard panels come in a variety of woodgrains, decorator colors and neutral shades that can help accent any decorating scheme.

Particularly attractive for a divider wall would be a new Surfstone pattern introduced by Masonite Corp. This deeply textured panel somewhat resembles Spanish Plaster, but the general impression is that of monolithic stone.

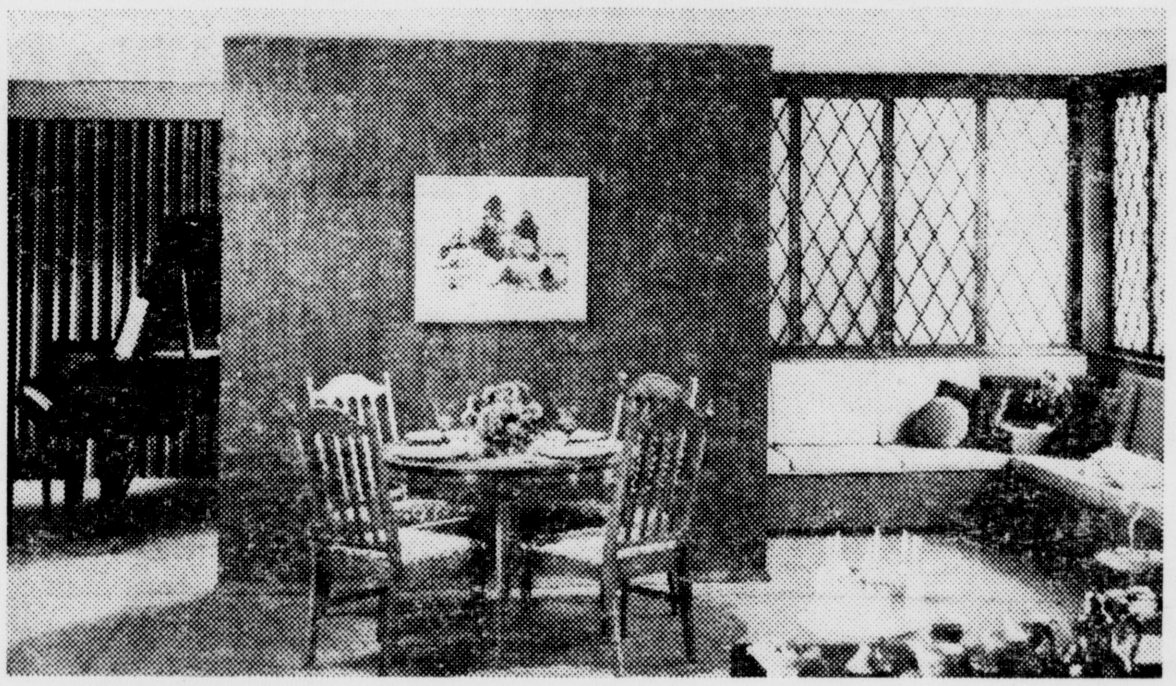
With its off-white tone (depressions are slightly darker), this neutral paneling can provide the perfect foil for furnishings in the Mediterranean traditional or modern motif, Miss Brown says.

WHEN INSTALLING a divider wall, the two-by-four studs should be spaced 16 inches apart and nailed to floor and top plates. Paneling may be bonded directly to the studs by a cartridge-type adhesive.

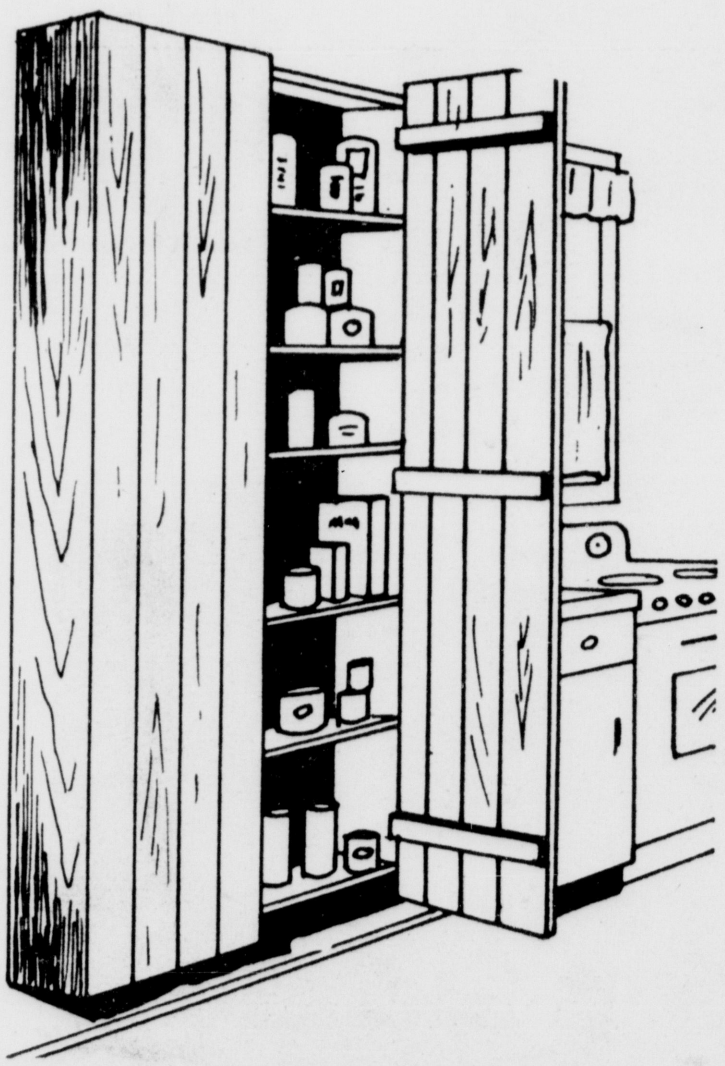
Matching base and cove moldings will give a professionally-finished appearance while "covering up" any minor mistakes in construction.

To avoid sameness, opposite sides of the divider wall can be paneled with different woodgrain patterns or textures. The home owner is challenged to use immagination in selecting the paneling that will work best in her own situation.

For free information on interior wall paneling, Miss Brown invites you to send a postcard with your request to the Home Service Bureau, Masonite Corp., Box B, Chicago, Ill., 60690.



A DIVIDER WALL such as this one of a simple framework covered on both sides with woodgrained hardboard, separating the dining area from the general living room, is a tribute to good planning and design.



A WALL-HUNG CABINET in the pantry will take up little space if built but two cans deep, but will provide invaluable storage space for canned goods. This one was built of tongue-and-groove western lumber boards.
(Homemakers Institute drawing)

Pegs Hold Shelves In Place

Shelves do not have to be ordinary boards stuck on the wall with metal brackets.

With an open-end installation on a board-paneled wall, try using three-quarter-inch dowels set right into the wall, not more than 20 inches apart. Bore into the studs for best support.

For closed-end shelves, for variable shelf heights, drill two or more rows of holes at two-inch intervals up each end board to accommodate the dowel supports. The dowels may be stained to match or contrast with the shelving.

When building a large grouping of shelves along a wall or as a room divider, the vertical supporting boards can be lined with western red cedar bevel siding, installed upside down.

The thick edge of the siding provides an unusual support for the shelves.

Groupings of shelves running the full length of a hallway provide display areas in a normally wasted space.

Using western hemlock, cedar or white pine assures interesting hue and texture.

Toys Made From Scraps

A novel Christmas gift for pre-schoolers is a toy train built of two-by-four-inch scraps from a workshop or new home site. Nail or glue pieces together to form locomotives, flatcars and cabooses, with molding scraps for accent.

Paint the cars, paste on windows and head-and-shoulders brakemen and engineers cut from felt or cardboard, and use large hooks and eyes for couplings.

You Can Make Your Own Yule Decorations Out Of Play Clay

Handyman's Pages

Can you imagine a holiday table set with only the turkey? Or a tree without any decorations?

Obviously it's the trimmings that make the difference.

But supposing you couldn't go out and buy the trimmings? What then? For earlier generations of Americans there was no such thing as store-bought ornaments. They made their own taking great pleasure and showing tremendous ingenuity in decking their homes with homemade toys and ornaments.

The most popular back in the 1890s were dolls, Christmas figurines, colorful balls, bells, cornucopias. . .and everywhere there was holly, mistletoe, candies, cookies, fruit and nuts worked into the scheme of the decor.

Since everyone from the youngest to oldest was delegated with some decorative duties, a sense of pride and accomplishment was shared by the whole family when they viewed the final results of their labor.

THIS YEAR, why not revive tradition and use family-made trimmings? It will make you feel more Christmasy than ever before.

Many of your decorations can be fashioned out of a modeling clay concocted right in the kitchen. Baking soda, corn starch and water cooks up into an inexpensive and easy to work medium called "play clay" with which all can create to their heart's content.

It has many advantages: it's pleasant to work with and gentle to hands since both baking soda and corn starch are recommended bath additives to soothe skin. Both ingredients are food products which make "play clay" ideally safe for children. Decorations are fireproof (especially important for tree ornaments), and they will not splinter dangerously if they fall and break.

HERE'S HOW to make "play clay":

Combine two cups baking soda (one-pound package) and one cup of corn starch in a saucepan; mix thoroughly. Add one and a quarter cups of water; mix. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture reaches a dough-like consistency (about four minutes). Turn out on a plate; cover with a damp cloth and store in the refrigerator for about a half an hour, or until cool. Then knead as you would dough.

Color can be added before or after "play clay" is made.

To add before, put a few drops of food coloring or tempera paint in the water before it's mixed in with the soda and starch. To add color after the clay is made, use felt-markers or paint on modeled objects when they have dried and hardened.

With mixture kneaded, you're ready to create.

Ideally suited to the talents of the younger members of the family are ornaments for the Christmas tree. Clay can be rolled into little balls, tear drops, angels, snowmen or any other shapes that come to mind. Glitter or colored cord pressed on in pretty patterns add decorative touches. Moistening the clay with water helps trim stick.

A pipe cleaner or a loop of colored cord inserted well into one end of each ornament provides the wherewithal for hanging on the tree. Place finished ornaments on a wire rack in a warm (350 degree) turned-off oven to dry and harden.

ONE OF THE most traditional and favorite Christmas decorations over the years has been the creche scene. Since some figures call for a little more talent and dexterity than others, let the youngest member of the family make the simpler ones, the older members the more difficult.

First construct a stable out of a corrugated grocery carton. Then, to make your figures for the scene, mix up two batches of "play clay."

Mary and Joseph — For Mary make a three-inch cone out of heavy paper for body and for Joseph make a six-inch cone. Add match stick or pipe cleaner extensions for attaching neck and head. Cover cones with clay. Add head, neck and arms. Roll out clay for capes and smooth onto bodies. Set figures on clay platform. When dry, paint and add gold paper halos.

Infant — Shape clay into an inch and a half swaddled figure. Mark wrappings with hairpin. Add head, etching clay to form hair. Dry, paint and add gold paper halo.

Manger — Roll clay and scoop out center to form a three-and-a-half by two-inch trough. Smooth sides. When dry and painted line with cut crepe paper or straw and add infant.

Angels — Form inch-and-a-half by one-inch body out of clay. Add head, neck, wings and arms, folded as if in prayer. For suspended angel, insert a small loop of wire (a hairpin will do) into clay. Dry and gild.

Then fill the creche scene with animals, making several of each:

Cow and Donkey — For a cow, roll heavy paper into a three by one-and-a-half-inch cylinder for body, and for a donkey, roll heavy paper into a two-and-a-half by one-inch cylinder. Add matchstick or pipe-cleaner extensions for head. Cover with clay. Add head, neck and ears, and string for tail. Use four broken-off matchsticks for legs; cover with clay. Set figures on platforms, firming feet with additional clay as needed. Dry and paint.

Reclining Lambs — Shape clay into mound to form body. Add head, neck, ears and tail, using a hairpin to etch curls in surface of clay. When dry, paint muzzle.

AS WITH THE tree ornaments, creche figures should be placed on a wire rack in a warm (350 degree) turned-off oven to dry and harden.

THIS TREE has been trimmed with ornaments fashioned from "play clay" which can be "manufactured" in the kitchen from baking soda, cornstarch and water. It's a holiday fun project for the entire family that brings back the warmth and spirit of Christmas of an earlier era.

THE NATIVITY SCENE is one of the most popular and most meaningful of Christmas decorations. All figurines, the Holy Family and the animals, as well as the manger, were fashioned from "play clay." TV NOTES

By JACK GAVER

Anthony Quayle, British star currently in the Broadway smash hit, "Sleuth," heads up a one-hour suspense series called "Strange Report" that NBC will install in its 10-11 p.m. Friday spot as of Jan. 8. He plays a scientific solver of crimes. The new series was filmed in England.

ABC has signed Val Doonican, popular British recording and video performer, to do at least 10 musical-variety shows next summer. The series will originate in London.

CBS will return the "Animal World" skein to the air beginning Jan. 3, showing the half-hour program at 5:30 p.m. Sundays. Bill Burrud in charge as usual.

"Movie of the Week" has been renewed by ABC for a third season, 1971-72. There will be 25 films especially made for first showing on television.

The second "GE Monogram Series" special of the season will be "Wildlife!" booked on NBC at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 5. It deals with the work of the men who fight forest fires.

"New Year's Eve with Guy Lombardo" is a 90-minute show that will be aired Dec. 31 beginning at 11:30 p.m. ABC Films will produce the program for the sixth successive year, feeding it across the country from New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. The band leader and his group have been broadcasting annual salutes to a New Year since 1929, beginning on radio.

Marin Poets' Corner

TABERNACULUM DEI

It was just the angel's word;
Yet, Mary did believe.
And knelt at what she heard—
That her womb would conceive
The Son of God.

And she, a queen, became
The handmaid of the Lord,
And bore all questioning shame,
And felt the piercing sword,
of gossip's accusing nod.

In a stable small beneath open sky
(For all the world to see)
This queen, not needing labor's sigh,
Beheld Him on her knee,
So small; yet God.

NOVATO — ROBERT J. EDDY

CHRISTMAS FANTASY

If we had a rainbow Christmas
The glow would be the same,
Reflecting on snow in Iceland
Or circling the sky over Spain.

If we had a snowflake Christmas
The stars would hang from the sky,
Little children around the world
Would see, and wonder why.

If we had a glass-moon Christmas
Santa could float our way,
His ship filled with happy toys
For a merry, merry Christmas Day

TV NOTES

By JACK GAVER

Anthony Quayle, British star currently in the Broadway smash hit, "Sleuth," heads up a one-hour suspense series called "Strange Report" that NBC will install in its 10-11 p.m. Friday spot as of Jan. 8. He plays a scientific solver of crimes. The new series was filmed in England.

ABC has signed Val Doonican, popular British recording and video performer, to do at least 10 musical-variety shows next summer. The series will originate in London.

CBS will return the "Animal World" skein to the air beginning Jan. 3, showing the half-hour program at 5:30 p.m. Sundays. Bill Burrud in charge as usual.

"Movie of the Week" has been renewed by ABC for a third season, 1971-72. There will be 25 films especially made for first showing on television.

The second "GE Monogram Series" special of the season will be "Wildlife!" booked on NBC at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 5. It deals with the work of the men who fight forest fires.

"New Year's Eve with Guy Lombardo" is a 90-minute show that will be aired Dec. 31 beginning at 11:30 p.m. ABC Films will produce the program for the sixth successive year, feeding it across the country from New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. The band leader and his group have been broadcasting annual salutes to a New Year since 1929, beginning on radio.

TABERNACULUM DEI

It was just the angel's word;
Yet, Mary did believe.
And knelt at what she heard—
That her womb would conceive
The Son of God.

And she, a queen, became
The handmaid of the Lord,
And bore all questioning shame,
And felt the piercing sword,
of gossip's accusing nod.

In a stable small beneath open sky
(For all the world to see)
This queen, not needing labor's sigh,
Beheld Him on her knee,
So small; yet God.

CHRISTMAS FANTASY

If we had a rainbow Christmas
The glow would be the same,
Reflecting on snow in Iceland
Or circling the sky over Spain.

If we had a snowflake Christmas
The stars would hang from the sky,
Little children around the world
Would see, and wonder why.

If we had a glass-moon Christmas
Santa could float our way,
His ship filled with happy toys
For a merry, merry Christmas Day
